SENATE DEFEATS BONUS AMENDMENT

Today

A Conservative Kangaroo.
How to Ride Bucking Horses.
The Old Lady's 2 Cents.
Hitler Marches On.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HEARST RANCH, SAN SIMEON, Cal., April 28.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC drops you at San Luis Obispo, fifty-two miles from here at half past four in the morning, the best hour for a drive along the Pacific.

The ocean slowly changes, with the rising sun, from dull darkness to brilliant, blue light; morro rock changes from dark gray, to shining stone, and the miles of hills from blackness to beautiful, new green.

ALL THE wild animals, scattered over the ten thousand-acre park around this place, turn toward the rising sun. The heavy bison graze toward the light; the gnus, that always look angry, lie down later than the others.

One young kangaroo, grown too big to fit in his mother's pouch, struggles to get back into it, as the car passes close to him. He is a conservative, would probably vote Republican.

CHARLEY EBLEN, who manages horses on this ranch, and formerly rode bucking horses at rodeos for five years, has a theory that should be communicated to our statesmen, dealing with foreign visitors in Washington. Says he:

"It's a question of knowing what the horse is going to do. You have got to ride him, as fast as he bucks. If he gets half a jump ahead of you, you are simply out of luck."

ALL BEING quiet and submissive on this western front, Mother Brittania turns lovingly to her own children and cuts fourteen million pounds off the British beer tax.

Lady Astor, Virginia's contribution to Britain's Parliament, a strong temperance lady, says:

"What the government has done is to suspend the sinking fund, in order to create a drinking fund."

Here it will be suggested that what England has DONE is Uncle Sam.

LESTER BLUETT, the alert young man in the San Luis Obispo coffee shop, where railroad men get breakfast, lived in New York "an awful long time ago, nearly eight years."

"Do you remember the subway station at Lexington avenue and One Hundred Twenty-fifth street, and how the kids used to hang around with umbrellas on rainy days and pick up a few dimes, taking ladies to their houses? Well, one old lady actually made me walk her from Lexington and One Hundred Twenty-fifth to Seventh avenue and One Hundred Forty-fifth, then gave me two cents and asked me if it was too much."

There's a valuable suggestion there, for our European debtors.

DISPATCHES FROM Berlin, received by Universal Service, report that Hitler is to have his way in control of Germany's churches, Protestant and Catholic.

Catholic bishops, according to reports, conclude that "it is futile to oppose the trend of nationalization and they will unite in a proclamation retracting all existing measures in force against the Nazis."

DR. KAPPLER, head of the German Evangelical Church League, announces:

"Work will immediately begin on the creation of a new church constitution. Protestantism therewith begins a new era. The German church is determined to hear the call of the hour and give the united people a united church."

Hitler continues his onward march to absolute power. Born in Austria, he is a Catholic; Hindenburg is a Protestant.

AFTER NEXT Monday, if you have any gold hoarded, exceeding $100 in amount, you are liable to a $10,000 fine or ten years' imprisonment or both. You might call that being REALLY off the gold basis, as regards American citizens. They hope that foreign nations will not be allowed to draw from Washington the gold that is considered too good for ordinary America, but they would not bet on it.

All above $100 in gold should be delivered to Federal Reserve banks, branches or agencies before next Monday, in exchange for nice fresh paper money.

You may hoard that, if you want to. There will always be plenty more where that came from.

ESCAPE TALE SPURS HUNT FOR MAUG

Geisler, One of Two Captured, Details Bolt From Pen

While one of two captured convicts today was telling an astonishing tale of the Western Penitentiary break, the hunt was relentlessly pressed for the two others still at liberty. Those at large are John Maug, gangster-killer, and his pal, Edward Turpack.

Theodore Joseph Geisler, captured with Freddie Prince, the "pock-marked bandit," gave the first story of the escape. They were caught as they were fleeing the city in a stolen automobile.

Geisler said, according to Precinct Detectives Frank Dodson and Earl McDonald, that the dummies found in their cells had been made during the "wash-up" period. This was from 3:30 to 4 p. m. The four did not report for mess call and soon after 4 o'clock they were on the hospital roof.

HIDE ON ROOF

According to Geisler's story the four remained on the hospital roof until dark. There they fashioned the crude ladder used in their escape. Then they made their way to the chapel roof, thence to the great front wall of the prison to lower themselves to the front yard by an improvised rope.

Prince refused to comment on Geisler's tale. Prince said:

"I won't say a d—— thing."

Meanwhile the hunt was pressed for two convicts still at liberty.

Geisler's statements regarding the rope with which the four prisoners slid to freedom were conflicting, police said. Once he said the rope had been hidden on the hospital roof for their use and another time that they had made the rope while on the roof, from materials taken from the weaving department.

WARDEN SKEPTICAL

Warden Stanley P. Ashe, of the penitentiary, was frankly skeptical of Geisler's story as told by police. He said:

"I won't say that it isn't possible, but it isn't probable. I

Squirrel Hill Home Damaged by Flames

Fire which started in the attic of a double duplex brick house at 5956 Phillips avenue, Squirrel Hill this afternoon caused $1,000 damage, according to Battalion Chief J. Dollinger.

Firemen wore gas masks because of smoke. Much of the damage was water soaked furniture in the flats below occupied by Mrs. Flora Cadison, and Mrs. Florence Sibert, the owner.

Ex-Kaiser 'Falls' For Technocracy

LONDON, April 28.—(INS.)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, has fallen for technocracy.

This was revealed today by his grandson, Prince Louis Ferdinand, in an interview with the London Daily Sketch. The prince has just spent eight weeks with his imperial grandfather at Doorn, Holland.

GUILTY WOMAN, KIN DIE IN PACT

ST. PAUL, April 28.—(AP.)—Rather than face what she had termed the "disgrace of serving a six-month term for contempt of Federal Court, Mrs. Genevieve A. Clark, of Minneapolis, juror in the first Foshay mail fraud trial, sought refuge in death with her husband and two sons.

Their bodies, crowded together in a small sedan, were found last night, three days after Mrs. Clark was to have appeared to begin her sentence in jail here.

Carbon monoxide gas, carried into the car by a rubber hose attached to the exhaust pipe, snuffed out their lives.

In the rear seat was found the body of Mrs. Clark, her arms around the two boys, Rowland, 10 and Dean, 7. Her husband, Daniel D. Clark, had placed himself in the front seat after closing all the windows. The motor then was started.

Mrs. Clark was convicted of contempt for failing to reveal her former employment by a Foshay enterprise and business transactions carried on by her husband with a Foshay firm.

Troops Called After Farm Mob Attacks Judge

DES MOINES, April 28.—(AP.)—Gov. Clyde L. Herring today backed up his order for troops in Plymouth County, where a mob attacked a District Court judge, with a proclamation declaring martial law in the county.

Terming the attack on Judge C. C. Bradley "a vicious and criminal conspiracy and assault upon a judge while in discharge of his official duties, endangering his life and threatening a complete breakdown of all law and order," Gov. Herring authorized the troops to work beyond the borders of Plymouth County if necessary.

The troops were ordered to Le Mars on request of Sheriff Ralph Rippey, who was absent from town, he said, when Judge Charles C. Bradley was abducted.

Terming Sheriff Rippey a "weak sister," Gov. Herring declared the sheriff "never can be found when matters of this kind arise." He added:

COURT WARDS ABUSED, QUIZ REVEALS

'Doctors Treat Children Like Hogs,' Says Commissioner

Forty per cent of Juvenile Court wards in Allegheny County are in need of medical attention, and countless others are being subjected to varying degrees of mistreatment, County Commissooners' investigators disclosed today.

These revelations were made in a private hearing before the Board of Mommissioners.

Juvenile Court visitors, the foster parents and school authorities were censured by the Commissioners for existing conditions among 240 cases investigated. Commissioner C. M. Barr declared:

"We will have to make the schools work for us. Some of those school doctors treat the children like hogs."

KEPT IN CELLARS

Twelve instances of children being restricted to the basement and kitchen of the homes and being permitted in the living room only long enough to hear their favorite radio program were cited by the investigators.

Favoritism by Juvenile Court visitors is rampant, the investigators charged, giving clothing and shoes in wasteful numbers to some wards while ignoring others.

Mrs. W. B. Watson, who operates the Holmes Hall, North Side, reported one of her wards received seven pairs of shoes and seven extra pairs of trousers in one month, some of which he sold in the neighborhood, according to statements at today's hearing.

DRINKING CITED

Of 120 homes investigated, 10 per cent were found to be receiv-

CITY MAY GET MAN ON I. C. C.

Appointment by President Roosevelt of a Pittsburgh member to the Interstate Commerce Commission is considered highly probable in well informed political and business circles.

Joseph E. Guffey and David L. Lawrence, who have established headquarters in Washington, are sponsoring the Pittsburgh candidate, whose name they refuse to make public in order to avoid premature attacks against his candidacy.

Pittsburgh representation on the Interstate Commerce Commission is considered all-important by business leaders here who declare that for years this city has been discriminated against in freight rate battles.

3 Players Suspended Five Days for Riot

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP.)—President William Harridge, of the American Leagu today suspended Ben Chapman, Yankee outfielder, and Earl Whitehill and Buddy Myer, of the Washington Senators, for five days as a result of the fracas between the two ball clubs in Washington Tuesday. All three also were fined $100 each.

Constitution Forbids Congress to Abdicate

MR. HEARST in a recent communication to the editor, printed in these columns, called attention to the surrender by the present Congress of its powers to the executive.

Sober and thoughtful men throughout the country must share the disquiet and apprehension which Mr. Hearst expressed in his communication.

Have we a Constitution, or have we not?

Is the fundamental law of the land to be the least regarded law of the land?

Have the members of the Senate and the House been elected by the people of 48 states for no other purpose than to wrap up their constitutional powers and their constitutional duties as well, in a bundle and to deposit them on the steps of the White House?

These are highly pertinent questions. They cannot be ignored. They press for answer.

THE FUNDAMENTAL principle of American constitutional jurisprudence is that the executive, legislative and judicial powers are vested in the separate and independent organs of government.

Since the time of autocratic royal rule in England this principle has been the chief protection of all liberally governed peoples against arbitrary and oppressive acts by those in political authority.

James Madison, in the Federalist, wrote:

"The accumulation of all powers, legislative, executive and judicial, in the same hands, whether of one, a few, or many, whether hereditary, self-appointed or elective, may justly be pronounced the very definition of tyranny."

Daniel Webster spoke to the same effect when he said:

'The separation of the departments of government and the preservation of clear lines between them is the fundamental idea in the creation of all of our constitutions (referring to the state constitutions as well as the federal) and doubtless the continuance of regulated liberty depends on maintaining these boundaries."

The Constitution expressly provides that "all legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States."

AND ONE of the settled maxims in constitutional law is that the power conferred upon the Legislature to make laws cannot be delegated to any other body or authority. Where the sovereign power has located the authority, there it must remain, and by that constitutional agency alone, the laws must be made until the Constitution itself is changed.

Cooley, in his classic treatise on constitutional limitations, places great emphasis on the inability of Congress to delegate its functions.

"The power," said he, "to whose judgment, wisdom and patriotism this high prerogative has been entrusted, cannot relieve itself of the responsibility by choosing other agencies upon which the power shall be devolved, nor can it substitute the judgment, wisdom and patriotism of any other body for those to which alone the people have seen fit to confide this sovereign trust."

This is the law of the Constitution which the President, as well as every member of Congress, has sworn to uphold.

Is it not time that Congress came to its senses and put the brakes down on the reckless frolic of legislative innovation and constitutional departure which is going on in Washington?

Senate Renews Battle Over Inflation Measure

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—The Senate today rejected an amendment to the inflation bill to give President Roosevelt the optional power to pay the bonus with new money if the Chief Executive desires.

The vote was announced as 28 to 60.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—A warning that President Roosevelt was opposed to cash payment of the bonus was tacked up in the Senate today by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, in advance of an impending vote on the issue.

Speaking on the amendment to the inflation measure by Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, to give the President optional power to pay the bonus with new money, the Democratic leader said:

"I am authorized to say for the President that he is unqualifiedly against this amendment because he believes it will reverse the policy of the bill and defeat the purpose he has in mind, of using the new credit and currency to meet maturing obligations of the government."

F. R.'s OPPOSITION

Robison added if the discretionary power were placed in the bill for the President to pay the bonus, the President would not exercise it.

Robinson's speech came as a vote neared after debate on the amendment had veered into the fields of gold and banking and had brought a statement by Sen-

MELLON DENIES 'CONSPIRACY'

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—Andrew W. Mellon, former ambassador to Great Britain and former Secretary of the Treasury, was on record today as denying charges made in the Senate that he has actively interested himself in trying to defeat President Roosevelt's pending inflation legislation.

Mr. Mellon declared yesterday, however, that he did not want to be understood as indorsing currency inflation, proposed silver legislation, proposals to issue fiat money or reduce the gold content of the dollar.

He said there were parts of the administration program such as the gold embargo and continuance of the government's open market policy, which were justifiable and he hoped would have a beneficial effect.

His statement was issued in reply to a speech by Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, in the Senate on Tuesday which Mr. Mellon said charged a "conspiracy" on his part with Senator Reed, former Secretary Mills and others to defeat inflationary legislation.

Maug 'Squealer' Fears Death Revenge

'On Spot' for Foiling Earlier Escape Of Killer

The man who incurred the enmity of John Maug by turning over to Warden John McNeil the magazine in which Maug had written a code message to his sweetheart today pleaded with city detectives to keep him in his cell in Central Police Station until the escaped convict and his pal, Edward Turpack, are captured.

The prisoner, Carl A. Feller, 33, of 211 Grant street, arrested Tuesday as a holdup suspect, revealed. City Detectives Michael Carney and Edward Muldowney said, that it was he who discovered Maug's attempt to send code messages to his sweetheart, Gladys Jackson, also confined in County Jail. Feller, a prisoner acting as "range boss," intercepted the message and turned it over to Warden McNeil, according to the detectives. They quoted Feller as saying:

"When Maug learned I turned the magazine over to the warden, he cursed me and vowed he would 'get me' if it was the last thing he'd ever do.

"I'm afraid he'll carry out his threat. Keep me here until he is captured. If you don't, I'll ask the court to lift my parole and put me back in jail."

Cowers in Jail Cell Begging Safety From Gangster

The secret message was believed by jail officials to contain a plot to escape. It was believed that Maug was seeking to relay information to friends outside the prison through Miss Jackson. The courtroom was heavily guarded when Maug and his two pals were sentenced.

Carney and Muldowney said they were unable to link Feller with any holdups and would explain his predicament to the magistrate.

Pussyfoot Johnson Stricken Speaking

LEWISTON, Idaho, April 28.—(AP.)—Collapsing momentarily from fatigue, William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, 71-year-old veteran prohibition crusader, was unable to finish an address here last night and went to his rooms at the insistence of his companions.

Today, however, he planned to resume his appearances but agreed not to make as many vigorous speeches as during recent days.

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—(AP.)—Leaving on the same airplane for Miami with their ultimate destination Havana, Ann Harding, blonde actress, and Alexander Kirkland, actor, denied they had plans for marriage.

"Does this mean an elopement?"

She replied:

"Please don't print anything like that. I'm going to Havana on a little vacation to see friends. Marriage is absurd."

Miss Harding was accompanied by her secretary, Mafia Lombard.

U. S. AND FRANCE TO CONTINUE WAR DEBTS DISCUSSION

HERRIOT STARTS JOURNEY HOME TO PARIS

White House Reveals 'Understanding' on Trade Problems

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt and M. Herriot, of France, announced today the war debts discussions would be continued in Paris and in Washington.

They announced a "frank and friendly" exchange of views had been held on this controversial issue and expressed the belief the talk "will undoubtedly help in determining the steps to be taken hereafter."

JOINT STATEMENT

The joint statement said:

"The President has discussed with M. Herriot the problem of intergovernmental debts.

"The President has set forth the entire situation from the American point of view and M. Herriot has explained how the problem appears to the French government and Parliament.

"This long exchange of views, which was of the most frank and friendly character, was for the purpose of reaching a clearer understanding of the realities of the situation and will undoubtedly help in determining the steps to be taken hereafter.

"It is the hope of the President and of M. Herriot that these conversations, which have proved to be of value, may be continued in Paris and in Washington after M. Herriot has had an opportunity to report to the French government."

HERRIOT LEAVES

As M. Herriot left for New York on his way back to Paris, the White House gave out another joint statement by President Roosevelt and the former French premier announcing that the United States and France had reached an understanding on the problems of world economic recovery.

This statement said:

"We have examined in particular the manner in which commercial policies should develop for the purpose of promoting rather than restricting international trade.

"We have studied monetary problems and the different methods possible for a co-ordination of central bank policies; the remedies which may be brought forward to attack the menacing problem of unemployment and the stagnation of business by the execution of programs of public works to be carried out by the different governments by such methods as are within their means; the effects of the depression on silver and the different methods proposed to improve its status."

BENNETT PARLEY

The President's conversations with Prime Minister Richard B. Bennett, of Canada, were drawing to a close today also. There was every reason to believe that as a result of these discussions Canada and the United States had come to conclusions that will put these neighboring nations side by side in the economic conference.

Reciprocal tariff arrangements are the basis of the American-Canadian understanding, but how far they will go remains to be seen.

Mr. Roosevelt will ask Congress later for authority to deal with the debts problem. He is ready to consider downward revision after determining the results of the economic conference. But he is going to wait and see what happens there.

Meanwhile, he is sanctioning an easement of the June 15 payments by the proposal in Congress to accept up to as much as $200,000,000 in silver on these installments.

MORATORIUM SEEN

PARIS, April 28.—(AP.)—The French government was described authoritatively today as strongly hoping that a war debt moratorium will be announced at the opening of the world economic conference.

So strong is this hope, a spokesman said, that no decision is considered necessary at present on the installment due the United States June 15.

Reichsbank Chief Sails for U. S. Today

CHERBOURG, April 28.—(AP.)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, took passage today on the Deutschland for the United States to represent Germany in the Washington discussions of world problems.

The German financier visited Paris this week for the first time since he walked out of a meeting there in 1929 in connection with the organization of the Young plan for German reparation payments.

UTILITY DENIES STOCK 'RIGGING'

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—Testimony before the Federal Trade Commission today by Dr. Thomas W. Mitchell, commission's economist-examiner, regarding alleged efforts by the Cities Service Securities Company to "uphold" the price of Cities Service Company common stock in the 1929 market crash, was accompanied by a formal denial on part of the company that it had tried to "rig" the market.

Mitchell, continuing his testimony in connection with the operations of the Cities Service Securities Company, wholly owned by the Cities Service Company, testified that after the beginning of the market break in October, 1929, $138,061,068 was spent in the purchase of 2,372,101 shares of Cities Service common.

The stock was purchased, he said, by the Henry L. Doherty Management Company, of which Henry L. Doherty was sole proprietor, for the account of the securities company. Mitchell said:

"These purchases were not sufficient to uphold the market price, and the price broke from a high of 68⅛ on October 16 to 20 on October 30."

LONDON, PARIS IN LOAN ACCORD

PARIS, April 28.—(AP.)—An accord between the Bank of England and the French treasury, by which a sum between 2,000,000,000 and 2,500,000,000 francs ($80,000,000 to $100,000,000) will be made available to the treasury, was signed today.

The exact terms were to be published tonight. News of the signature immediately pushed down the pound sterling.

Roosevelt Vacation Plans Kept Secret

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—Unprepared to go into President Roosevelt's summer plans, the White House declined today to discuss inquiries addressed to Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, regarding use of that port by the cruiser Indianapolis during a projected cruise by the Chief Executive.

The inquiry was made by Capt. Walter N. Vernou, naval aide to the President.

DEPOSITOR AID BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—The Bulkley bill to speed up payments to depositors in closed banks by broadening the law for borrowing from national banks was passed today by the Senate.

The bill removes a limitation preventing a national bank from lending more than 10 per cent of its capital and surplus to one borrower, if the comptroller of the currency approves.

It is designed to permit new banks organized to take over closed institutions to make large loans to the closed banks for payments to depositors.

This is the procedure being followed by the Treasury in liquidating closed banks.

The mob of 100 men looped a rope about the neck of Judge Bradley, yanked it until the jurist fell semi-conscious, smeared him with grease, crowned him with a dirty hubcap from the truck in which they abducted him from the courthouse, tore off his trousers and left thim in the road with chafed neck and bleeding mouth after he had prayed for justice to all at their command.

The jurist flatly and repeatedly refused the demand that he take an oath not to act on foreclosure suits.

FARMERS MASSING

LEMARS, Ia., April 28.—(INS.)—Disregarding state troops gathering here to "restore peace," belligerent farmers continued their mob rule today when 700 of them assembled on the Ed Durband farm to prevent authorities from carrying out an eviction order issued in District Court.

Other farmers, coming from eight counties, were arriving at the farm hourly. They refused to allow newspapermen to come near the farm and a detail of the overalled men patroled the highway near the house to keep traffic moving.

For 10 days the farmers have gathered daily, preventing Sheriff R. E. Rippey from carrying out an order to evict Durband and his family. And the arrival of state militia today apparently was the signal for them to gather in even greater numbers at the farm.

OMAHA, Neb., April 28.—(Universal.)—Walter W. Waters, 34, commander of the bonus army in its march on Washington last summer, was working today as attendant in a filling station in Omaha.

It is his first job since the disbanding of the bonus army. He has decided to make Omaha his home, he said.

He has rented a three-room apartment, where he lives with his wife, and so soon as his small salary will permit he plans to bring his two children, Betty Jo, 12, and Louis, 8, here from Idaho, where they are staying with Waters' mother. Waters is ambitious to earn an honored place in the community, he said.

ator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, that the administration had erred in threatening to punish citizens who did not turn in their gold and said that if he had $5,000 in gold he would defy the government to come and get it.

Borah said:

"Why should citizens be threatened with criminal prosecution if they fail to return their gold, when the nation is off the gold standard?

"There is no security, no assurance the citizen will ever get his gold back if he turns it in.

"We are asking the people to have confidence in the government. Ought not the government to have some confidence in the people?"

He demanded a guaranty for bank deposits, adding:

"If the government demands that gold be turned in, it is the highest duty of the government to guarantee bank deposits and only through such a program will you ever get such money out of hoarding."

Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, asked Borah if he thought the government had the power to say whether gold ought to be deposited in a bank.

Borah, indicating he doubted it had, answered:

"I think we are proceeding on a bluff and that we have no power in the world except that the people fear to come in contact with the power of the government."

NORRIS JOINS DEBATE

Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, though saying he had no criticism of any government order on the subject, declared the "government, even though backed up by a legislative law authorizing it, has no right to require any citizen to deposit his money anywhere, whether it be gold or any other kind of money."

Senator LaFollette, Wisconsin Republican Independent, said he had two objections to the pending inflation plan, one being it was only "permissive and doesn't provide for any specific inflation."

The other objection, he said, was based on the lack of a provision for "increasing the purchasing power of the people."

There is danger in employing inflation by itself, he warned, adding:

"We mustn't forget the income of the people has been deflated by from one-third to one-half since 1921 and if commodity prices increase what have you done to those on fixed incomes and whose wages have been ground down to such an extent that wages as low at $2 a week for 56 hours are being paid in the textile industry?

"I am willing to take this first step in the belief that the second step, putting people back to work, will be taken."

U. S. OFFICIALS FACE HARRIMAN BANK SUITS

Senate Quiz Assails Tardy Prosecution Of Financier

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—The suggestion that public officials who permitted delay in prosecuting Joseph W. Harriman, New York banker, might be civilly responsible for losses suffered by new depositors in the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, was made today at the opening of the Senate investigation of the case.

Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, author of the inquiry, asked Frank M. Parrish, a Justice Department official, if this point had been considered by those responsible for delaying prosecution of Harriman for false entries in the bank's accounts. Parrish replied:

"At no time."

ADMIT DELAY

Delay in prosecuting Harriman was frankly acknowledged by Parrish, head of the department's criminal division, and William H. Ramsey, department attorney in charge of the case, but both defended it on the grounds that an effort was being made to save the bank.

At the outset of the investigation, Costigan told the judiciary subcommittee making the inquiry, that "the whole episode appears to be tainted with official dilatoriness as a consequence of which substantial losses have been suffered by depositors."

LOSSES CITED

Costigan, who introduced the resolution calling for the investigation, was the first witness before the judiciary subcommittee designated to conduct it.

He said as a consequence of delay in prosecuting Harriman and other officers of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, it appeared "substantial losses have been suffered by depositors." He added:

"Presumably the creditors of that bank would have protected themselves if official diligence had promptly and properly advised them of fraudulent bank practices officially known and long concealed before action was taken.

TELLS OF ORDER

"The precedent thus set, apparently in part by the Department of Justice under a former administration, is too grave in its legal and moral implications and results to be tolerated unless public reasons not yet disclosed may be invoked to shield from censure those who withheld from prosecution and whose official action or inaction trapped the public into the losses of misguided confidence."

Harriman recently was indicted in New York, but George Z. Medalie, district attorney there, said the charges had been withheld for several months on instructions from the Justice Department in order that an effort might be made to straighten out the bank's affairs in the interest of depositors.

Bonus Bill Rooter Ejected by Senate

Weather Conditions.

The high that was centered over the Ohio Valley states yesterday morning is now off the North Atlantic coast, and low pressure is centered over Lake Superior and over Montana. There is considerable cloudiness in the region of the lakes and light rain occurred during last night from North Dakota eastward to Lake Erie. There is also considerable cloudiness over the southern states and light showers occurred yesterday and last night over that section. Light to heavy frost occurred this morning from Indiana eastward to the coast and from North Carolina northward. Over the Central valleys the temperatures are rising.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 2.6 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 14.2; Pittsburgh, 13.2; Dam No. 4, 10.0; No. 6, 10.5; No. 10, 11.2, and No. 12, 11.8. The dams are up.

Waves Goodbye

SALLY BLANE

PEER NOT SURE HE LOVES SALLY

CHICAGO, April 28.—(AP.)—A soft answer—"Oh, I don't think that's true"—was the comment of the youthful Earl of Warwick today to Hollywood's burning question as to whether there was a romance brewing between the earl and Sally Blane, young film beauty.

Charles Guy Fulk Grenville, Earl of Warwick, reached here last night by airplane on his way from the West Coast.

WARDS ABUSED, QUIZ REVEALS

ing welfare relief, two cases were reported where the children received no religious education, 10 where conditions are unfavorable to their moral welfare because of drinking.

At two of the foster homes, the wards were forced to eat by themselves and were given inferior food, the report continued.

DENIED MILK

Returning to their criticism of school officials and doctors, the investigators charged that even where a child was known to be undernourished the schools refused to give him free milk and school dentists permitted cases of serious dental need to "ride along" untreated for four years.

In only two of the homes investigated, however, were the children overworked, according to the findings.

Forwarned of the investigation by the Commissioners, there was evidence the foster parents had drilled their wards in what statements to make, it was asserted.

The investigators were appointed by the County Commissioners to work under supervision of Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, to determine the status of Juvenile Court treatment of approximately 1,800 children in the county. The major part of today's report was confined to McKees Rocks and the Wexford district.

REYNOLDS FUND SETTLEMENT TOLD COURT

First Wife, Uncle of Smith Approve Gift to Libby

CONCORD, N. C., April 28.—(AP.)—Affidavits by W. N. Reynolds and Mrs. Ann Cannon Reynolds Smith were read in court here today, approving a recently proposed division of Smith Reynolds' estate and urging Judge Wilson Warlick to uphold a pre-divorce settlement made in August, 1931.

Reynolds is the uncle of Smith Reynolds and Mrs. Smith was the first wife of the youthful tobacco heir who was mysteriously shot to death last July.

Under the proposed division, Mrs. Smith's 2-year-old daughter, Ann Cannon Reynolds II, and the infant son of Libby Holman Reynolds, Smith Reynolds' second wife, would share equally to the extent of $2,000,000 each in their father's $20,000,000 estate. The remainder would be used to establish a charitable foundation, after "more than half a million dollars" had been given Libby Holman Reynolds.

The pre-divorce settlement was made by young Reynolds and his first wife shortly before she got a Reno divorce. Under it, a $500,000 trust fund for her and another for their little daughter was established with the understanding that neither would have further claim on young Reynolds' estate.

This agreement is now under attack by the Cabarrus Bank and Trust Company, co-guardian with Mrs. Annie L. Cannon, the baby's grandmother.

The bank seeks to have Mrs. Cannon made a party to its efforts to set aside the trust fund and seek an equal division of the entire estate between its ward and Libby Holman Reynolds' baby.

30-HOUR WEEK NEED STRESSED

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(INS.)—Predictions that the federal government will be forced to take over key industries and operate them if the problem of the 13,000,000 unemployed is not solved, were freely made at the House Labor Committee hearing on the Black 30-hour week bill today.

The mobbing of an Iowa judge and the threat of martial law by Gov. Floyd Olson, of Minnesota, both figured in the discussion.

Explansion of the bill to include intra-state as well as interstate commerce will be considered by the committee.

A prediction that the bill when reported would include newspapers and periodicals was made by Chairman Connery after Edward Cassidy, spokesman for the New York Typographical Union, made such a demand.

MORTGAGE BILL REVISION DENIED

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP.)—The Cochran amendment to the $2,000,000,000 home mortgage bill for direct cash loans to home owners was defeated today in the House by a teller vote of 138 to 78.

The amendment was hotly contested, with opposition led by Chairman Steagall, of the House Banking Committee.

Representative Busby (Dem.), of Mississippi, asserted Congress could not call upon the Treasury to finance the indebtedness of small home owners, and that it would be almost impossible to raise the $2,000,000,000 to finance operations if direct cash loans were authorized.

Then an amendment by Hancack (Dem.), of North Carolina, to provide for setting up conciliation boards was rejected, 62 to 32.

Beer for Indians Up to President

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—Whether "3.2" beer is to be allowed on Indian reservations was referred yesterday to President Roosevelt for final decision.

Secretary Ickes asked Nathan R. Margold, Interior Department solicitor, for an opinion on the question. His views have not been revealed, but as a matter of policy, the question has been sent to the White House.

'Triangles' Charged In Divorce Suits

The "other man and woman" figured prominently in three divorce hearings today before Judge George V. Moore.

Mrs. Bernice L. Kincaid, a nurse, of 4617 Center avenue, testified her husband, Lenor Kincaid, quit work two days after they were married in August, 1930. He told her "it was none of my business" when she came home unexpectedly one morning and found another woman in the house, Mrs. Kincaid testified.

The 17-year-old son of Mrs. Genevieve C. Rainforth, of 2707 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport, appeared against his father, John, in her suit in which she testified to hearing John "make a date with another woman over a telephone."

They had been married for 23 years.

His wife, Blanche, liked another man better than himself, Henry A. Ernst, employed by the North Braddock School Board, testified, declaring he was told his job was in danger if "things at home didn't change." Finding another man in his house, he was told by his wife that "she liked the other man better than me," Ernst testified.

Large Bank Defeats ispering' Plot

April 28.—(AP.) Trust Company de- who were anxious to get money out of the city's largest bank Wednesday seemed just as anxious to get it back in again yesterday.

Deposits at the bank's main downtown office during the day told the story of victory over a "whispering campaign" which federal Secret Service agents are investigating.

By the end of the day, deposits were strongly exceeding withdrawals, which officials said had declined to those of normal business or less.

The turning of the tide came after a dramatic statement by Harris Creech, president of the bank, and Governor E. R. Fancher, of the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank.

Creech appeared in the lobby and announced the bank would stay open until 5 p. m.—two hours later than usual—to accommodate those who wished their money.

Fancher announced all licensed banks in Cleveland were sound and have the "full support" of the Federal Reserve Bank.

JUDGE APPEALS TO CITIZENS FOR AID

Patterson Backs Drive Of Hearst Papers Against Menace

District Attorney Andrew T. Park and Director of Public Safety Harmar Denny, Jr., met today to formulate plans for better co-operation between police officials and the District Attorney's office in their war on rackets.

While they conferred, Pittsburghers were reading a warning from Judge Frank P. Patterson, crusading Common Pleas Court jurist, that failure to act now will result in a spread of the racketeer's influence into the financial and business life of Pittsburgh.

FIRST MEETING

The meeting between Park and Denny was the first since Denny superseded James M. Clark as director of the city safety department. Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt sat in on the parley.

The conference resulted in arrangements for Park to turn over to Denny all complaints sent to the District Attorney as to vice and crime within the city limits. This will free Park's 30 county detectives for duty in the county.

It was understood that Denny assured Park that his department will exert every effort to keep the city clean of vice.

CO-OPERATION SOUGHT

Denny, an attorney, is expected to seek a better degree of co-operation between the two offices in the business of trying and convicting offenders of all classes.

Judge Patterson, praising the Hearst newspapers in their drive to awaken America to the danger of the racketeer, today issued this statement containing his conclusions formed following his war on organized vice as presiding Judge of Court of Quarter Sessions last fall:

"The greatest menace to America's social and economic structure is the progressive spread of racketeer activities into the industrial life of the nation.

"That the Hearst newspapers have raised their cry against it is the first evidence of a substantial realization that the national life is in actual jeopardy. It will require such a nation-wide influence, powerful and unafraid.

"But it alone will not suffice to effect frustration.

"The condition needs the determined opposition of the unbroken mass of the law-abiding people, the citizenry in actual array against the racketeer.

"The issue is government by terrorism against government by orderly procedure of vested authority.

POLITICAL SYSTEM

"Pittsburgh, happily, has been comparatively free from the industrial racketeer, because the gentry of that avocation have found the system of political privilege to vice a simpler, more leisurely and more lucrative field.

"But recent activities against this form of racket together with political changes and the abatement of prohibitive restrictions in the liquor laws have tended to make the position of the political racketeer unprofitable and unprotected.

"The district concessionaire and the ward leader can no longer dole out privilege or assure protection. Instinctively, the racketeer, grown fat and arrogant, will turn to the industrial racket.

"The businessman who complacently neglects to interest himself in politics or who fails to lend his support to the elective officer who is in league with the law violator will see himself the victim of sabotage.

SAFETY IN EXTERMINATION

"The only safety lies in extermination. And extermination must begin at the source. And the source of the industrial racketeer is political privilege.

"It follows from this premise that political protection to him who lives outside the law, privilege of vice, the concessionaire who allots such privilege and the officer of government who regards his tenure in office as dependent upon the support of the lawless must be eliminated.

"Otherwise, crime will control government."

PASTOR DENIES KISSING IN BALM SUIT

61-Year-Old Preacher Refutes Testimony Of Peeping Janitor

OMAHA, April 28.—(AP.)—The Rev. Oliver D. Baltzly from the witness stand today denied emphatically he had ever embraced or kissed Miss Gertrude Gruenig, defendant in a $50,000 alienation of affections suit brought by the former pastor's divorced wife.

The 61-year-old minister, former pastor of a large church here, appearing as a witness for Miss Gruenig, a former parishioner, continued his intimate story of yesterday's session. The Baltzlys were divorced at Hot Springs, Ark., in 1931.

Dr. Baltzly gave further testimony to refute that given by Jacob Wigender, former janitor at his church, who had testified to seeing a "swish of skirts" when he entered the church nursery once.

After Dr. Baltzly denied Miss Gruenig influenced in any way his actions towards his wife, he was asked:

.. "Why are you here now?"

In reply he said he had intended to be in Hot Springs, but came here "in the interest of righteousness, truth and fairness." He would have done the same, he said, "to protect any Christian woman of any church who was glad to serve her church and pastor."

Dr. Baltly was questioned closely about a church convention at Ponca, Neb., and about a meeting with Miss Guenig in Chicago. He denied ever being alone with her at either place.

At that time Mrs. Purcell testified:

"I always held his hand whenever I called on him—he does everybody's—it's just part of being a preacher."

U. S. MAPS WAR ON RACKETEERS

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Officials of the Department of Justice who fully appreciate the growing menace of racketeering agree that the time has come for action.

The criminal bureau of the department has inaugurated a thorough survey of the "troublesome problem" under direction of Attorney General Cummings.

The chief difficulty has been the lack of co-ordination between the federal and state governments.

The fundamental objective of this administration in exterminating murder, coercion and every form of violence resorted to by racketeers will be to put an end to the protection made possible by this conflict of authority.

Officials in direct charge of the survey now being made, in response to demand for decisive measures through the Hearst newspapers, today privately expressed the belief that racketeering can be checked by direct action of the government.

President Roosevelt, Attorney General Cummings and leaders in Congress will agree on a program that will eliminate the obstructive part now played by the assertion of state rights.

Illinois Governor Signs Repeal Bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 28.—(AP.)—Gov. Henry Horner today signed the bill calling for the election of 50 delegates-at-large on June 5 to vote on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The state convention of delegates will cast Illinois' vote formally on July 10.

Man, 80, Takes Walk; Fails to Come Home

Police aid was asked today in the search for John Weatherall, 80, of 228 Seneca street, Turtle Creek, who disappeared from his home early yesterday.

JAPS IN DRIVE NEAR PEIPING

PEIPING, China, April 28.—(AP.) — The Japanese occupied Nantienmen, between Peiping and the Great Wall of China, after a day of hard fighting, the Japanese legation announced tonight.

Foreign military attaches expressed the belief the Japanese intend to drive the Chinese out of artillery range in this sector. They do not expect the Japanese to drive appreciably nearer to Peiping.

PEIPING, April 28.—(INS.)—The smoldering dispute between Manchukuo and Soviet Russia that has brought the two nations on the verge of open conflict, was further complicated today by possibility China may become actively involved.

The controversy, which has centered about the Chinese Eastern Railroad, and has already precipitated a war scare between Japan and Russia, took on new emphasis when an official spokesman for the Chinese government flatly condemned the activities of Manchukuo in the fray as "pure international highway robbery."

KANSAS CITY, April 28.—(AP.)—An injury suffered more than a year ago, while performing on a slack wire, resulted in the death last night of Jules C. Gammon, 56, known professionally as "Equillo."

SCHWAB PLANS ANNIVERSARY

CRESSON, Pa., April 28. — Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who started life as a stage coach driver between this town and Loretto, where he now has a magnificent summer home, on Monday will observe the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage to Emma E. Dinkey, a native of Braddock.

Schwab, who last February celebrated his seventy-first birthday, was married to Miss Dinkey in 1883, when he was a struggling young employe of the Carnegie Steel Company, conected with the Edgar Thomson Steel Works.

Observance of the golden wedding anniversary will be at the Schwab home on Riverside drive, New York.

WORLD TARIFF TRUCE PUSHED

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—It is the expectation in the capital that a world truce on tariff changes pending the world economic conference will be proposed tomorrow by Norman Davis, special American Ambassador, at the meeting of the preparatory committee in London.

Secretary of State Hull likely will head the American delegation to the London conference, which starts June 12, although circumstances may alter the plan.

With him, as revealed today in Democratic Congressional quarters, will be his assistant secretary, Raymond Moley, and Chairman Pittman, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

BOSTON HUNTS SACRED COD

BOSTON, April 28.—(AP.)—Massachusetts' sacred cod must be returned sometime today or else—.

Lieut. Inspector Ferrari, of the state police, isn't telling all he knows about the disappearance of the wooden fish from the chamber of the House of Representatives, but he issued orders today that it be returned or "two or three boys" would be in trouble.

Ferrari has been working in the vicinity of Harvard Square since the cod disappeared Wednesday night.

It was the first time in more than 30 years that mortal hands had touched the wooden fish, emblematic of the first industry practiced in this country by the white man.

WOMAN FREED IN KNIFE DEATH

FRANKLIN, Pa., April 28. —(AP.)—Mrs. Carrie George was free today of the charge that she killed Clarence Cherry with a knife at a farmhouse party on January 30. She was acquitted last night by a jury of 10 men and two women.

The trial was one of the speediest in the history of Venango County Court. The jury deliberated approximately six hours. The trial began 24 hours before the jury was charged.

The defense contended Cherry fell on a butcher knife, receiving his death wound accidentally. Bobbie McCammon, testifying for the prosecution, said she saw Mrs. George raise a knife and strike Cherry, but admitted she did not see the blade pierce his chest.

Vows Vengeance On 'Kidnapers' Of Pet Cat

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. A. M. Gasslin is still grimly on the trail of thieves who stole "Fluffy" from her home in Fond du Lac, Wis., December 4, 1932.

"Fluffy," Mrs. Gasslin told the Milwaukee detective bureau, is black, with a spatter of white, and has a bushy tail. She asked that a description of her lost pet be sent to all police cars.

CRASHED PLANE FOUND, 5 DEAD

ROME, April 28.—(AP.)—The Italian Air Ministry announced today the finding of the wrecked Air-Orient passenger plane, which crashed this week in a sparsely settled district of Calabria.

Five of its occupants were dead. Three were alive, but seriously injured and suffering from hunger and shock.

John C. Van Cleef, of Montclair N. J., a Princeton graduate, who was making a world tour, was reported in dispatches from Greece earlier this week to have been aboard the plane.

Jewel Thieves Rob Film Official's Wife

LONDON, April 28.—(AP.)—The theft of about $18,000 in jewels belonging to Mrs. Samuel Hickman, Jr., wife of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Moving Picture Company executive, was reported today to police.

Her husband said the jewels, kept in a case, were taken from their hotel suite last night while they were out. The thief apparently entered and left by way of a window.

PRISONER DIES, PROBE ASKED

Coroner W. J. McGregor has asked for an investigation by the homicide squad into the death of Lawrence O'Malley, 21, of 244 Hays avenue, Mt. Oliver, who died after he was arrested for drunkenness by police from Mt. Washington Station.

O'Malley was taken from the police station to South Side Hospital early this morning a few hours after his arrest. He was pronounced dead on his arrival at the hospital.

An autopsy today showed a fractured skull, and bruises on the hand, ankle, chest and about the right eye.

Deputy Coroner Robert D. Newman investigating the case said he asked police regarding the bruises and whether they had trouble in handling the arrested man, and they replied there had been no trouble.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt today sent to the Senate the nominations of Warren Delano Robbins, his cousin, to be minister to Canada, and Robert H. Gore, of Florida, to be governor of Porto Rico.

GARBO NEARING WEST COAST

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 28.—(INS.) — Greta Garbo, film star, will arrive here Sunday from Sweden on the motorship Annie Johnson, company officials announced.

The ship, scheduled to dock tomorrow, was delayed by fog and storm of the Mexican coast.

Her Hollywood agent, Harry Edington, continued to insist today, however, that he believed Miss Garbo was not on the vessel.

Anyway, her scheduled arrival was the subject of much discussion here. Whether she would wear the latest in frocks or mannish attire was a matter for considerable conjecture.

Word from Hollywood was that she would leave the vessel here and motor there.

Sulu Sultan, 60, Weds Girl of 14

MANILA, P. I., April 28.—(INS.)—The 60-year-old Sultan of Sulu was married to a 14-year-old girl Tuesday, according to information received here today from Davao.

The Sultan previously had reduced his harem to two women because of economic conditions, but optimism now prevails in the Sulu Islands, a correspondent reported.

Old Suwanee River Goes on Rampage

VALDOSTA, Ga., April 28.—(AP.)—The old Suwanee River is on a rampage. The stream that a song made famous is more than a mile wide now—so say reports from Fargo—and still rising.

The Suwanee begins in the Okefinokee swamps and usually is a mild-mannered little river, but recently heavy rains have sent it out of its banks.

Jackie Cooper's Mother To Wed; O.K. With Son

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, April 28.—The pretty young mother of Jackie Cooper, Mrs. Mabel Cooper, will be married Sunday to Charles Bigelow, of Chicago.

Jackie, who in the past looked over his mother's admirers with a critical, disapproving eye, has given his consent. Moreover, Jackie thinks the new parent is a great guy.

The marriage will take place in Yuma. The bride-to-be and her prospective husband will motor to the Gretna Green, where so many wedding ceremonies have been performed.

Mrs. Cooper has won the admiration of the entire film colony for the way in which she has brought up Jackie. The most successful child actor on the screen today, she has kept him from becoming spoiled.

CAPTURE OF 2 SPURS HUNT FOR MAUG

have had no official report of Geisler's story and do not contemplate an investigation of it at this time."

Ashe explained that 64 prisoners in one cell block are released for mess at 4 p. m. by means of a gang-lock, which opens the cells simultaneously.

Before their release the guard conducts a "mess count." The prisoner, however, does not have to respond to his name. A parapet surrounds the lower hospital roof, he said, which might shield persons from being seen.

Police said they would hold Prince and Geisler until tomorrow, when information charging larceny will be made against them by Lawrence Devlin, 131 Arlington avenue, Mt. Oliver, in front of whose home the car was taken about 8:30 last night, several hours before Prince and Geisler were captured.

MAUG'S MOTHER FREE

Mrs. Ada Maug Rothermel, mother of Maug, was released on her own recognizance by Detective Capt. Frank Boyd today after she had collapsed in Morals Court. She will be arraigned tomorrow. Her son and two daughters were held along with Leonard Ginter and his foster father, Walter DeMiller, of 6340 Shakespeare street.

Meanwhile, William E. Gaffney, field parole officer of the penitentiary, made informations against Prince and Geisler before Alderman George A. Young, Woods Run, charging them with breaking and escaping from a penal institution. The two will be turned over to Gaffney tomorrow, police said, and lodged in jail for trial.

The captured bandits were sullen when arraigned before Magistrate Ray E. Schneider. In response to questions, each said:

"We don't know anything."

Prince added:

"I don't know where I got the car."

REFUSE TO 'SQUEAL'

Concerning the whereabouts of Maug and Turpack, police and detectives learned nothing by questioning Prince and Geisler.

Prince, stolid and in general bad humor because of his capture, answered what questions he pleased, his answers to most of them being:

"What's the use of you asking me that? You know I won't tell you."

Geisler, who was serving his time for holdup of a Donahoe store, was disposed to talk a little about his escape until he was told to "shut up" by Prince. He shut up.

Prince's pock-marked face and bandages on Geisler's hand, that was seared to the bone when he slid down the prison wall on the rope, were largely responsible for their capture.

STOLEN AUTO

They were going to leave town, and they drove an automobile, stolen a few hours earlier, into a gasoline station at Western and Allegheny avenues to obtain a road map when they were seen by Patrolmen Bartholomew Flaherty and George Puff. The officers were waiting near the station in a radio automobile watching for a holdup of the station.

The officers followed the car when it pulled out. At Marshall and Island avenues the big police car swerved in front of the fugitives' machine, forcing it to stop. Out leaped the police, their repeating riot guns ready.

Geisler was in the back seat. Prince was driving. Prince came out last, hand in his pocket. Believing he had a gun, Patrolman Puff, a former penitentiary guard, shouted:

"For God's sake, put up your hands. The hammer on his gun is back, and you're going to get everything that's in it."

He put up his hands. His only comment:

"It's too —— —— bad I don't have a gun."

KNIFE SEIZED

From Prince's pocket the officers took a sharp, pointed, handmade knife. Further search of Prince's clothing yielded three pennies. In Geisler's clothing nothing was found.

The sight of the riot guns immediately brought a crowd. The crowd backed away when Patrolman Puff called for a volunteer to manacle the prisoners. Patrolman Albert Ricci, off duty, volunteered. A call to North Side Police Station brought a squad of police.

At the station it was learned from Prince that the fugitives had agreed to separate to make pursuit difficult. He added:

"And you would never have got me if I'd gone by myself. I should have gone alone, but I couldn't leave the kid. I had to stick with him."

And that was all they learned from Prince.

GEISLER TALKS

Geisler was more genial. First, police wanted to know where they had been all day. Geisler told them:

"We been all around—East Liberty, Mt. Washington, South Side, Downtown. Sure, we walked. My last three bucks went for the cab fare from the penitentiary. We were going from door to door begging for food shortly before we were picked up."

Detective Inspector Frank Boyd wanted to know where they got the car. Before Geisler could answer, Prince cut in:

"Don't tell them. Don't tell them no more. What do you want to do? Get more time?"

Geisler quit talking. He said his hand pained him, and asked for medical attention. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital. Upon his return, he and Prince were placed in separate cells, under heavy guard. They were to be questioned further today.

FEARED HIGHWAY TRAP

Later, Geisler admitted he and Prince were driving around preparing to leave town. They hesitated, Geisler said, because they knew the through roads were being watched.

A few minutes after the capture, Elmer H. Snyder, of Federal street, a cab driver, who had previously reported he unknowingly drove the four fugitives from the penitentiary yesterday morning, identified Prince and Geisler at the station.

He said he let two of the four (Maug and Turpack) out at Bates street and the Boulevard of the Allies, and drove the others to the Liberty Theater, in East Liberty, where he was paid off by Geisler with three $1 bills.

Snyder said he picked up the four men at Woods Run avenue and Brighton road. He said he had a call there. The men wore no hats, he said. He heard no conversation among the passengers, and didn't know they were the fugitives until he heard about the escape over the radio, he said.

PRISON GARB

Both Prince and Geisler wore blue denim prison trousers at the time of their capture. Their prison caps were found buried near the prison earlier by some small boys. The remainder of their clothing was of ordinary type.

The plates on the car used by the prisoners were reported stolen in Columbus avenue from Francis B. James, of 409 Jacksonia street.

To Patrolmen Puff and Flaherty will go $150 each, the reward for the capture of a prison fugitive.

The arrest of the pair established that Maug and Turpack are without funds, a fact which, police argue, will make their apprehension easier.

Maug and Turpack, both serving life sentences for the killing of Constable Vernon (Port) Moses, and numerous robberies, are regarded as extremely dangerous criminals.

Throughout the night detectives answered a score of "tips" concerning the whereabouts of Maug and Turpack. They ran each tip down, with no success. Police believe they are hiding in the city. Both state police and the highway patrol have virtually every through road in the state blocked to them, and local police believe the barrier is impassable.

JUDGE GUARDED

District Attorney Andrew T. Park has assigned county detectives to guard the residence of Judge George V. Moore. Judge Moore sentenced both Maug and Turpack.

No significance was attached to the visit at the prison of Maug's mother and two sisters on April 25, two days earlier than their scheduled visiting day. The warden said this was common practice.

According to Parole Officer Gaffney, Maug served five years for robbery and was paroled in 1930. He had a good prison record, Gaffney said, and had never caused any trouble.

Seven detectives, who sped to a mountain cabin near St. Mary's late yesterday, found no trace of Maug and Turpack. The spot is being watched, however, as a possible rendezvous of the fugitives.

James M. O'Hara, 26, of Butler street, arrested yesterday in Harrisburg at the request of Pittsburgh detectives, was released there today after being questioned. O'Hara has been in Harrisburg for several days, the police of that city reported. O'Hara's car was reported seen in front of the Maug home, West Erie street, the day before the prison break.

Butler's Daughter Weds British Broker

SARAH SCHUYLER BUTLER

The simple ceremony took place in the university chapel just across the street from Barnard College from which Miss Butler was graduated in 1915, and across the campus from her home, where she has since been her father's "right-hand man" in Republican politics.

After a wedding trip in Italy, Capt. and Mrs. Lawrence will make their home in London, where since early childhood Miss Butler has always spent much time.

The couple met during political activities having to do with international affairs. Miss Butler has had to resign as Republican National Committeewoman from New York state because of her departure.

Dempsey Dog Bit Beauty, Court Rules

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 28.—(INS.)—A bulldog owned by Mrs. Susan Dempsey, a sister-in-law of Jack Dempsey, bit pretty Miss Claire Hoffman, 17-year-old Los Angeles brunette, on the leg, a Superior Court decreed today in awarding Miss Hoffman $3,000 damages.

Mrs. Dempsey claimed that Miss Hoffman had been bitten by her own dog, a Pekinese, but after the mouths of both dogs were opened in court it was decided the bulldog had inflicted the bite.

Extortioner Jailed In Rosenwald Plot

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—(AP.)—Charles R. Weil, 29, today pleaded guilty to attempted extortion of $100,000 from Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and was sentenced to seven and a half to fifteen years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

Pinchot Goes Home To Fish and Rest

HARRISBURG, April 28. —(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot departed today for his country estate at Milford for a week-end of rest and trout fishing.

GIRL DENIES AID TO PRISONER IN FUTILE FLIGHT

Evelyn Schaeffer, 19-year-old hotel check-room girl, of Carey way, denied in Morals Court today she had supplied clothing to Theodore Joseph Geisler in his unsuccessful dash for liberty after escaping from Western Penitentiary. She was held over.

The bronze-haired young woman told Magistrate T. D. Jones:

"I want it understood Geisler is not my sweetie. I like him a little, but do not love him and as far as sweethearts are concerned, he has plenty of them."

Miss Schaeffer denied seeing Geisler yesterday following his escape. She had not seen him, she testified, since last July, when she visited him in the prison, until last night when she saw him in North Side Police Station.

Capt. of Detectives Frank R. Boyd confiscated a letter written by Geisler to Miss Schaeffer, April 23. The letter, referring to a missive from Miss Schaeffer, says:

"Your letter gave me a new trend—hope, love, longing and dreams, which are my only inspirations."

Geisler told Miss Schaeffer he was "very sensitive" about being a convict. His companions were "poking fun at him," he wrote, because of the letters he received from Miss Schaeffer.

Turner Forced Down In Record Attempt

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—(AP.)—Col. Roscoe Turner, trying for a new west-east transcontinental flight speed record, was forced down 15 miles north of Prescott, Ariz., today, he telephoned Mrs. Turner.

CAPTORS PROMISED PROMOTION

A promotion is in store for George Puff and Bartholomew Flaherty, scout car patrolmen, who captured two of the escaped penitentiary convicts, Freddie Prince and Theodore Geisler, Mayor John S. Herron said.

Today they were taken to the Mayor's office by Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., and Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide.

Herron, after warmly greeting the officers, said:

"Your work won't go unrewarded. We need such men as you to rehabitate the police department. You boys are worthy of promotion when the time comes."

Then the officers departed to continue their work.

Denny said:

"It was a fine piece of work and these officers deserve credit for their alertness and courage."

Magistrate Ray E. Schneider, in North Side Police Court also praised the two officers when, in brief, routine fashion, they testified to the capture of the two bandits. Schneider said:

"Both of you officers are to be complimented on your courage and ability as police officers."

Prison officials disclosed today that Puff, who resigned as a penitentiary guard seven years ago to become a policeman, had visited the penitentiary late yesterday on his own time to study descriptions and photographs of the escaped convicts.

The guards at the prison joked with him over his unusual zeal. Puff replied:

"I'm here on my own time. You never can tell what may happen. I want to be ready for them if I do meet them."

Four hours later, he and his fellow officer had captured two of the four bandits who escaped, largely because of Puff's tallying the appearance of the fugitives with the pictures in his mind of the men being sought.

ESCAPE INQUIRY NETS GOSSIPER

His desire to spread the news of the penitentiary break as told over the radio by the Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter, resulted in the arrest of John Kourses, 49, of 922 East Diamond street, in connection with the escape, detectives disclosed in Central Police Court today.

Detectives explained that Kourses had heard the radio description of the four convicts escaping and ran to the home of John Maug's mother at 116 West Erie street, to tell his friend, Thomas Byrnes, all about it. He was in the house when arrested. Detectives said they were satisfied Kourses had no knowledge of the escape. He was discharged by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

STATE ALLOTS $6,000,000 FOR RELIEF

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(INS.)—Approximately $6,000,000 was allocated today to county relief boards to care for the state's jobless and needy during May by the State Emergency Relief Board.

The board also distributed $550,000 for the purchase of milk for children.

Eric H. Biddle, Philadelphia, was named successor to William B. Rodgers, Pittsburgh, who resigned as executive director of the state board. Biddle, who formerly was assistant director, will continue to receive an annual salary of $8,000. The board took no action on the appointment of his successor.

The allocation of $6,000,000 left approximately $1,400,000 in the fund to care for emergencies which may arise between now and the beginning of the 1933-35 biennium on June 1.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot announced that the "Pittsburgh plan" for distribution of balanced food rations through general distributors instead of the Tarentum community market was not considered. Although the plan was submitted to the board about a month ago, he could not say when its acceptance or rejection could be expected.

Allegheny, $1,223,521; Armstrong, $16,230; Beaver, 33,646; Blair, $67,975; Butler, $16,283; Cambria, $104,715; Cameron, $4,868; Centre, $30,635; Clarion, $14,105; Clearfield, $69,924; Crawford, $25,403; Elk, $30,642; Erie, $89,117; Fayette, $37,464; Forest, $3,240; Greene, $12,495; Indiana, $62,770; Jefferson, $44,510; Juniata, $1,199; Laurence, $1,043; McKean, $17,893; Mercer, $68,520; Mifflin, $19,166; Perry, $10,755; Potter, $21,255; Snyder, $13,860; Somerset, $55,820; Tioga, $34,610; Venango, $70,393; Warren, $21,475; Washington, $181,794; Westmoreland, $214,440; York, $60,835.

Beamish Draws Boos Defending Roosevelt

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—(AP.)—Some boos and jeers interrupted Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth, last night as he read a warning from Gov. Pinchot that Philadelphia faces a financial crisis.

An assault on the Roosevelt administration by Mayor J. Hampton Moore and a counter attack by Former Mayor Harry A. Mackey and Secretary Beamish also marked the annual dinner of the United Business Men's Association.

Pinchot Names Hood Publicity Director

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(AP.)—Appointment of John R. Hood, of Harrisburg as director of publicity in the office of Gov. Pinchot and of general publicity for the state government was announced by the Governor today.

Hood, director of the bureau of publications since 1931, will continue to head that department.

'Editor and Publisher' Pays W. R. Hearst Tribute On Seventieth Birthday

William Randolph Hearst will celebrate his seventieth birthday tomorrow. Commenting on the event, under the heading "Mr. Hearst's Seventieth Milestone," Editor and Publisher said, in its issue of April 22:

On Saturday, William Randolph Hearst will celebrate the seventieth anniversary of his birth—April 29, 1863. Neither here nor abroad is there a comparable record in journalistic achievement. So well known to the newspaper-reading and making public is Mr. Hearst's success story that to repeat it here would be to carry coals to New Castle.

The gentleman is reported in excellent health, at his San Simeon ranch, in California. Today, as during the 46 years that have intervened since he received from his father the moribund San Francisco Examiner, which he quickly converted into a lively and successful newspaper, Mr. Hearst has never narrowed his original vision upon the American journalistic scene, nor relaxed his personal grasp upon his newspapers, magazines and services. He works today with the same loving zest and professional pride that animated him and made his name the wonder of newspaperdom nearly a half century ago. Now, as in the beginning, he studies the news situation from hour to hour, frequently writing the best Hearst matter that is ever seen in any Hearst medium. No important detail of operation is neglected by him. His far-flung staff responds personally to him.

Senator George Hearst left an estate worth $20,000,000, but his son has been a tireless worker to his seventieth year, and no doubt will continue these life practices. Few men are so well preserved, in body and mind. His associates tell us they have noted no sign of relaxation, due, of course, to health and a flaming spirit that glories in accomplishment.

Mr. Hearst possesses 22 morning or evening newspapers, 17 Sunday newspapers, eight national magazines, three English magazines, two telegraph news services and a group of syndicates, services, advertising and radio enterprises with world-wide ramifications.

Every enterprise bearing his name also bears the distinctive hall-mark of his original conceptions in journalism, ranging from editorial expression, which is everywhere recognized as his own, to style in typography and methods in printing and distribution which were largely creatures of his amazingly fertile mind.

We have no vain thought of encompassing the range of Mr. Hearst's career in this statement, but rather wish to direct the attention of the craft to his forthcoming birthday, meantime wishing him continued health and increasing power. Newspaperdom has much to be grateful for in Mr. Hearst's activity, past, present and future. On countless occasions his tower has been a beacon directing the course of the whole fraternity. His independence has not waned, rather has expanded. No man has ever recognized newspaper talent more generously than he, held firmer faith in the press and its legions, clung more tenaciously to original concepts of service to the nation, and no man that Mr. Hearst has ever employed, during 46 years, has equalled him in the essential qualities and aptitudes that make for successful editing and publishing. In recognition of such leadership we do not doubt that Mr. Hearst will be showered with appreciative greetings from newspapermen the world around.

BEER CONTROL BILL PUSHED

HARRISBURG, April 28—(AP.)—Beer control legislation had been switched to the House today, with a strong Senate vote behind the Pinchot-Republican organization plan to let county treasurers license distributors.

Opponents who held for licensing by judges, stepped aside as the Senate gave the John J. McClure bill a 35 to 8 send-off yesterday.

The House took up the move for harmony, approved the measure on first reading and made final action possible for next Tuesday.

The James H. McClure beer tax bill comes out in the Senate next week, providing a levy of $1.24 a barrel or half a cent a bottle on 3.2 beverages, to be paid by brewers.

MARTIN SCORES PINCHOT ON PAY

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(AP.)—Gen. Edward Martin's "swan song" to his employes in the State Treasury Department assumes the proportions of an attack on Gov. Pinchot for criticizing the salary increases paid Treasury employes.

Martin retires next Monday as State Treasurer.

Saying farewell to subordinates yesterday, Martin, who also is the Republican state chairman, asserted that activities of the State Emergency Relief Board have loaded more work on his department and declared "these increases were absolutely and fairly due the men and women involved."

He added the increases did not reach the low level of salaries effective in the Governor's office, and declared "the Governor can and does call upon departments under him for men and women to do the work of his office."

9 SCOTTSBORO BOYS IN CELLS AFTER MUTINY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 28.—(AP.)—The nine Negro defendants in the "Scottsboro case" were returned to their cells at 11 a. m. today after a promise to Warden F. L. Erwin that they would cause no more trouble and would pay for any damage caused.

The Negroes had been locked in the day room in which they were placed yesterday for exercise and which they refused to leave after sending out a printed cardboard "freedom for the Scottsboro boys" carrying their demands for better treatment.

Warden Erwin confined his remarks to a simple statement that they had voluntarily returned to their cells with promises to be tractable.

The Negroes had armed themselves with pieces of iron ripped from plumbing and lighting fixtures in the day room and offered to pay for this damage.

TWO HELD HERE IN N. Y. HOLDUP

The kidnaping and robbery of two messengers of $11,000 in New York was reported solved today by two Pittsburgh detectives as Sidney Nagoshiner and Harry Berg, both of New York, arrested here Wednesday, were to be turned over to Detective Thomas Lillis, of New York.

Nagoshiner confessed he and two other men held up the messengers of Littman Brothers Clothing Company, in Forty-second street, near Fifth avenue, March 25, according to Lieut. of Detectives Frank Ferris and City Detective Robert Carroll.

Nagoshiner told them, Ferris said, that Berg had hired the automobile be used in the stickup.

The two were arrested charged with gambling in a Pittsburgh hotel.

HEARING SET ON RULING TO FREE KILLER

By EDWARD MARTIN

Universal Service.

BOSTON, April 28.—Hearing on the appeal of the decision of Federal Judge Lowell in freeing George Crawford, Negro, wanted in Virginia for the murder of two white women, has been set for May 22 by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The hearing will be the first step in a battle which will be carried to the United States Supreme Court for a final ruling of vital importance to Southern states which do not permit Negroes to serve on juries. It also will serve as a precedent for the famous Scottsboro Negroes case in Alabama.

Assistant Attorney General Bacigalupo took the appeal from Judge Lowell's decision. At the same time William G. Thompson, noted lawyer and former counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, entered the case in the interests of Judge Lowell.

INDICTED AS SLAYER

Crawford is under indictment in Virginia for the murder of Mrs. Agnes B. Isley, sportswoman, of Middleburg, Va., and her maid, Mrs. Nina Buckley. The women were found slain in a cottage on the Isley estate in January, 1932.

When Gov. Ely, of this state, granted extradition, Crawford's case was taken before Judge Lowell and a writ of habeas corpus asked on the ground that Negroes are excluded from juries in Virginia and that Crawford would be deprived of his constitutional rights under the Fourteenth Amendment.

Judge Lowell granted the writ, declaring it would be useless to send Crawford to Virginia for trial when the Supreme Court would overrule a verdict.

DECISION ATTACKED

RICHMOND, Va., April 28.—(Universal.)—Virginia, incensed at the action of Judge Lowell, of Boston, in refusing to honor extradition of George Crawford, alleged slayer of two white women, today moved to upset the decision.

The attorney general's office will participate in the appeal of Judge Lowell's ruling and will fight the case through the Supreme Court.

Stokowski Quest Includes Trip Up Cliff in Basket

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—(AP.)—To study almost unknown forms of Byzantine music, Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, is to take a strange trip soon—including a ride up a cliff in a basket to a monastery on the shore of the Aegean Sea.

Having sought unusual music in many of the world's far places, the blond and modernistic maestro leaves next week for Turkey to pursue his latest search.

The climax of his adventure will come the day he is hauled in a basket up the precipitous cliff on which the monastery of the monks of Athos is perched. These monks have for centuries perpetuated Byzantine art and culture, and Stokowski has obtained permission to study the rare books in their libraries.

Impeachment Proceedings Strike Snag in House

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(INS.)—An unexpected snag in consideration of the impeachment resolution of Federal Judge James A. Lowell, of Massachusetts, was struck today by the House Judiciary Committee because of the restricted ground upon which Representative Smith (Dem.), of Virginia, based his impeachment.

Primarily the impeachment is based on Judge Lowell freeing George Crawford, a Negro indicted for murder in Virginia, to which crime Crawford had confessed. The decision has been appealed, and action on the impeachment may be delayed until the Circuit Court of Appeals acts in the case.

Herron Proclaims Child Health Day

A proclamation issued by Mayor John S. Herron designates May 1 as Child Health Day. In his proclamation the Mayor requests co-operation of all agencies in promoting child health.

SKATER BORDEN WEDS EX-WIFE

LONDON, April 28.—(INS.)—A marriage which broke up in the Reno divorce courts last year was restored today when Gail Borden, II, champion figure skater, was remarried at Prince's Row registry office to the former Margaret Henry, of Wayne, Pa.

The Borden's decided to remarry when Mrs. Borden visited the hotel here where her husband was staying and confessed she had made a "foolish mistake" by demanding the divorce.

RITES TO MARK 1ST MASS HERE

Services commemorating the one hundred and seventy-ninth anniversary of the first mass celebrated in Pittsburgh in 1754 will be held Sunday morning in St. Mary of Mercy Church, Ferry street, at 8:10 daylight saving time followed by a breakfast sponsored by the Knights of Columbus in the Mayfair Hotel.

An address, "The Oxford Movement," will be given at the breakfast by the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parish schools.

The lowered price on these coats, does not one whit reduce their attractiveness and usefulness for dressy wear now and throughout the summer on cool days and evenings.

If there is such a thing as fabrics that give one a delight in wearing them, these are the fabrics, weaves of distinction, the finest of their kind. And the trimming furs match them in quality . . . beautiful grades of light-colored fox, white ermine, kolinsky, Jap mink and Russian lamb . . . Choice of black, navy and light shades.

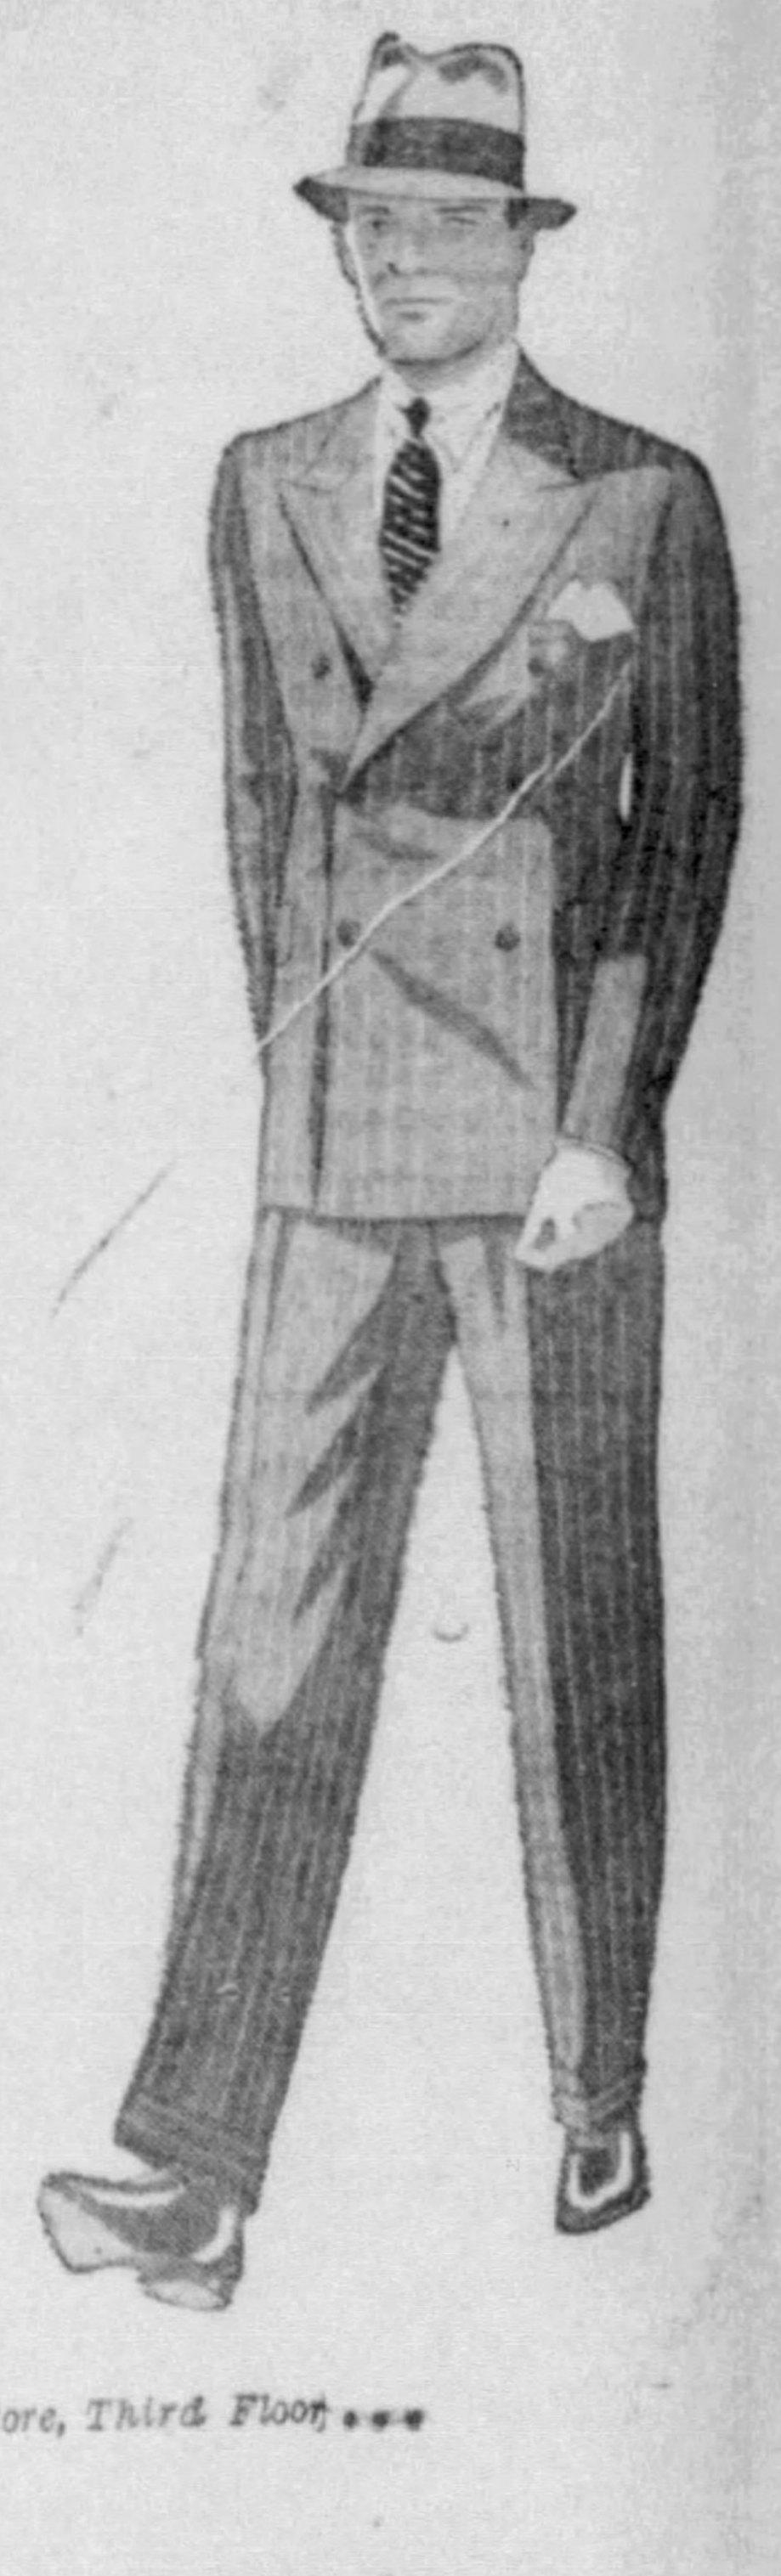
Hornebilts

With Two Trousers

at $25



Men seem to feel that here is a good thing that can't last . . . with the farm bill, the shorter-hour week, minimum wages, and other pending inflationary measures threatening higher prices. Replacements in dollars are unlikely ever to be cheaper than now, but there will be no advance in prices here as long as present stocks hold out.

Hornebilts are Horne suits through and through—style, fabrics, patterns, and fit all stamp them a quality product of a quality store. Plaids, checks, stripes, and plain colors, in complete range of spring shades and models, ALL SIZES—and two trousers with every suit.

It is no trouble to show goods. Come in, and try on a few . . . the values will afford you a happy surprise!

Roosevelt's Aide Guest Of Hill

Metropolitan Opera stars go gay—as does the Metropolitan Opera House, assuming the aspect of a mammoth glittering ballroom for a night—to present tonight's ace radio bill, the Opera Ball.

One of the most elaborate social functions staged in years, the ball holds the NBC-KDKA waves for an hour, beginning at midnight.

The broadcast opens with a vivid description of a pageant, based on an opera ball given in honor of the Empress Eugenie in Paris in 1860, and concludes with a half-hour concert by Lucrezia Bori, Jascha Heifetz, Frieda Hempel and Grace Moore, supported by an orchestra led by a number of world-famous conductors.

Col. Louis M. Howe, that taciturn gentleman who has been President Roosevelt's close friend and advisor for more than 20 years, tells his "Inside Story" to Edwin C. Hill—and the radio eavesdroppers—over CBS-WJAS at 9:30 p. m. Dramatized highlights of Howe's career, presented against a specially written musical background by Nat Shilkret's orchestra, also are included.

A broadcast from McCreery's fashion show, including a brief talk by Arthur C. Kaufman, general manager of McCreery's, is scheduled on WWSW at 8:20 p. m. . . . Tomorrow at 11:15 a. m., the same station inaugurates a new daily series from Gimbels, featuring Capt. Peters' Orchestra.

Music My Hobby

The pioneer station's 7:15 broadcast, "Music Is My Hobby," brings three representatives of business and industry to the air in their lesser known capacities—as amateur artists. Appearing collectively as clarinetists and bassoon virtuoso, they are Richard Korn, attorney; Fred Stein, manufacturing chemist, and Alfred Robinson, textile manufacturer.

A two-a-week series for youngsters, bringing to life the amusing nursery characters made famous by the English dramatist, A. A. Milne, in the stories created for his son, Christopher Robin, is inaugurated over NBC-WCAE at 5:30 p. m. under the title, "Winnie-the-Pooh."

Dick Powell says "Hello" to the home folks in song and chatter via WJAS at 6:45 and KDKA at 10 p. m.

"Penthouse Symphony," a new composition by Freddie Rich, CBS conductor and composer, has its world premiere over WJAS at 9. The work, sub-titled "A Metropolitan Panorama," depicts the activity of a representative New Yorker throughout a full day.

Bar X Days

The "Bar X Days and Nights" dramatization of Bret Harte's story, "The Luck of Roaring Camp," postponed from last week, is presented on WJAS at 8:30 tonight.

The story of how John Jacob Astor amassed a fortune against the handicaps and adventures of the Frozen North is told on WCAE at 9 during the weekly "Adventures of Great Merchants" program.

Student broadcasts listed today include a recital by the Muskingum College Mixed Quartet, KDKA at 5; a musical presentation by groups and soloists from Union High School, Turtle Creek, WWSW at 7, and a broadcast from Duquesne University's pharmacy night observance, WWSW at 8:30.

Air Drama Depicts Persecution

Depicting vividly persecution through the ages of races and religious sects, the first of the newly-inaugurated series of American Weekly dramas, "Burn — Destroy — Kill," is presented on WALR, Zanesville, O., at 5 p. m., and WHBC, Canton, O., at 2 p. m. today.

The play is based on an article published in the next issue of the feature magazine distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph.

Radio Censors Guard Public Ears When Song Writers Go Gay

By AIRCASTER

The moral sensibilities of the radio audience are tenderer than those of the rakish ilk which seeks its entertainment outside the home. Of this, the broadcasting executives conscientiously have made certain. And, of course, have taken steps to protect their listening flocks from any zephyr of suggestiveness or double entendre.

Especially vigilant are the censorial gentlemen concerning the current tendency of the gayer song-writers to inject a dash or two of naughtiness into the ditties of the day.

Each new song now appears with a double set of poems—one, for dance-floor rendition; the other for the radio.

Not the least indecorous of the fresher songs is that called "Forty-Second Street." The original version lent impetus to its verse with this phrase:

"Sexy ladies from the eighties who are indiscreet."

The National Broadcasting Company approved this change:

"Lovely ladies from the eighties give your eyes a treat."

But Columbia was not satisfied until it moved the said ladies 30 blocks downtown with this version:

"Little nifties from the fifties."

The word "impunity" was deleted from "I Lay Me Down to Sleep" because it may have been understood as "impurity."

The song, titled "Lover" was elevated thus:

Original—"Lover, It's Immoral, But Why Quarrel With Our Bliss?"

Revised—"Lover, When We're Dancing Keep On Glancing In My Eyes."

Some of the more torrid of the syncopated sillies do not lend themselves to suave editing and have been ruled off the air by one network or another.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Are you ever troubled with the hiccoughs? Here is a Globe Trotter who gives this remedy—a teaspoonful of vinegar in a half cup of sugar water. Sip a bit of the concoction and, presto, there you are—maybe.

* * *

Mrs. Pauline Shefsky and several others have written for information concerning the home loan mortgage bill. The measure is still before Congress for consideration. Action may be expected on it any time. Keep watching the paper and listening in.

Buddy double-crossed the family, and his mother, Mrs. A. S. Jenny, of Mt. Oliver, doesn't know whether to thank me or condemn me.

He had been asking for a cat for about two months and always received mild discouragement from the family. He took the matter up directly with the Globe Trotter. Then the Jennys received innumerable callers with all kinds of cats. After her first indignation, mother became reconciled to Buddy's strategy. Buddy now has not a cat but two cats.

Good wishes go with Globe Trotter Paul Regis McGrath, well liked, smiling, fiery haired, accommodating desk clerk of the William Penn Hotel. He is going to listen in hereafter with Leo Heyn, of the Summit Hotel, where he will be assistant manager.

Nothing slips by Mrs. W. R. Johnson, of Overbrook. When a recent story fixed the location of a crime in East St. Louis and then discussed the penalty under the Missouri law, she, faintly smiling, observed that East St. Louis is in Illinois.

* * *

Miss Myrtle Ohl rates admittance to the column. She broke what appeared to be an ordinary egg, and was surprised to find it had three yolks. That beats the double yolk story, the record heretofore.

* * *

That Robin out at Mrs. Shordie's in Allentown better get next to himself. He's battling his image there from dawn until 11 and from 3:30 to dusk. Doesn't he know that the better robins aren't doing that anymore?

MAN HELD, 'RED' PAPERS SEIZED

A large quantity of alleged Communistic literature said to have been found in a house in Penn Township, near Wilkinsburg, has been turned over to federal authorities here. Bleddyn C. Thomas, 34, alias Jack Thomas, occupant of the house, was arrested and is awaiting a hearing before the United State Commissioner.

He was charged with making a false affidavit in an application for citizenship, granted him in 1928. Government officers declared Thomas concealed the fact that he was a member of the Communist party at the time of his naturalization.

Thomas was arrested Wednesday night by constables on a charge of trespassing. He was said to have been occupying the house without permission of the owners. He is a native of Wales.

CARDS PLANNED FOR WITNESSES

A system of attendance cards for witnesses and a daily ledger account for each police officer and constable who appears in court will be instituted by May 1, District Attorney Andrew T. Park announced today. The system, devised by Park, Controller Robert G. Woodside and Clerk of Courts Samuel J. Topley, is approved by County Commissioners.

Court witnesses' attendance cards will be punched each day. When the witness collects his fees at the Controller's office he must present the card, Park said.

The new system, county officials believe, will reduce the "fees racket" to a minimum. It is designed to prevent collecting for more than one case on any one day and to forestall collection by the wrong parties through forgery.

STEEL HELMETS MERGE WITH NAZI 'ARMY'

BERLIN, April 28.—(AP.)—Grey-uniformed Steel Helmet war veterans and brown-clad Nazi Storm Troopers closed ranks today behind Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his plotted course for Germany's future.

Labor Minister Franz Seldte's announcement last night that he has turned over command of the Steel Helmet to Hitler raised the question, however, of whether he can deliver all or the greater part of his 1,500,000 followers to the Chancellor.

The move is expected to bring peace between the two militant organizations whose relations became strained because of a Steel Helmet membership drive which led to an open fight in Brunswick late in March. Latest figures placed the Storm Troop membership at 800,000.

Seldte caused a stir when he announced at the same time that he was quitting the Nationalist party and becoming a Nazi. This was expected to assure him of retaining his place in the cabinet in event the predicted shakeup develops.

The organization of a secret police force in Prussia also was announced last night. Its functions are to be similar to those of the famous Ogpu in Soviet Russia. It will be directed, however, against Bolshevism and other subversive forces.

The movement for restoration of the Hohenzollerns to the throne, which found its bulwark in the Steel Helmet organization, is expected to receive a serious setback as a result of the consolidation with the Nazis. It is known that Hitler regards the movement as inadvisable for some time at least.

RAIL DICTATOR BILL READY

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP.)—A measure suspending the Anti-Trust Act insofar as it applies to railroads and creating a federal co-ordinator to effect economies and rehabilitate the railroad systems is expected to be sent to Congress shortly by President Roosevelt.

The bill would create the office of Federal Co-ordinator who would have broad powers to eliminate duplication of services of competing lines, suspend services by non-competing lines and consolidate terminal activities.

Three co-ordinating committees would be appointed by the railroads to act in advisory capacities.

Although the co-ordinator would have vast power to carry into effect any economy he deems fit and to force railroads to squeeze water out of their stocks by refusing to approve reconstruction loans unless they revise their capitalization, his decisions would be subject to appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The bill also would protect all rights so far as labor union contracts are concerned.

GIFTS AID FUND TO SAVE SANDY

Appeal funds for Sandy, the East Pittsburgh dog condemned to die by Judge S. L. Reed, continued to grow today.

More than $60 of the $250 necessary to appeal the case to the Superior Court has been subscribed, according to the Rev. A. W. Garden, secretary of the Animal Rescue League. Mrs. Ethel Cannon, of 627 Junilla street, said persons wishing to help save the dog's life may send their contribution to the Rev. Mr. Garden.

Sandy will make a personal appearance on Sunday afternoon in the Grandview Theater, Duquesne Heights.

Italian Aces to Fly To U. S. for Fair

ROME, April 28.—(AP.)—From 20 to 24 Italian seaplanes will start their long-heralded flight over the northern route to Chicago for the World's Fair in late May or early June.

Gen. Italo Balbo, Mussolini's air minister and leader of the flight, said last night the flight must be made then, as Greenland and Labrador are safely navigable by air only about two weeks in the year.

Poet's Kin Freed In Plot on Hitler

MUNICH, April 28.—(INS.)—Sunendra Tagore, nephew of Sir Rabindranath Tagore, noted Indian poet, was released today after four days in custody on suspicion of plotting a Communist attempt against the life of Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Ousted German Jew Commits Suicide

BERLIN, April 28.—(AP.)—Prof. Hermann Jakobsohn, a Jew dismissed from the faculty of Marburg University, committed suicide in Marburg today by throwing himself before a train.

Communist Plot Foiled in Vienna

VIENNA, April 28.—(INS.)—A suspected Communist plot to overthrow the government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was nipped today with the arrest of 70 alleged conspirators.

TASTES MODERN FOR 33 YEARS, SAYS CURATOR

By PENELOPE REDD

Adolph Glassgold, curator of the Whitney Museum of Art in New York, presented a thorough thesis on the trend in modern decoration in a conference at Boggs & Buhl yesterday afternoon. Said Mr. Glassgold:

Miss Redd

"Resistance to the modern is just a matter of labels. Actually we have been modern for the last 33 years. We have simplified our whole mode of living and our tastes. This change is reflected in our design.

"Our contemporary buildings reveal that modern design characterizes a type of living that uses mechanical equipment and that is direct and shorn of unnecessary ornament. Contemporary design speaks in direct terms of the effect of the whole and not of the single part.

"Every conceivable object that can be has already been converted into a machine. A period pieces of furniture, for example, frequently exists separately as an objet d'art in itself, but a modern piece stands only in relation to the room in which it is put as a contribution to the ensemble."

Mr. Glassford contrasted the impersonal bric-a-brac crowded rooms fashionable in the concluding decades of the nineteenth century with today's rooms organized to fulfill the needs of the particular persons who may therein dwell. His talk was one which hundreds of women would have enjoyed, while but a handful attended.

There is included in the special series of exhibitions at Boggs & Buhl, a splendid collection of seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth century lighting devices lent by William A. Dick, Jr., of Wilkinsburg.

FINAL COOKING CLASS AT SHOW

The final cooking school classes of Pittsburgh's Annual Food Show were to be held this afternoon, with demonstrations scheduled by Mrs. Clara Smith and Miss Helen Wedican. Among the clubs attending were Companions of Foresters, North Methodist Episcopal Church, Federation of Patriotic Societies and the Hazelwood Women's Club.

The closing baking contest was for butter cakes, with icing. Judges were Miss Josephine Gibson, home economics department, H. J. Heinz Company; Miss Pearl Gray, home service director, Peoples Natural Gas Company, and Miss Margaret Mitchell, director test kitchen, Wearever Aluminum Cooking Utensil Company. The prizes will be $10 for the best cake and $5 for the second best.

A special feature on the entertainment program tonight will be Ad Brickel, popular radio artist.

EVENTS LISTED FOR PITT FETE

University of Pittsburgh students will celebrate their annual spring festival with events beginning May 2.

Tuesday night, Miss Betty Quarrie, the "Goddess of Rhythm," will preside over a May fete, with 80 co-eds dancing under floodlights on the Stadium green. Wednesday and Thursday nights, the Women's Glee Club and the University Band will present their annual spring concerts.

Thursday afternoon, fraternity men will compete in a track and field meet, and Friday afternoon the sororities will have their float parade, and the fraternities will race in the famous pushmobile sweepstakes.

A sports dance at Islam Grotto, North Side, will be the final event of the festival Friday night. Dan Smith is general chairman, and Gladys Pyle co-ed chairman of the festivities.

Bandits Beat, Rob Garage Attendant

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 28.—State police today hunted bandits who held up, slugged and robbed J. C. Voden, 30, night attendant at Saltsburg Motor Company garage, escaping with a small sum cash. Voden was left tied to a bench.

MAGEE DOUBTS F. R. PROGRAM

Doubting President Roosevelt has yet offered any solution for capitalism's primary problem—distribution—former Mayor William A. Magee discussed "The President's Program for Recovery," at a luncheon at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club yesterday.

So far as the program has been carried out, it has consisted chiefly of palliatives, whose beneficial effect probably will not be permanent, Magee said.

Magee envisaged a decentralization of population in the Tennessee Valley, Muscle Shoals, and conservation projects, as the most constructive trend in the President's program. He considered this, with a movement from the cities, a breaking down of the complexities of modern life, and an attempt to eliminate the profit motive, the President's best outlet from the present dilemmas.

Predicting a long political life for the President, Magee praised his sagacity, and prophesied the people would forgive him many mistakes.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

WAYNE KING, Esq., Chicago, Ill.: Dear Wayne—

Here's why I'm writing you. I see by the gazettes that Mrs. FDR'S favorite rhythms are waltzes. And that she's very good at waltzing, herself. So how about chucking her a nation-wide orchid, too—on the night of April 30th ("President's Day")—by having your grand crew and every orchestra on the air that night—stop playing whatever they happen to be tooting, and go into a waltz? It'll thrill her.

Tell John Royal, at the National Broadcasting Company—and Bill Paley, at the Columbia Broadcasting System, to urge their orchestras to make it at 10 p. m., E. S. T. Mrs. Roosevelt's pet melody, by the way, is "Blue Danube." Thanks, Wayne, and regards to your lovely lady.

"On with the Dance, Wayne King! (Whistle) Okay, Chicago!"

WARDEN LEWIS E. LAWES, Sing Sing Prison, Ossining, N. Y.: My Dear Warden—Just a few lines to tell you that I think—when the history of these trying years is jotted down—your name will be embroidered in big letters. You're the greatest penologist of modern times—times, incidentally, when the criminal is supposed to be smarter and tougher than ever before.

That benefit at Ossining for the family of Motorcycle Officer Birdsall, killed by joy-riding hoodlums, is proof enough that you're quite a guy. Imagine, the warden of a prison helping the Chief of Police of Ossining promote a benefit for the relatives of a cop—with many of the prisoners asking to contribute to the fund or buying tickets by the carloads. If the warden were anyone else but Lewis E. Lawes, it couldn't be did! The late Birdsall must have been okie-okie, too. They tell me he never took a dime! The fact that he died poor proves that.

See you tonight, then—and I'll try my best to click. And, by the way, Warden, don't forget to let me out!

EDOUARD HERRIOT, Esq., Care of the White House, Washington, D. C.: My Dear M. Herriot—There's not a single visitor from the Old Country who rates a bigger hand in these United States than you do, M'sieu.

We all forget things too quickly—and I want you to know that many of us in America respect and admire you—and that we remember how you quarreled with your colleagues in France and your countrymen when they wanted you to join them in having the war debts canceled. It seemed to me that you were probably the only one in France urging that France pay its debts. It thrilled me when I read the cabled accounts as they came over the editorial room wires—of your memorable midnight address on the subject. You are an inspiring man, M'sieu.

I won't forget, too, how you made it plain enough to your fellows when you told them that the loans to France came from Liberty Bonds.

At any rate, welcome!

COLONEL AND MRS. C. A. LINDBERGH, Somewhere in the Skies: My Dear Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh—Mutual friends are saying that you, Colonel, are more like the happy kid who flew the mails a few years ago. Happier, they say, than you've been since you returned from Paris. I do hope that you have relented in your sentiments toward the press. We hounded you—only because our editors considered you both important news—no matter what you do or where you go—or this and that—and we must obey orders.

But what I started out to say was this. That the country must feel better seeing you both ride the clouds once more. It fits in with the other big events of the last two months.

We've all had our miseries and problems in the years in back of us—and you and Mrs. Lindbergh have had more than your share. But I note from the papers that you are "the old Lindys again." Smiling, confident and prepared. Whether you know it or not——those broad grins in the photos recently are like a tonic to many of us. For—if you both can put your misfortunes, and what is left of your hearts behind you, I guess we all can.

Dick Powell in Town For Two Days

Dick Powell is in town for two days that will keep the former Stanley master of ceremonies on the jump, from the time of his arrival until the wind-up of his engagement as dance orchestra director in Duquesne Garden Saturday night. Dick's duties in the Garden will begin tonight, when there will be dancing from 8:30 until 12 o'clock. The same hours will prevail Saturday night, but there also will be a tea dansant from 2:30 until 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A parade, welcome by Mayor Herron, presentation of "key to the city" and other events were on his early morning schedule for today.

Since his departure from Pittsburgh to Hollywood, Mr. Powell has gained much success in pictures of which the most recent shown here was "42nd Street," in which he scored a hit in one of the prominent roles.

Scouts See Magic Exhibition Tonight

Troop No. 2, of the Swissvale Boy Scouts of America, will be entertained tonight by Glenn Barclay, magician, in the Swissvale Methodist Episcopal Church, Braddock avenue and Dickson street.

Mundin Gets Important Parts

By HARRISON CARROLL.

HOLLYWOOD, April 28.—A new type of comedian is making himself felt on the screen. He is Herbert Mundin, who played the serio-comic servant to Clive Brook in "Cavalcade."

English actor, Mundin has been assigned two more important roles by Fox. He will do the role once intended for Will Rogers in "From Arizona to Broadway" and another featured part in "The Devil's in Love."

Mr. Mundin

Comedian Rogers is supposed to have turned down his chance to do "From Arizona to Broadway" when he learned it was not based on his life story. In it, you'll recall, are Warner Baxter, Joan Bennett and James Dunn.

Mundin's second assignment, "The Devil's in Love," has for its romantic pair Warner Baxter and Miriam Jordan.

The cockney humor of Herbert Mundin has registered pleasingly with the fans in a lucky series of films. In addition to these films, you will see him in "It's Great to Be Alive," now shooting.

They are laughing still down at Palm Springs over the amazing result to a doctor's prescription. One of our continental directors, famous for sophistication, asked the doctor down there to do something about his grip. The medico prescribed a hot bath, hot lemonade, plenty of blankets and a good sleep with the windows closed to sweat out the fever.

The patient added three fingers to the hot lemonade for comfort, lit his usual cigar and relaxed. Feeling sleepy, he tossed the cigar into the fireplace and dropped off to wait for the big perspiration.

It came. But not as prescribed. His cigar ignited a pile of kindling, the kindling melted the gadget on the ceiling fire-sprinklers and he woke up in a heavy shower.

Miss Dressler

Maureen O'Sullivan, whom many of you still remember as the jungle bride of Tarzan, is now very much at home in the drawing room sets of "Tugboat Annie," M-G-M's Marie Dressler-Wallace Beery co-starrer.

Miss O'Sullivan plays a ship magnate's daughter.

Marie is back from her desert rest and is hard at work as the woman tugboat skipper, with Wally again in a good-natured, shiftless role.

With Lee

Virginia Cherrill, once leading woman with Charlie Chaplin, will be seen in the support of Lee Tracy in "Accidents Wanted."

One of the deluxe events of the week will be the Saturday night party Elissa Landi will give at the Cocoanut Grove for the touring Australian cricket team. Elissa has invited 11 of Hollywood's stars as partners for the cricketers. Mary Pickford will be one, also Claudette Colbert, if husband, Norman Foster, gives the o. k. Other bids go to Janet Gaynor, Lilian Harvey, Dorothy Jordan and Heather Angel. The Barthelmesses, Gloria Swanson and Michael Farmer, Mary Duncan and Laddie Sanford occupied a table at the Grove the other night.

All in a Day
—By Mark Hellinger—

The Final Day.

EN ROUTE TO BROADWAY—Tomorrow will find me back on Broadway. Wonder if the old street has changed much? They tell me it has, and that things are pretty bad, and that I'll wish I had stayed away a little longer. Wonder how Winchell will be? Wonder if—but I'll have to cut that out in this column. I can't afford to grow sentimental just yet. I'll need the Broadway atmosphere for that.

Meanwhile, then, I'll devote this final column of the world tour to a few more episodes that took place during the latter portion of the trip. Thus:

In the Strand Hotel in Rangoon, Burma, there is a Japanese barber whose touch is the softest I've ever experienced. Dealing with the wealth of America, he could make a fortune for himself. But in Burma, he works seven days a week for a salary that runs something like $15 a month in our money. He expects no tip.

In Singapore, the Straits Times sent a representative around to interview me.

What did I think of Singapore? Well, I was very truthful about it. I fished out a motion picture advertisement for a film called "Malay Nights."

"Malay Nights," I read. "She was an unwilling victim of the fever-ridden, dank-smelling holes of the dreaded ports of last resort for whites. Selling her soul for the money to bring her back to civilization and her loved ones."

I put down the advertisement and smiled at my visitor.

"You see how much junk that is?" I asserted. "If you form an impression of Singapore from some of the movies and books that have been done about the spot, you might expect to find almost anything when you arrive here. Not only might plenty of people think that Singapore was part of China, but they might also be led to believe that tigers and lions roam around in the streets."

The reporter left shortly after. Inasmuch as I had to fly over to Java earily the next morning, I didn't see the results of that interview until several days later. And when I did see it, I almost collapsed. It was a long story on the editorial page and the headline ran as follows:

"Americans Believe Singapore In China. They Actually Think Tigers Roam Singapore Streets. Famed Columnist Tells All.

Mr. Scott is the owner of the Rangoon fair, and the proprietor of the only night-club in Rangoon. He's an American by birth, although he hasn't lived there since 1903.

Mr. Scott's night-club is the most unusual spot of its kind I have ever visited. It forms a part of his fair grounds, and brings out all the society swells of Rangoon at least three times a week.

His fair is a pretty sickly looking outfit, but it does the business, which is all that counts. He has a wobbly ferris wheel that stops only when a passenger wants to get on or a rider wants to get off. And he has an airplane spinner that threatens to collapse with each spin.

The big attraction, aside from the night club, is the free shows that go on all over the fairgrounds. For the price of admission—which is one-half cent in our money—you have your choice of a Siamese play, a Chinese drama, a Burmese tragedy, or a Javanese dance. If you want a seat, you must pay two and one-half cents. Not many sit.

The night club—all open, of course—has an orchestra and a troupe of Russian dancers. Cover charge is 27 cents, but you needn't buy anything to drink if you don't want to.

The only interruption in the proceedings takes place occasionally when a huge rat—I think they call them bandicoots, or some such name, over there—runs across the dance floor in search of the open field. They're as big as cats and they have bushy tails, and the women don't seem to be very fond of them.

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Scott, as he rubbed his tummy reflectively. "I've done well here. Mighty well. The hotels don't like me very much and the papers give me a good roasting now and then, but who cares?"

I changed the subject.

"How much money do you think you've made in Rangoon?" I asked him.

He looked at me.

"Let's have a drink," replied Mr. Scott . . .

Rodgers Heads Possible Third Party Movement

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mr. Shields

HARRISBURG, April 28.—William B. Rodgers, of Pittsburgh, who has resigned as executive director of the State Emergency Relief Board, to take effect May 1, is to become affiliated with groups from the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, unemployed councils throughout the state, and university circles, their purpose being political action in the campaign of 1934.

It has not been determined whether the ultimate aim will be the formation of a third party, though that is under consideration. First there will be an endeavor to compel the Republican and Democratic parties to nominate satisfactory candidates for state office and to pledge the interested groups' support of principles they champion.

There will be a particular insistence upon promises to aid such legislation as old age pensions, unemployment insurance and minimum hour and wage bills, all of which have been slaughtered in this session of the Legislature.

For some time there has been a quiet movement afoot to organize the various interests involved, and Rodgers already is scheduled for several addresses as soon as he is freed from his state position.

There is ground for the suspicion that Gov. Pinchot may profit from the movement should he become a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. The Governor has enjoyed a friendly relation with many of those associated with Rodgers, and has given support to most of the principles they espouse, especially the old age pension question and the minimum wage and hour bills.

Non-Partisan Board For Relief Urged

Rodgers has become identified with the movement through his connection with the relief board and the opportunity which has been afforded him to learn at first hand of conditions throughout the state.

One of the demands to be made, but which is improbable of accomplishment unless there is a special session of the Legislature is that relief shall be administered by a non-partisan board. That is impossible under the present situation, with the Governor, the State Treasurer, Auditor General, Lieutenant Governor and Speaker of the House composing the board.

Even if these gentlemen are well intentioned, as it is admitted most of them are, they cannot escape the origin of their selection. Each was chosen for political reasons and none is permitted to escape the restrictions of that selection.

The theory of Mr. Rodgers and those who are associated with him is that a non-partisan board should administer relief appropriations, whether the money comes from the state or the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at Washington.

They would have a board composed, for example, of such people as Joe Trees, of Pittsburgh; Horatio Gates Lloyd, of Philadelphia; John F. Casey and J. Rogers Flannery, of Pittsburgh, to mention but a few names. In this manner only, it is contended, could the proposition be shorn of politics.

Baldwin to Take Place of Martin

It is too late for anything of this nature in the present session. The relief board is set up for the moment, and can only be changed by action which might occur in an inevitable special session. Former Senator Frank E. Baldwin, who becomes Auditor General next week, succeeds Gen. Martin on the board, the latter retiring from public office, while Auditor General Charles A. Waters takes his place as State Treasurer.

In Baldwin the relief board will acquire a member who believes even more than Martin that the present system of unemployment aid is something of a racket.

Republican organization leaders apparently are cognizant of the movement being fostered by Rodgers and his associates, and fear that ultimately the movement may prove beneficial to the Democratic party.

It is known that organization leaders in the closing hours of this week's session of the Legislature made overtures to the Democrats, who have adopted as part of their policy the social advancement bills which the Republicans until now have buried.

The Republican organization forces, foreseeing what is in store for them, offered to bring to the floor of House or Senate one or two of the least innocuous bills they have pickled.

To these overtures the Democrats were cold. They took the position that the Democrats had written their own record, and must stand on it. The result will be that all legislation touching the liberalization of workers' conditions will remain buried. And out of that will grow the platform of a political movement next year.

The sixth annual exhibit showing how the modern pharmacist is trained to compound and dispense medicines will be given by faculty and students of the Duquesne University School of Pharmacy in Canevin Hall tonight.

Exhibits will include chemistry, physics, botany, bacteriology, zoology, pharmacy and other sciences. Dr. Hugh C. Muldoon, dean of the school of pharmacy, has extended an invitation to the public.

PRESIDENT'S DAY PRAYER TO CIRCLE WORLD

TRADE PARLEY TO ACT ON F. R. POLICIES

President Expected to Be Praised for Program

Recommendations prepared by the convention committee for introduction to the National Foreign Trade convention today included:

1—That the President be invested with authority to alter by executive order any rates of duty within 50 per cent of rates of the Tariff Act of 1930.

2—A guarantee to exporters against loss in extending credit abroad.

3—That any modification of governmental debts due to the United States government "should definitely provide for such treatment of our foreign trade by the debtor country as will assure access of American good to its markets on fair competitive terms, not less favorable than those accorded imports from that country into our markets."

The final declaration of the National Foreign Trade convention was expected to bring forth today at least a tacit expression of approval of the Roosevelt administration's vigorous action to end the depression.

It was learned on good authority there will be a pronouncement against fiat money presented for the convention's approval, but there will be no statement opposing currency inflation such as is proposed by the administration.

United States Senator David A. Reed's activity in Congress opposing the currency inflation bill now pending kept him from addressing the convention on intergovernmental debts this afternoon.

REED SENDS REGRETS

The Senator sent his regrets, saying it was "absolutely impossible" for him to leave Washington because action on the bill was not completed.

The hoary bogey of government "intervention" in business basked in considerable favor today at the convention.

The commodores of American commerce were expected to give a hand to the ship of state, and at the same time were looking to it for great assistance to avert scuttling of their own craft on the rocks of international trade chaos.

The thought of the hundreds of businessmen here was not that the government should engage directly in business, but there was a preponderance of sentiment that business must look to the government more to assist it in its difficulties.

CONVENTION ENDING

On their own part, the foreign traders were to close their convention this afternoon with pronouncements on world business problems designed to give the Roosevelt administration assistance in discussing with foreign governments the problems confronting the wold economic conference in London in June.

These pronouncements will constitute the foreign traders' views on what is needed to aid the return of prosperity.

There was likelihood of a proposal that the government guarantee exporters in some part against loss in extending credit. Speakers yesterday told of results Great Britain has obtained in guaranteeing 75 per cent of losses.

SEES PLAN FAVORED

Grosvenor Jones, representing the Department of Commerce, joined in discussing the question at a group session dealing with foreign trade banking yesterday. He said he believed a plan such as the British program would be received favorably in Washington.

Deep interest was shown at the session in the discussions of Fred I. Kent, exchange comptroller of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who wields the big stick over all shipments of gold.

The business men individually availed themselves of the opportunity to discuss with Kent their own peculiar problems under present conditions.

Earlier, Kent told a general session of the convention the gold embargo declared by the President was a spectacular move to call the world's attention to the chaos developing in international trade, and added that the consequences have already "borne good fruit."

CITES NEW POLICY

At a luncheon meeting of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, held in conjunction with the Foreign Trade convention, Marc A. Rose, editor of Business Week yesterday told delegates a new economic policy has been growing up, and dwelt upon the Black bill and amendments of the Labor Department, saying:

"As it is written, it proposes to set up a drastic dictatorship over industry. The Secretary of Labor will control wages, hours, and even volume of production. It is a pretty bad bill, as drawn. But I think it is a waste of time to discuss its specific provisions. The bill just now is a rough draft—a starting point for discussion.

"The principles involved are of towering importance. If this legislation passes, it marks a new era in America. I am simply unable to understand why so little attention is being given the matter."

Rose said the old economic philosophy of individualism in

QUIZ FOR BOARD OF WORKHOUSE NEXT WEEK

Auditor Denied Books, Commissioners Act; Bonds Discussed

The five members of the board of managers of the Allegheny County Workhouse were to be notified today that the County Commissioners request their presence at a meeting next Friday, when they will be asked to explain why M. C. Conick, auditor for the Commissioners, was refused the right to examine certain records of the board while he was making an audit of the institution's books.

Conick, in a report submitted to the Commissioners yesterday, said the board's secretary had refused to let him see securities posted by banks for workhouse deposits.

Conick said the secretary, Charles C. Kohne, refused him the right to examine the securities deposited with the banks to secure deposits, the secretary stating the deposits were amply protected.

The auditor declared Kohne denied the complete access to the minutes of the board, offering only to show any part of the minutes the auditors might wish to verify.

CASH IN CLOSED BANK

Conick said that under the board's by-laws, the treasurer should be bonded to the extent of $100,000, but in his examination he was unable to find such a bond. The treasurer is W. S. Linderman, president of the Duquesne National Bank, closed last November.

More than $100,000 of workhouse money was on deposit when the bank closed, it was said at the Commissioners' meeting. Arthur R. Atwood, receiver for the closed bank, said the workhouse deposits are amply secured.

The Commissioner's auditor said all checks for the workhouse are signed by two members of the board but that the two signers are not bonded. In addition to Linderman and Kohne, the other members of the board are Samuel R. Kelly, president; H. E. McLain, vice president, and M. W. Acheson, Jr.

FOUR YEARS COVERED

The report of the auditors dealt with the four-year period from 1928 to 1931, during which time the operating expenses of the institution exceeded its income by $669,481.82. The deficiency was made up, he reported, by appropriations from the county amounting to $685,000, or on the average of 67 cents per inmate per day for the maintenance of prisoners of

POWELL DENIES WEDDING MARY

Word had arrived in Pittsburgh a few hours before Powell, naming the bride as Miss Mary Brian, lovely Hollywood brunette.

Dick, the idol of countless feminine film-goers, is here for a two-day visit. He was met by Mayor John S. Herron and a band led a parade through the downtown district.

Powell met Miss Brian a short time after his arrival in Hollywood 10 months ago. They played together in "Blessed Event."

VETS TO ENTER MAYOR FIGHT

Veterans of the Spanish-American and World Wars will make plans for a political campaign in Memorial Hall, May 7, officials of the organizations announced today.

Invitations to join in the meeting have been sent to members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jewish War Veterans and affiliated organizations.

At this meeting plans will be made to take part in the coming election of a Mayor and City Council.

Those arranging the gathering are Robert K. Cochrane, county commander of the Legion; Max Henley, of the V. F. W.; L. B. Rittenhouse, of the Spanish-American War Veterans, and Ronald Thompson, of the Legion.

DE ROSA FIGHTS CONTEST COSTS

Argument was heard by the Superior Court yesterday in the case of Alderman Michael DeRosa, Jr., from an order of Quarter Sessions Court assessing him one-fifth of the costs of the contest against him by former alderman William A. Means, Twelfth Ward.

DeRosa defeated Means at the primary election September 15, 1931, being nominated by a margin of 52 votes. The returns from five districts were contested. The court, in finally disposing of the contest, placed four-fifths of the costs on the city and one-fifth on DeRosa.

The latter took exceptions to the ruling on the ground that Means should pay the costs.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

Will Rogers

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 28.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Governments are having the same trouble now that individuals have been having for three years—that is, trying to find out the actual value of what they have.

You don't know the value of your land, your stocks, your house, or anything.

Now England and America and France have met to find out what the dollar is worth. And what the pound sterling is worth. What silver is worth. Everything is jumping up and down now like an international banker at a senatorial investigation.

Nations are like a lot of women with their babies, each thinks that theirs is the best.

Yours, WILL.

SHORT-WEIGHT ALE IMPOUNDED

Eighteen thousand bottles of Canadian ale shipped from Winnipeg, Canada, are being detained here by inspectors of the food and drug administration, Department of Agriculture, because of alleged misbranding of the bottles.

The alcoholic content was declared legal, but government inspection, it was said, showed the bottles contain only 11 fluid ounces instead of 12 ounces indicated by the labels. The shipment is consigned to the Fersey Farm Products Company, Pittsburgh.

When the carload shipment of 750 cases, each containing 24 bottles, reached the Pennsylvania Railroad yards here, it was met by John Cain, food and drug inspector. It was said that the alleged underweight was discovered at Buffalo. Inspector Cain received instructions to detain it until correct labels are substituted.

Cain said arrangements had been made to relabel the bottles correctly.

WIFE'S DIVORCE APPEAL HEARD

Mrs. Mary Jackson Walker's appeal from the decision of Judge Thomas M. Marshall, granting a divorce to John L. Walker, was heard yesterday by the Superior Court.

Walker, who said he was a confidential man for the Lockhart and Mason interests, charged cruelty and indignities. The couple lived at 200 Richland lane.

Walker said his wife called him vile names, and kicked and bit him, and also used violence on his two daughters, children of a former marriage. Mrs. Walker contended their trouble was due to the two daughters and denied many of her husband's accusations. She also said he was rude and violent.

Counsel for Mrs. Walker argued in the lower court that there was not sufficient evidence to justify a divorce. Judge Marshall held that, while there was not enough evidence of cruel and barbarous treatment, the testimony concerning indignities justified a decree.

'Most Beautiful' Bridge Copy, Says McGovern

Declaring people of Allegheny County and the American Institute of Steel Construction had been imposed upon by Allegheny County engineers who were awarded a bronze tablet for the construction of the Sixth Street Bridge, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern has revealed that he made a special airplane flight over the Rhine River to satisfy himself the local county engineers claimed honors not due them.

McGovern said yesterday that engineers under the former Board of Commissioners claimed they originated something in bridge construction in building the Sixth Street Bridge in 1928. The institute presented the county a bronze plaque for the most beautiful bridge built in the United States and Canada in 1928.

McGovern said he knew at the time the bridge was a copy of one in Germany and recently while abroad the flew over the Rhine and viewed the bridge at Cologne.

The discussion started when C. K. Harvey, bridge engineer, asked permission to enter the Tenth Street, Boston and West End-North Side bridges in the "most beautiful" competition this year. McGovern granted the permission, providing the engineers tell the institute whether the bridges are original or not.

RADIO SERVICE TO USHER IN SABBATH

KDKA to Broadcast Entreaty Written By Dr. Kerr

The prayer that will be heard around the world—a prayer of thanks and of hope for President Roosevelt—will emanate from Pittsburgh at one minute after midnight, Sunday morning.

It will inaugurate the new holiday, President's Day. Written by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, it will leave the William Penn Hotel studios of radio station KDKA, be transmitted by long and short wave to the far north, far south, and band the world by the east and west.

P. A. Boyd, director of the Round the World broadcasts, arranged the opening prayer today with Dr. Kerr, who 10 years ago was the first clergyman to broadcast a prayer to the Far North.

THREE STATIONS AID

The announcements brings three major broadcasting stations into the President's Day observance.

Station WJAS at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon will broadcast a half-hour program from 3 to 3:30 o'clock—three clergymen, a chorus of 40 voices and an orchestra taking part.

Station WCAE will send out its President's Day program from 7:30 to 8 p. m., with three prominent speakers, and WCAE orchestra playing national airs and some composed by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin.

BOYS TO ATTEND

In Wilmerding, where Boys' Week will begin under the auspices of George Charleworth, boys' work secretary of the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. and other civic and fraternal organizations, every boy in the district is urged to attend evening services in their own church as a part of the week.

The boys will stand and recite a special President's Day pledge written for the day. A parade of boys will be held from the "Y" building to one church.

Clergymen, leaders in civic and political life have joined in commending the day in Pittsburgh, the state and nation. Governors of a score of states have proclaimed it a holiday.

Presbytery Elders Hear Judge McKim

County Court Judge Samuel J. McKim was the principal speaker at a dinner of the Ruling Elders' Association, Westmoreland Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church, last night in the West Newton United Presbyterian Church. The ministers of the presbytery were guests of the elders. Other speakers were Attorney Albert H. Bell, Greensburg, and the Rev. Dr. Thomas McKee, West Newton. John L. Smith was toastmaster.

Money as Simple As Technocracy; Each Goes Fast

—By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER—

We have finally figured out this inflation jigger.

The purchasing power of your dollar is reduced. The borrowing value is the same. When you ask a pal to pay it back that's when deflation starts in.

You lose a friend and 84 cents. Thus saving 16 per cent on the transaction.

Going off the gold standard doesn't mean a thing to us birds who were never on it.

There's nothing to worry about. Just remember that technocracy arrived and departed before anybody had a chance to explain it.

Here's a pictorial example for the little ones. We're on a boat anchored firmly to rock bottom. The monetary system is the cable. As the tides swing us around we must take up the slack in the rope.

RETAILER TELLS FOREIGN TRADE DEMANDS

The retailer is interested in much more than merely what he can "get out of the customers who come to his store," Irwin D. Wolf, secretary of Kaufmann Department Stores, told the imports session of the Foreign Trade Convention today.

Declaring there are two special considerations which must be taken into account, he said:

"The first of these is the continuously changing preferences of the customer. A store is but a barometer which registers, in terms of sales, the preferences of its customers. It is a public mart and we are but the managers. It has no existence except for its customers. It is a fact the purchasing agent for its constituency. The usual purchasing agent, however, operated from a requisition which is made out by some other branch of the business.

TRADE FORMULA

"This fact all merchants have always known—but few have been able to interpret it into a formula. So we, as merchants, must take our place . . . our feet planted in past experience . . . our hands feeling the pulse of consumer desire, and our eyes fixed eagerly toward the future.

"Therefore, it clearly follows that if our customers want imported merchandise because of its character—we buy it for them. If they, on the contrary, say they want nothing but American-made merchandise, we must be guided by their decision.

"You say that we can buy dresses and intimate apparel here. Yes, and we do. However, there are some of our customers who want imported models, who feel that nothing but the artistic touch of French designs will satisfy them. For those customers we order the imported merchandise.

FOLLOWS CUSTOMERS

"And so the first point that the retailer makes, in discussing importations is that he must follow where his customers lead him.

"The second principle which the retailer merchant must consider and make an important part of his policy is the effect that rapidly changing economic conditions have had upon his constituents, the customers. Even if their preferences and their habits are changing, so that they want always something new and something different, what happens when they cannot buy? Their purchasing power disappears or is greatly diminished.

"To sum up, retailers must continue to buy what their customers want and can afford, and at the same time search and work, with sincere humility, for better ways of understanding that customer and his personal problems.

"I urge you to study by means of the retailer's technique, various means of planning production and distribution — and above all—absorption of our products in our chaotic home markets."

City to Get Bill For Debris Cleaning

The City of Pittsburgh within a few days will receive a bill from Allegheny County asking payment of $780.75 for cleaning away the debris at the north portal of the Liberty tubes, caused by the bursting of a city water main on Williams street April 9.

Thomas O. Hasley, director of the county Public Works Department, informed the Commissioners the amount was for wages of men engaged to clear the tunnels.

Missing Sturgeon Man's Body Found

The body of a man found with his throat slashed in a woods in North Fayette Township was identified at the County Morgue last night as that of Alfred Vershuren, Sr., 50, of Main street, Sturgeon. A razor blade was found near the body.

Alfred Vershuren, Jr., a son, who identified the body, told morgue attaches his father disappeared from home two months ago. He could ascribe no motive for the alleged act.

FOREIGN TRADERS HEARING FROM AN EXCHANGE EXPERT

business, free opportunity, free competition, survival of the fittest was a good philosophy for a young country, but that it had vices. He continued:

"Unlimited profits spell concentration of wealth in few hands, divesting purchasing power from consumers — and that is fatal. And we get over-investment, creating new capacities in industries already equipped to saturate the market.

"Here are all the seeds but one of our present depression. The other one is a very bad money and credit system."

Group sessions heard considerable data concerning the assistance given by other governments to the United States foreign traders' competitors in world trade. John R. Bradly, chief of the coal section in the minerals division of the Commerce Department, prepared a paper read at a group meeting on inland problems.

COAL PROTECTED

The paper said there is scarcely a country in the world with coal resources that has not adopted one of several methods to conserve its domestic market for the home industry. It said also the British government has aided its export coal trade, adding:

"Some of the measures have been a reduction in taxes of mining companies and of railroads, the benefit of which was to accrue to the export coal trade in reduced rail and dock rates. It is understood that long-time government loans, at low rates of interest, were available for sinking of new shafts.

"Another form of preference for the coal exporter, the extent of which is not known, is a British government guarantee of credits in the export trade."

JOB PROGRAM AWAITS LOAN

The tentative $20,000,000 road and bridge construction program of the County Commissioners and engineers, dependent on obtaining a federal loan as provided in the pending Wagner bill, was to be discussed today by the Commissioners. A list of the proposed improvements was submitted to the Commissioners yesterday by E. L. Schmidt, county planning engineer.

The program, which would be one of the largest ever undertaken by the county, rests on the interest rate to be charged by the government if the bill is passed.

If the measure is enacted the local list will be forwarded to Washington. Chairman C. C. McGovern announced he intends to ask Gov. Pinchot's assistance in obtaining the loan.

It was stated at the Courthouse today that Edgar J. Kaufmann will be asked to present the matter in Washington.

C. B. Reymers, national superintendent of displays, and Arthur Buck, national manager of the soda department of the Louis K. Liggett Company, gave short talks promising the co-operation of their departments.

The meeting was followed by dancing and entertainment.

COUNTY LISTS TAXPAYERS

A mailing list has been compiled of approximately 95 per cent of all property owners and personal property taxables in the county for the purpose of mailing tax statements for this year, Alfred E. Anke, deputy treasurer, has announced. Statements will be sent out as rapidly as they are completed after May 1. Persons desiring statements are requested not to come to the Treasurer's office before June 1.

Anke recommended that taxables use the mail in making requests for statements. The large number of additional personal property returns has caused the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes to be late in getting its books to the Treasurer, Anke said. Any taxpayer failing to receive a statement by June 1, should write to the Treasurer's office, he said.

SLAVS TO HONOR MARTYRS

Kolombatovich

Jugoslavs of the tri-state area will hold their annual commemorative meeting in honor of Zrinski-Frankopan, martyrs in the cause of Jugoslav freedom and unification, Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in Memorial Hall.

Dr. George Kolombatovich, consul general for Jugoslavia at Chicago, will be the principal speaker. Mayor John S. Herron will deliver an address of welcome. Short addresses will be made by Jan Lech Byszewski, consul of Poland in Pittsburgh; Dr. Charles Brejska, consul of Czechoslovakia; Kosto Unkovich, consul of Jugoslavia; Samuel Werlinick, of McKees Rocks, supreme president of the Serbian National Federation, and Attorney Rhody Brenlove.

BRIDGES THRILL TRADE ENVOYS

Two hundred delegates to the twentieth National Foreign Trade convention saw Pittsburgh as a city of bridges yesterday as they steamboated up the Monongahela River to Braddock. It was the first time on a stern-wheeler for many of them.

Though the panorama of Pittsburgh industry proved of interest, the bridges impressed them most. As one delegate put it:

"Bridges, bridges! I never saw so many bridges!"

Man and Wife Held As Fire Razes Home

John Meadows, 52, of 930 West Homestead, and his wife, Minnie, were held today in the county jail pending hearings tonight on arson charges as an aftermath to a mysterious fire that destroyed their home early Wednesday.

Police Chief David Lindberg, of West Homestead, said firemen reported finding a quantity of oil and oil-soaked rags in the home following the blaze.

House Thieves Loot Totals 25 Pennies

Thieves, who forced their way into the home of D. J. Allen Martin, 963 Nippon street, Regent Square, and ransacked the house, got 25 pennies for their trouble, Dr. Martin reported to police early today.

It's great to feel fit!

Everybody has days when every waking hour is packed with zest of living. Why not make every day like this?

A frequent drawback to fitness is constipation. It may dull your energy, steal your appetite, lower your vitality. Yet it is so easy to overcome.

Try eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Science shows this delicious cereal supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote appetite, and tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than taking patent medicines—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

3 COUNTIES GET QUOTAS IN FOREST ARMY

First reforestation army allotments for Western Pennsylvania, outside of Allegheny County, today had been ordered for three counties while an additional quota of 300 youths was assigned for Pittsburgh. The total movement will be 600 men.

Maj. William Buerkle, in charge of the United States Army recruiting station here, announced the details will be started next week on the following allotments: Washington County, 100; Fayette County, 100, and Westmoreland County, 100. Physical examination will be made by the Army staff, but the recruits will be certified by the emergency association officials of each county.

The Pittsburgh allotment will be certified by the Allegheny County Emergency Association, as was the first 1,200 quota, while naming of the recruits in the other counties has been assigned as follows: Westmoreland, A. W. Grotefend, Greensburg; Fayette, George W. Hibbs, Uniontown, and Washington, C. A. Young, at Washington.

Certification of the recruits for examination has been scheduled by Maj. Buerkle, as follows: Monday, Allegheny County, 200 recruits at 8 a. m. to the Army recruiting station; Tuesday, 100 recruits; Wednesday, Washington's 100 men examined here; Thursday, Fayette quota at Uniontown postoffice building, and Friday, Westmoreland's quota at Greensburg armory.

All except Westmoreland's quota will be conditioned at Fort Howard, Maryland. The Greensburg allotment will be sent to Carlisle Barracks, Pa. The scheduled daily quotas will be sent to camps each night.

THOMAS GUEST OF LEGION

MONESSEN, Pa., April 28. — Lowell Thomas, radio artist, globetrotter and author, will be a guest of the American Legion post here tomorrow evening at its first annual banquet in the high school.

Mr. Thomas

Thomas will deliver the main address at the banquet, which substitutes for the annual event of the Chamber of Commerce here.

The program includes Samuel Fausold, superintendent of schools, as toastmaster; address of welcome and presentation of key to the city by Mayor Carl Woodward; J. P. Regan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Samuel Di Primio, Greensburg tenor.

MUSICIAN DIES IN POVERTY

Leon Prevost, 84, who reached pinnacles of success as a musician and spent his last days in poverty, was to be buried this afternoon.

Funeral services for the aged man, who died yesterday from injuries suffered when he was struck by a street car, were to be held at Blank Brothers funeral home, Craft avenue. For several years he and his aged wife had lived at the Jewish Home for the Aged.

He was born in Holland. At the age of 19 he joined the United States Army Band as a cornetist. Later he toured the country with John Philip Sousa, who rated him one of the outstanding cornet players of his day. Then he toured Europe, and returned to the United States and appeared in grand opera and in vaudeville.

He had been a resident of Pittsburgh 30 years.

Speed Execution To Keep Sabbath

TRENTON, April 28.—(Universal.)—Louis Fine's life had been shortened two hours today so that he will not die in the electric chair on the Jewish Sabbath, which begins at sundown tonight.

His electrocution is now scheduled for 6 p. m., instead of 8 p. m. Fine, 55, was convicted of murdering his landlady in Atlantic City. Jewish organizations protested against execution on the Sabbath.

QUIZ FOR BOARD OF WORKHOUSE

Allegheny County. During the four-year period the county spent $300,000 for improvements.

The report showed that there was an increase of about 20 per cent in the number of prisoners from 1928 until 1931, when the prison population was 1,375. In 1928 it cost an average of 78.61 cents to maintain each prisoner and in 1931 only 58.67 cents.

During the four years approximately 40 per cent of the prisoners were from other counties, which paid 75 cents per prisoner per day. Revenue from this source netted the workhouse more than $82,000 during 1930 and 1931 over the cost of keeping the prisoners.

OUTSIDE WORK BANNED

When Conick reported that the prison laundry operated at a profit throughout the four-year term, doing outside work for a laundry route operator in the district, the Commissioners ordered that no outside work be done except for the jail and juvenile home. Conick informed the Commissioners the outside work had been stopped some months ago.

It was also reported that the farm was operated at a profit through the sale of foodstuffs. It was shown that the quantity of meat used in the institution had dropped considerable when fresh vegetables and eggs were obtained at the farm.

Commissioner C. M. Barr brought out that the same company that supplied meat to the workhouse sold meat to the county jail at a much higher cost. A report will be submitted on the two meat contracts later, it was said.

Conick disclosed Fayette County owes the workhouse $15,233.17 for maintenance of prisoners during 1931 and Beaver County owes $4,363.20 for the same year.

The report gave credit to Workhouse Superintendent Robert H. Braun for efficiently operating the institution since being given the post more than three years ago. Conick said the institution was in exceptionally good financial condition, the present current deposits being in the neighborhood of $225,000.

COX GETS CAKES AT FOOD SHOW

Father Cox was at the Motor Square Garden Food Show yesterday as a guest of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women. This simple announcement isn't of unusual interest except for the fact that it reflected the courage of a man who, under the doctor's orders, is under a strict diet. In fact, he hasn't eaten a so-called "square meal" for three months. That's why it required courage for him to attend the Food Show where he was surrounded by countless good things to eat.

The Council of Catholic Women, however, was conducting an angel food cake contest. After the judging of hundreds of specimens of this home-cooked luxury, nearly all of the cakes were donated to Father Cox for his needy families. Mrs. Mary Horan, president of the Council, conducted Father Cox through the show.

Father Cox is having another record-breaking week in his Sun-Telegraph subscription drive. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

DIVA TO SING IN 'FOUR A DAY'

CORONADO BEACH, Cal., April 28.—(INS.)—America's best known war mother must sing or die!

Why?

"Because I want to be near the people I love, those who can't afford high-priced opera tickets, the people of whom I feel I am one."

Mme. Schumann-Heink spoke vivaciously at her home here where she is resting before starting another tour tomorrow. She continued:

"I am not an old fogey like lots of people believe because I take the opportunity afforded by the stage of telling them a few things about raising their children. I guess I ought to know; I raised eight of my own. I think children and young people of today have far more freedom than is good for them."

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
-With-
Patricia Pitt

Members of the younger set playing a part in our spring-time weddings are having a delightfully busy whirl these days what with all these entertainments for brides.

Of course most of them are small, but perhaps for that very reason are more enjoyable than many of the large-scale entertainments of pre-1929 days.

Alice Rust, daughter of the Stirling Murray Rusts, of Murray Hill avenue, gave the spinster dinner for Neil Stewart Zang last night in her home.

To Marry Tomorrow

Neil, the William Zangs' daughter, will marry George C. Stephenson tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Calvary Episcopal Church.

This afternoon Betty McCance is giving a tea in her home after the rehearsal, and tonight Martha Edmondson, daughter of the Frederick W. Edmondsons, will give the rehearsal dinner in the Twentieth Century Club.

Added to the out-of-town guests here for the wedding will be the Clifford McCombses, of Cincinnati.

EMORY M. FORD MISS LAURA EVANS MR. AND MRS. CHARLES LOCKHART

MISS EVANS AND THE LOCKHARTS, PITTSBURGH SOCIETY FIGURES, WITH A DETROIT FRIEND AT THA GREENBRIER

Esther Caldwell Married to K. T. Deike

At a quiet ceremony in Washington today, Miss Esther Caldwell, of Fredonia, N. Y. is becoming the bride of Kenneth Taggart Deike, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Deike, of Pittsburgh.

The bride is wearing a traveling ensemble of blue with a corsage of roses. Mr. Deike and his bride will remain in Washington for some time before returning to make their home in Sheridan avenue.

Miss Caldwell was entertained here prior to her marriage, by Miss Alberta Friesell, of Elgin avenue, and Miss Marjorie Stewart, of Beechwood boulevard, who gave a tea in her honor.

Drama's Progress Traced By Epoch Club Members

Drama's progress in "A Changing World" was sketched for Epoch Club members yesterday in several papers.

Mrs. T. C. Clifford considered both the speaking stage and the movies in her paper, which was entitled "From Footlight to Spotlight." Mrs. Harold W. Cope read Mrs. George M. Eaton's paper on Eugene O'Neill.

"America at Play" was discussed in two papers—by Mrs. E. J. Searles and Mrs. Howard K. Jones.

Mrs. Hobart B. Ayers, of Meade street, was hostess for the meeting.

Bellevue 'Y' Auxiliary Luncheon on Wednesday

The Bellevue Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary will meet in the association rooms, Lincoln avenue, on Wednesday for 1 o'clock luncheon. Later Miss Jean Shortledge, Bellevue school nurse, will speak, and Mrs. F. J. Sundholm will give piano selections.

Wilkinsburg P. T. A. To Hold Senior High Night

Tuesday will be known as senior high community night among Wilkinsburg Parent-Teacher Associations. The first part of the evening will consist of a formal program by the music, physical education and speech departments. The music department will contribute selections by the band, orchestra and a cappella chorus. The physical educational department will be repreesnted by a girls' class in aesthetic dancing and a boys' class in special gymnastics. The speech department will present a one-act play. Members of the National Honor Society will serve as ushers. The latter part of the evening will be given over to a demonstration and inspection of departmental work.

"Is P. T. A. Worth While?" will be answered at junior high's meeting Monday evening. C. H. Lehman, Miss Isabelle Sabin and R. E. Beaton will discuss the question from various angles. The school's cappella choir will provide the music and a reception will be held for the new officers.

Uniontown Girl to Wed New Jersey Attorney

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 28.—(AP.)—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Anita Silverman, of Uniontown, Pa., to Joseph Porter, Elizabeth attorney.

Miss Silverman, Beaver College graduate, teaches biology in a Brooklyn (N. Y.) high school. Mr. Porter is a graduate of West Virginia University, Morgantown, and of New Jersey Law School. He was campaign manager last fall for Donald H. McLean, member of his law firm, who was elected to Congress.

Hospital Group Plans Party Tonight

The Columbia Hospital alumnae will hold a benefit card party this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. T. D. Turner, Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg.

Miss Alice C. Karns is chairman, assisted by Miss Edna McMasters, Miss Frances Toia and Miss L. Swick.

Jane Baker on Prom Group at Westminster

Miss Baker

Miss Jane Baker, of Bellaire avenue, a member of the junior class at Westminister College, is a member of the junior prom committee for the prom tonight in the college gym.

Miss Baker has also been selected as an attendant to the May Queen on June 3, and she is a member of the yearbook and newspaper editorial staff.

Mrs. Lavine Re-elected Conference President

The Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations has unanimously re-elected as its president, Mrs. Saul Lavine.

Other officers now are: First vice president, Mrs. S. H. Reichman; second vice president, Mrs. I. L. Scheinman; third vice president, Mrs. J. de S. Freund; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Max J. Kleber; recording secretary, Mrs. Maurice L. Lyon; treasurer, Mrs. Samuel Cohen, and auditor, Mrs. William Wolk.

Catherine Bell Is Married to H. W. Braun

Miss Catherine Elizabeth Bell, daughter of H. W. Bell, of Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, became the bride of Howard W. Braun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Braun, of Park Mansions, at a very pretty ceremony this morning in the study of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church.

Miss Marjorie Bell, of Salem, O., was her sister's maid of honor, wearing deep blue crepe with a straw hat and corsage of sweetheart roses. Ernest R. Braun, Jr., served as best man.

There was a breakfast for the families in the Bell home, after which Mr. Braun and his bride left for Canada. They will be at home upon their return in the Royal Yorke Apartments.

The bride is a graduate of the Catherine Gibbs School and the bridegroom of Colgate University.

Elizabeth Lanterman Guest of Rhea F. Corby

Miss Rhea Frances Corby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Corby, of Beechwood boulevard, has as her house guest, Miss Elizabeth Lanterman, of Evanston, Ill., a former schoolmate.

Carnegie Club Elects Mrs. John Gilbert as Its New President

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. John Gilbert is the newly elected president of the Carnegie Woman's Club and will have in her cabinet, Mrs. Floyd Wallace and Miss Harriett Lenfesty as vice presidents; Mrs. Florence Abbott and Mrs. Frank Terry, recording and corresponding secretaries, and Mrs. W. A. Nixon, as treasurer.

The members, meeting this afternoon, are devoting their program hour to a study of Revolutionary days. Mrs John Lidgett has a paper on "The Continental Congress and the Declaration of Independence;" Mrs. D. W. Hopper is giving a paper on "Great Men of Revolutionary Days" and Mrs. Leonard McMillen a third one on "Haym Saloman and the Revolution."

Mrs. C. W. Heinze is singing, with George Richardson at the piano, norma Levine is contributing readings and the program is completed by Richard Abbott's clarinet solos. Hostesses are Mrs. Robert M. Chilton and Mrs. D. C. Walker.

Electa Chapter, O. E. S., To Meet in New Home

The first meeting in its new headquarters, G. B. U. Hall, Arlington avenue and Brownsville road, will be held Monday evening by Electa Chapter, No. 51, Order of the Eastern Star.

North Hills Club Re-Elects All Officers

Officers were re-elected yesterday by the North Hills Woman's Club. They are Mrs. W. H. Phillips, president; Mrs. C. J. Sandy and Mrs. R. J. Phipps, vice presidents; Mrs. T. B. McCafferty and Mrs. R. M. Leety, recording and corresponding secretaries; Mrs. Harman De Haven, treasurer.

Bishop Brown, of the University of Pittsburgh, spoke during the program hour, telling of "Present Problems in Buying."

The return of merchandise was one problem touched on. To remedy it, Mr. Brown suggested a higher type of salesmanship and more conscientious buying.

Mrs. W. E. Brosius Renamed City P. T. A. Head

Mrs. W. E. Brosius was re-elected president of the Pittsburgh Council of Parent-Teacher Association yesterday. With her will serve Mrs. H. C. Courtwright and Mrs. B. F. Handloser, vice presidents; Mrs. C. H. Basler, recording, and Mrs. C. D. Harnack, corresponding secretary, and Miss M. Elizabeth Wolf, treasurer.

In discussing "Progressive Education," Herbert L. Spencer, principal of Frick Training School, told members of the council that progressive education emphasizes freedom and initiative and encourages each child to be a distinct personality. It is not a new idea, but exists wherever there is an atmosphere of harmony and sympathy.

Miss Grace Gloninger To Marry on May 27

Miss Grace Gloninger, daughter of Mrs. J. Ledlie Gloninger, of Pittsburgh and Emmitsburg, Md., whose betrothal to Bartley W. Hogan, Medical Corps, U. S. N., was recently announced, has named May 27 as the date for her marriage.

Honesty Brings Reward Even Though We Don't See It

She made a mistake—the worst mistake a girl can make—then for months she went through torments she'll never forget.

But always she tried to be brave.

She might have run away—lied—given away the tiny baby who was the proof of her shame. But she didn't! She stuck. Through the heartbreak and shame, the loneliness and fear, she stuck.

Would many a legal mother be willing to pay as great a price as that for her child?

But, terrible as it was, Dolly doesn't think it was too great a price to pay for bonny five-year-old son; and never has she let a shadow fall across the beauty of her love for him, and his for her. Personal happiness? She wasn't asking any. The joy of motherhood was enough.

Yet she still was young, lovely, sweet with life. Why shouldn't a man fall in love with her? No reason at all, thought Bill—and he did, and she with him. So then, what?

Should she tell of that blot on her past?

Not for a second did she hesitate. She'd been brave and honest before. She'd be brave and honest now. Hadn't mother always taught her that honesty always paid?

So she told him. And did honesty pay? Read for yourself.

Dear Miss Robinson:

Will you please give me some help? I need it so!

I am in love with a young man who is steady and hard-working and has very high ideals. We went together for quite a while and I was very happy, because he seemed to care a great deal for me; but now all that is ended because I made a bad mistake once and I have a little son who is five years old now.

When he found out about my baby he told me we would have to part—that he could never marry a girl who hadn't been "good."

WON'T SEE HER NOW

I just don't know what to do or how to go on. I have tried so hard to live right and be self-respecting since my baby came—and it wasn't really my fault in the first place that I made that mistake. I had no one to tell me anything about right and wrong. My mother never told me any of the things a girl needs to know, and I was not quite 15 when this terrible thing happened.

Don't you think a girl can be straight and get back her self-respect and the respect of other people if she tries to live the best she knows how, even if she has done wrong once? I thought I could, but now I am so discouraged I don't know what to do.

I know that I could make this fellow a good wife, if he could only believe that I would. How can I convince him? He won't see me at all now, although I have tried to see him. He won't have anything to do with a "girl like me," he says.

Oh, I am so wretched! I am only 21, and it just seems as if my whole life were in ruins. I know I can never love anyone else as I love him.

Do all men feel the way he does? I thought if I tried to live this down and be as straight as I could people wouldn't hold it against me, but it seems that I was mistaken.

Please tell me how I can make him understand, how I can get him back. So much depends on it. If I only had him again I would be so happy! Of course, I love my baby, too, but I have dreamed of having a home for him to grow up in, and now I see nothing ahead. DOLLY.

DESERVES HONOR

Poor little youngster! And yet I'm not going to pity you, even though I know how hurt and bewildered you are.

Instead, I'm going to honor you!

And I'm going to thank God that women as brave and honest and fine as little Dolly live! Many a man is wearing medals on his chest for less valor than you have shown, child.

And don't have any doubts about "honesty paying." Honesty has paid you this time and some day you be wise enough to see it. For by telling the truth you have rid yourself of the man who wasn't worthy of one moment of your loyalty and love.

If you had married that man, with such a sneer in his heart at you, he would have made life an inferno for you and your little son. By daring to be true to yourself, you've rid yourself of a cad.

And don't worry about the future, child. To every man who would sneer at you, there are a million who would honor you for your courage—and hold themselves lucky if they could find such a brave, sweet mother for their own children.

So that's my answer to little Dolly. What's yours?

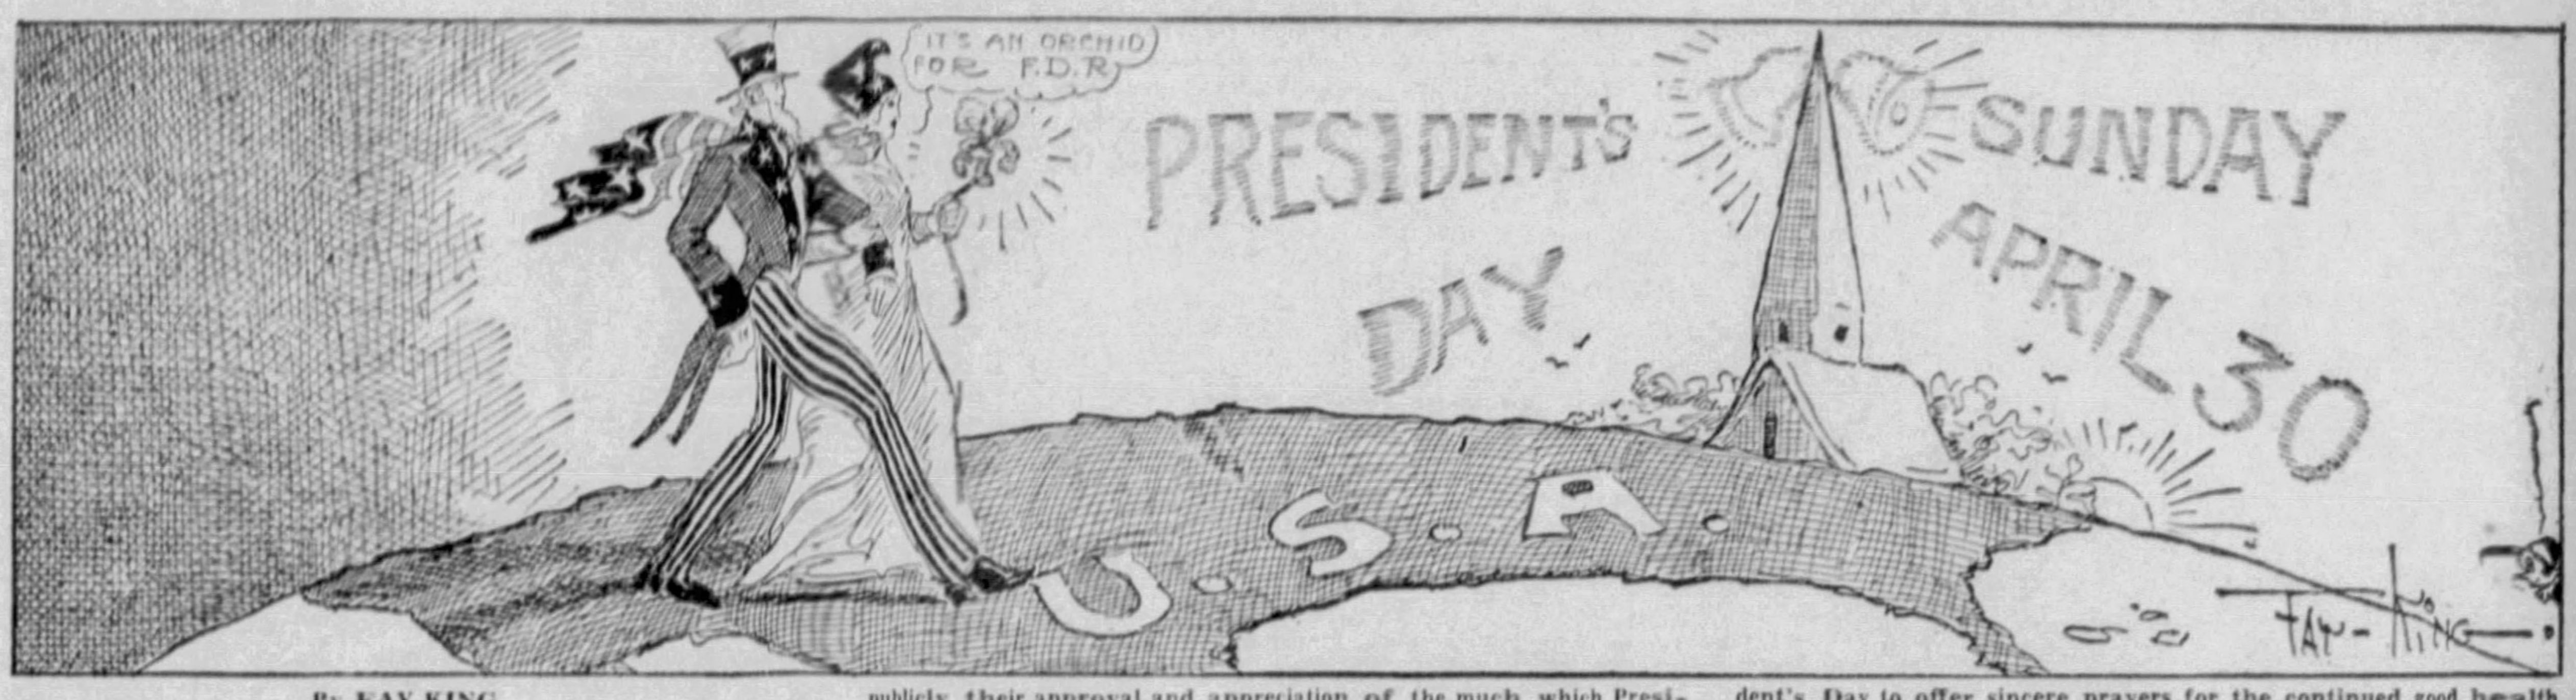
President's Day Happy Thought For All, Fay King Believes



By FAY KING

The enthusiastic response to that happy thought of making Sunday, April 30, President's Day, is most gratifying.

"Mr. and Mrs. America" welcome this opportunity to express publicly their approval and appreciation of the much which President Franklin D. Roosevelt has accomplished in the less than two months that he has been in the White House at Washington.

It will be a pleasure for the U. S. A. to go to church on President's Day to offer sincere prayers for the continued good health, energy and wisdom for our popular President.

This united expression of the people to show Mr. Roosevelt that we are for him and with him will be a splendid tribute.

It's up to "you and you and you" to see that he receives it!

Madge Agrees When Ronald Proposes a Daring Plan

Ronald spoke first, after we had sighted the slowly plodding horse that we believed was ridden by Charles Owen.

"I daren't look, Aunt Madge," he said, his voice husky and broken with fear. "Tell me; is he alone, or is Marion—still there?"

I strained my eyes toward the distant horse and rider. Even with the moonlight their outlines were indistinct, and I could not truthfully tell the boy that I had seen Marion.

"I am sure Marion is there," I said, "because the horse is still proceeding so slowly, even though the path is much less steep But at this distance I cannot see distinctly enough to make my conjecture a fact. However, we'll soon know."

"How?" Ronald was plainly pessimistic. "We don't dare to get any closer with all this moonlight."

"Oh, yes, we do," I returned, with a confidence that I hoped was justified. "Remember, Owen, holding Marion and guiding the horse at the same time, cannot look around, so he can see nothing directly behind him, and we will take care to keep in direct line with his back."

"But suppose he hears us?"

"I am sure the horse's footfalls will drown ours," I told him, "even if we get much closer than we are now. Look! The path here is quite clear of leaves. It's getting a well worn trail now, hard-packed. We shall make very little noise from now on, especially if we go on our toes. Come! Let's steal in as close as we can to him."

Suddenly he slipped his arm around me and kissed my cheek awkwardly, but tenderly.

GAIN ON OWEN

"You're so wonderful, Aunt Madge!" he said fervently. "You put new heart in a person."

"Thank you, Ronald." I answered warmly, and then we poised ourselves for going down the rest of the trail with no betraying sound of heels against the path.

We made rapid progress; so rapid, in fact, that in two or three more minutes I clutched Ronald's arm and whispered.

"You can see plainly now. He still has Marion with him. At least, he still has the same shrouded burden we saw before."

"Yes, I see," Ronald answered, and then added hesitatingly: "Have you planned any way that we can trail him when he gets to the end of this path and connects with a car, as Brown said he would do?"

"I've tried to, Ronald," I said dully, for I had been racking my brain over this problem all the way down the path. "It's going to be a ticklish task, especially if he leaves a man behind him at the end of this trail. If he doesn't, I can't see any way except for you to follow him as fast as possible until you are able to beg a ride from some passing motorist. The most important thing for us both to do is to get the license number of the motor car when he connects with it."

RONALD'S PLAN

"Yes, we must do that," Ronald assented, then added, hesitating oddly as he spoke:

"I've thought of something, but I'm afraid it's rather silly melodramatic. I'm pretty sure you won't approve, but I think I could do it."

"My dear boy, this whole situation is simply oozing melodrama," I told him. "If you have thought of anything helpful, do tell me about it at once."

"It's only this," he began diffidently. "The best bet we have for trailing that car, if he puts Marion in one, is for one of us to jump on the back of the car and trust to luck not to be found out. But it can't be done without his spotting us until after he's started the car. Then it'll be a question of a quick sprint from the place in the road where we'll be hidden. I was a 40-yard man at school last year so I think I've the best chance of making it."

"I think you have, Ronald," I said, with a swift, mirthful vision of myself essaying the role he had just outlined. "That's a splendid plan, and I feel sure you'll succeed. Now the next thing is to figure out some way by which I can trail you."

"I know," Ronald said despondently. "I probably won't be able to help Marion at all, even if I get on the back of the car. He'll have men to help him, no doubt, and by the time you can get hold of a car and follow us, there'll be no trace of us."

"But there will!" I exclaimed triumphantly as a plan flashed into my brain.

Household Hints

Equal parts of sweet oil, vinegar and turpentine make an excellent polish for furniture, leather, etc.

To clean pewter apply to the surface of the article a fine sand mixed with oil of tartar and polish well.

A little coarse sugar stirred into soup that has been made too salty will render it more palatable.

Nails can be driven quite easily into hard wood without bending them if they are first of all dipped into lard.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Playing for a Top

In Rubber Bridge the making of the contract is the essential thing. Overtricks are of little value under the present scoring, counting a mere 20 or 30 points, and most players are inclined to even minimize this value. In Duplicate Bridge, however, scored under the match-point system, these extra tricks do have a real value, as they make the difference between a top-score and an average score on the board.

Recently, on the eve of the Individual Masters' Tournament, which is competed for annually, some 24 of the country's leading players gathered together for a session of Duplicate Contract. Bridge players have this in common with postmen. The old adage runs that "a postman on his holiday takes a long walk." Bridge players, in preparing for a serious contest, play a session of Duplicate or a rubber of Bridge.

One of the hands played in this practice session was the following, in which Mr. George Unger, of New York, held the South cards and Mr. Henry P. Jaeger, of Cleveland, the North cards:

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Mr. Henry P. Jaeger
♠ 10 7
♡ A 10 6 4 2
◇ K 4
♣ 9 6 3 2

♠ J 9 6 5 2
♡ Q J 7 5
♣ Q

◇ Q J 10 7

♠ A Q 3
♡ K 3
♣ A K J 4
Mr. George Unger

The final contract at this table, as at others, was three notrump, with Mr. Unger playing the hand. At all tables except this one, three notrump was made, but South succeeded in developing the hand so that he made four by means of a cleverly-thought-out Forced lead play.

The Opening lead by West was the spade 5, upon which East played the King and South won with the Ace. The second trick was won with the Ace of clubs. This was in accord with the sound principle that, if holding a suit in which there may be a possible finesse against the Queen, one of the high cards should first be taken, as it is always possible the Queen may be a singleton, as it was in this case. Then followed the King of clubs. This was for the purpose of forcing West to discard and thus learning something more about the hand. West chose as his discard the diamond 2. It was possible that West might have held four diamonds originally, and if this were true, after the discard, South could now make three diamond tricks by establishing a small one in his own hand. He thus followed with three rounds of diamonds, learning to his regret that the diamonds did not break. East now cashed his good diamonds, West discarding the 5 of hearts and the deuce of spades. It was apparent, of course, that East could not lead a club without losing a trick, and therefore returned a spade, which South won with the Queen.

South now cashed the club Knave, forcing West to another spade discard, and then threw West in the lead with his last spade. West was forced to lead a heart. In an effort to confuse the Declarer, he led the Knave, which was won with South's King. Had he led a low heart instead, the contract would have been held to three. South, however, had a count on West's hand, whose discards indicated that he was protecting hearts. To the twelfth trick, South led the heart 3, and Dummy's Ten was finessed. The Ace accounted for the thirteenth trick, thereby making four notrump—for the delight of Howell players, a top on the board.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Flowers to the Teacher

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—After an informal play is it proper for the students to present flowers to the teacher at the place where the play is given, or should they be sent to her apartment?

2—One girl would then present the flowers. Would you suggest a few words that she could say?

3—If we have the bellboy deliver the flowers, we would attach a card. What should we write on it? N.

1—Either is correct, and either is a good idea. If the students wish to send the teacher a corsage for her to wear at the performance, this corsage may be sent to her home. Or it may be sent to her at the place in which the performance is to take place.

If a box of flowers is to be given, usually it is either sent to the hall or presented to her before or after the performance.

2—The girl giving the flowers must say: "These flowers are from our class, Miss Graham, as just a hint of our devotion to you for all the help that you have so generously given us."

3—The message written on the inclosed card would be worded about the same as the greeting spoken by the girl presenting the flowers.

Layer Cake

Always turn the bottom layer of your cake upside down. The top is always more firm and crusty and, of course, will make a more secure bottom to the layer cake than the real bottom would. The other layers can be placed correctly.

"Never have I had such praise" says
Mrs. George Duff Macbeth
"for the rare flavor of my coffee"

Mrs. George Duff Macbeth

The chic Mrs. George Duff Macbeth, wife of the president of the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company, photographed in her beautiful old Fifth Avenue home, with her two pet terriers, a Scottie named "Whiskey" and a Wire Hair called "Soda." Graced with a lovely voice, Mrs. Macbeth studies music and is active in the worthy philanthropic work of the Women's Exchange.

It takes more than ordinary coffee to satisfy charming Mrs. George Duff Macbeth. To her, "coffee is more than just a beverage. It often makes or mars the entire meal." And she is right. Fine food, excellently cooked, can be and is ruined by stale coffee...whether it be served with or after the meal...for coffee, being the most perishable of beverages, becomes rank to the taste, bitter to the palate and disastrous to both nerves and digestion, once it has grown stale from exposure to the air.

"But," continues Mrs. Macbeth, "since I have used Beech-Nut Coffee, I find my guests lingering over their coffee cups with a much greater degree of satisfaction than ever before." And what hostess is not thrilled by her family's and her guests' appreciation for the delights of her table.

Discriminating Beech-Nut users everywhere are gratified to receive, as Mrs. Macbeth says, "such praise for the rare flavor of my coffee."

Coffee ALWAYS at its best

Only those who use Beech-Nut Coffee regularly can appreciate the great difference between this rare flavor from tropic heights and just coffee.

So we thank you, Mrs. Macbeth, for helping us acquaint the housewives of Pittsburgh with the superior quality of Beech-Nut Coffee.

Yet in spite of the extra trouble and expense it takes to get such coffee, Beech-Nut brings this delicious mountain coffee to you for but little more than you pay for ordinary coffees—it is a luxury in flavor, but no luxury in price.

And remember, the full fresh flavor of Beech-Nut Coffee is sealed in high vacuum tins a few minutes after it leaves the roasting oven. Its flavor and its freshness are always certain—it is coffee always at its best.

Tasty Jellies and Preserves are Nourishing Foods

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Recently I had dinner at a home where the housewife is an excellent cook. Her dinner was perfect. What attracted my attention was the variety of jelly and preserves served with the meat course. After dinner, my hostess showed me her jelly cupboard which was as full as it could be. The colors and variety of the jam and jellies displayed made them most tempting in appearance and I am sure they were equally tempting in taste.

A jam is a sweet preserve in which either the whole fruit or its pulp is cooked without attempting to preserve the shape of the fruit. The purest jams contain only the fruits, refined sugar and a little water. Some jams include apple juice or corn syrup or a mixture of both.

These jams lack the pleasing flavor of the untreated jam, but they are wholesome and within the reach of every budget. The most popular jams are made from apples, crabapples, apricots, cranberries, currants, oranges, pears, plums, quinces, raspberries and strawberries.

Jam is a nourishing food. It is rich in carbohydrates and because of its fruit content has a high mineral value. It is easily digested and is an ideal food for the growing and active child. When served on bread and taken with a glass of milk, it furnishes as many nutritive elements as may be found in a larger meal.

PECTIN NECESSARY

Jelly closely resembles jam. It is the fruit juice, evaporated or thickened to a semi-solid thickness. To make a good jelly, a juice must contain sugar, acid and "pectin," the jellying substance of fruit. Some persons prefer a sour juice jelly, while others show preference for a jelly made from a less tart juice.

All fruits can be made into jams or preserves, but jelly can only be made from a fruit containing a certain amount of pectin. Jelly can be made from apples, crabapples, grapes, quinces, under-ripe raspberries and plums. These fruits contain a large amount of pectin. When one of these fruits is combined with peaches, pineapple, cherries or rhubarb, an excellently flavored jelly results.

JELLY MAKING

A safe recipe for jelly making is to use two-thirds of a cup of sugar to one cup of fruit juice. If you like very sweet jelly, use one cup of sugar to one cup of fruit juice. When making a tart jelly, do not use too much sugar, as the tart flavor will be spoiled.

In making jelly, a wide shallow pan should be used. This is better than deep one and less time is required for cooking the juice. Long cooking makes the jelly dark and less palatable.

Marmalade was first used during the reign of King Henry VII. Since then it has become world-wide in use. It is a semi-liquid preserve made from the thick rind of an acid or bitter fruit, such as the bitter orange and grapefruit.

All these fruit products are health-promoting. They encourage the appetite and help to make life worth living.

piquant table sauce to taste, including wine flavoring.

7—Or 2 tablespoons chopped olives and 1 tablespoon tomato catsup or chili sauce.

8—1 to 4 tablespoons dry roquefort cheese crumbs and a few drops onion juice. Other nippy cheese crumbs can be blended in place of the roquefort.

9—Or add ¼ to 1 cup finely chopped chutney, according to taste.

10—Or 1 tablespoon finely chopped ginger (preserved).

11—¼ teaspoon curry powder and a few drops onion juice.

12—For a fruit salad, try adding ¼ to ½ cup fruit juice, using juice from fruits served.

SNOWBALLS WITH HOT MARSHMALLOW SAUCE—½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, 2¼ cups flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon orange extract, 4 egg whites.

Hot Marshmallow Sauce — 20 marshmallows, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup water, fruit juice to flavor.

For Snowballs — Cream butter, add sugar gradually while stirring constantly. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to first mixture alternately with milk. Add extract, then beat egg whites to a stiff froth, fold them into mixture and beat well. Fill buttered cups two-thirds full, cover with greased papers and steam steadily for 35 minutes. Serve hot.

For Sauce — Soften marshmallows in a moderate oven, but do not brown. Put sugar and water into a small saucepan and boil until it spins a thread. Add marshmallows and beat until mixture is smooth, then flavor to taste with fruit juice. Continue beating until ingredients are well blended. Keep hot in double boiler. If sauce seems too thick, add boiling water drop by drop until the right consistency.

CHICKEN GUMBO SOUP—1 fowl, 3½ to 4 pounds, ¼ pound fat salt pork, 1 medium onion, sliced, 4 tomatoes, sliced, 1 quart okra, cut fine, 2 tablespoons parsley, minced, 1 quart boiling water, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 bay leaf, 1 cup boiled rice, 1 cup top milk.

Wash fowl and cut at joints. Slice pork and saute until brown. Remove pork and brown chicken in fat. Remove chicken to soup kettle. Saute onion in fat for 10 minutes, then saute okra, tomatoes and parsley, very slowly for 30 minutes. Place all in kettle with chicken, add boiling water and seasoning. Simmer for about 3 hours, until chicken is very tender. Add the rice and milk. Let come to boil and separate chicken from bones. Serve pieces of chicken in the plate with the soup

POTTED MACKEREL—6 fresh mackerel, washed and boned. Dip each in flour, roll up and pack tightly in a casserole. Between each layer of mackerel, sprinkle a seasoning composed of the following:

2 teaspoons salt, 12 whole pepper corns, 3 blades mace, 12 whole allspice, 12 bay leaves.

Cover the whole with vinegar, tie a piece of brown paper over top to preserve flavor Place in very hot oven for 5 minutes, then turn the gas lower and allow casserole to remain in a gradually cooling oven for at least 3 hours.

STEAMED FRUIT PUDDING—Fruit from 1 quart jar (cherries preferred); ½ cup butter, 1 cup

PENSION FUND BILLS BEFORE PINCHOT

Two bills designed to strengthen the financial condition of city and county pension funds have been laid before Gov. Pinchot, according to word from Harrisburg.

A new retirement plan for county employes is found in the Coyne bill favored by the Legislature over one introduced by Senator William D. Mansfield.

The Coyne bill amends the present county pension system whereas the Mansfield plan would substitute a plan worked out by George B. Buck, New York actuary, which would greatly increase payments from county employes.

RAISES AGE LIMIT

As amended, the Coyne bill puts the age of voluntary retirement at 60 years as against the present age limit of 50 years. Employes with 20 years service who are discharged may receive pension at 50, however.

Pensioners obtaining other public positions are automatically dropped from the roll.

Under the Coyne plan, elected officials may join the pension fund. Pension premiums are fixed at 3 per cent of the employes' salaries, with a maximum of $8 a month, a substantial increase over the old system. The County Commissioners must furnish funds in the same amount as the employes' contributions.

PLAN FOR CITY

On the city pension fund Gov. Pinchot is reported to have approved the Shenkel bill, which would increase city employe' contributions to 4 per cent of tehir salaries or not exceeding $10 per month. The present payment is not less than 2 per cent or more than 3 per cent of salaries.

The 10-year limit before disability payments are allowed is increased to 15 years of service under the Shenkel bill.

The pension plans in both county and city have been a heavy burden on the authorities. The present plans are so arranged that taxpayers must make up what is necessary to keep the funds paying.

In the city alone last year approximately $740,000 was paid from tax money into the pension funds.

F. R.'s Son-in-Law Forms Stock Firm

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP.)—Curtis B. Dall, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, and John J. Edgerton, both members of the New York Stock Exchange, have formed a new firm under the name of Curtis B. Dall & Co., it was announced today.

Dall has been an independent broker on the floor of the stock exchange since his retirement from the exchange firm of Goodbody & Co., several months ago. Recently he purchased membership in the New York Cotton Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade.

Horse's Kick Cuts Artery, Man Dies

WARREN, Pa., April 28.—(AP.)—Leo Cornish, 50, of Freehold Township, bled to death today from a small gash in his leg suffered while shoeing a horse.

Cornish was holding the horse's hoof between his legs, when the animal jerked and a nail in the shoe severed an artery.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Pellagra Is a Puzzler to Science

Dr. Copeland

Pellagra is one disorder that has baffled science for a long time. Though great advances have been made in its control, the exact cause responsible for its symptoms is not known. But during the past decade the disease has come to be regarded as a nutritional disease and not as an infection. By this I mean that it is probable pellagra is caused by faulty diet and not by a germ.

The disease has been known for more than 200 years. At one time it was believed to be a poor man's disease, caused by the lack of food, sunshine, and proper sanitation. But it is encountered in families where there is no lack of food, but where the wrong kind of food is eaten. Occasionally it is met in persons who have indulged in severe and dangerous methods of dieting.

We are greatly indebted in many ways to the excellent work conducted by the United States public health service. It conducted intensive investigations of pellagra. Its study reveals that pellagra can be traced to a diet lacking in certain vitamins, particularly vitamin G. It is believed this vitamin is a substance necessary to prevent this disease.

Fortunately, this vitamin is found in a variety of foods. For example, a diet that is varied and contains an abundant supply of fresh lean meats, liver, milk, canned salmon, eggs, dried beans, peas and spinach, assures an adequate supply of this vitamin.

Prolonged use of a diet lacking in vitamin G will result in pellagra. It won't be long before the victim complains of a reddish discoloration of the skin. The skin peels and sheds large quantities of scales. The face, neck and hands are usually involved.

In addition, the sufferer has marked nervous symptoms, such as melancholia, hallucinations, stupor and convulsions. The gums become swollen and bleed easily. There is an increased amount of saliva and the victim has severe intestinal disturbances.

Diet, as you see, is important in the prevention of pellagra. Pellagra is most common in localities where the inhabitants live on a diet which varies very little from day to day.

Canned foods can be substituted for fresh fruits and vegetables when the latter are not available. Canned spinach, turnips and string beans contain sufficient vitamin G to aid materially in the prevention of pellagra. The use of a properly balanced diet with abundant fresh fruits and vegetables will lead to a decrease in the occurrence of this disagreeable ailment.

Answers to Health Queries

E. G. Q.—What should be done to remove water from the ears after bathing? One of my ears has been punctured and when I go in swimming it is very uncomfortable, the water remaining in the ear for months. I use cotton, but this does not help.

A.—Have your doctor advise you. There are special devices which may be worn in the ear to prevent this trouble. Do not tamper with your ears.

PRIEST HEADS CATHOLIC MEET

ERIE, Pa., April 28.—(AP.)—The Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of Catholic schools of the Pittsburgh Diocese, convened the two-day conference of the Catholic Education Association of Pennsylvania here today.

The Rev. Francis J. McNelis, president of the association and superintendent of Altoona Diocese, welcomed the delegates.

Other speakers on today's program included the Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University, Pittsburgh; the Rev. George Johnson, secretary of the National Catholic Educational Association; Charles N. Lischka, director of the educational department, National Catholic Welfare Association, and the Rev. Joseph J. Wehrle, superintendent of schools in the Erie Diocese. Elections will be held tomorrow.

Knife Held Cure For Grouchy Persons

CHICAGO, April 28.—(INS.)—Novel operations that produce beneficial changes in the personalities of patients were disclosed by Dr. George W. Crile, of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, last night before the Chicago Medical Society. He said:

"Lean, dyspeptic men, such as the character Cassius in 'Julius Caeser,' can be converted into pleasant beings by an operation for peptic ulcers."

Dr. Crile pointed out that in the denervation operation of cases of peptic ulcers one of the results was an immediate and complete change in personality.

BANDITS SHOOT 3, ROB BANK

MADISON, Minn., April 28.—(AP.)—Three residents were shot and a bank official slugged today by four gunmen who raided the Klein National Bank and fled with $2,000.

Spraying streets with machine gun, rifle and pistol fire as they escaped, the four bandits endangered the lives of at least 25 people, firing point blank at a group of workmen back of the bank and shooting promiscuously as they roared out of town.

The wounded, none believed seriously, are: Z. L. Hayden, hardware merchants, shot in chest; Hans Strand, elevator agent, wounded in hand; Jens Evenson, shot in leg; Roy O. Stemsrud, assistant cashier, slugged on the head with a gun.

'Cold' Bath Burned Her, Actress Charges

CINCINNATI, April 28.—(AP.)—Hazel Bofinger, 21, who described herself as an actress and dancer of New York, has filed suit for $100,000 damages against the Gibson Hotel here, charging she was scalded while taking a shower bath in the hotel.

Miss Bofinger charged scalding water came from a cold water faucet and the burns left scars which will prevent her from advancing in her profession.

ROBINS ARRIVES IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, April 28.—(AP.)—Col. Raymond Robins arrived in Moscow today on his first visit to Russia since the revolution, which he witnessed in his capacity as American Red Cross representative and during which his contact with Lenin and Trotzky was intimate.

Disavowing any political or economic mission, Col. Robins declared he came here solely "to look around."

Col. Robins was last in the news in connection with his disappearance while on his way to the White House in September, 1932, on a visit to President Hoover. The following November he was found in the mountains of North Carolina. The explanation advanced for his disappearance was that he had suffered from amnesia.

Largest Blimp Ready For Her Second Trial

AKRON, O., April 28.—(AP.)—The world's largest non-rigid airship, the Army TC113, today was ready for intensive tests at Langley Field, Va., to determine her suitability for coast patrol operations.

Just a baby beside the Navy's giant, the rigid US. S. Macon, largest of all the world's airships, the TC-13 won the praise of her skipper, Maj. William E. Kepner, after her maiden flight yesterday.

Island Reported Razed by Volcano

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, April 28.—(AP.)—Unconfirmed reports reached here today that Augustine Island at the mouth of Cook Inlet, on which aviators had previously sighted a dormant or extinct volcano, had blown up during an eruption.

The island, 160 miles south of here, was about five miles in diameter, and one or more trappers lived on it.

Police Win First 'Beer Test' Case In Kansas

WICHITA, Kan., April 28.—(AP.)—The first beer "test case" to reach the courts in dry Kansas resulted in a victory for the authorities last night.

J. J. O'Brien, cafe owner, was convicted in Police Court of possessing intoxicating liquor and maintaining a nuisance. He appealed and posted $300 bond after being fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge O. W. Helsel.

J. D. Kabler, a chemist, testified the alcoholic content of the brew sold by O'Brien tested 2.65 per cent and that such beer would give a person unaccustomed to drinking it an exhilirating feeling "if he drank four bottles."

CITY TREASURY GETS AUDIT

City Treasurer H. Raymond Hilliard today was assisting 26 accountants of Price-Waterhouse, auditors, in making an audit of the Treasurer's accounts.

The audit, to cost approximately $5,000, is a safeguard for Hilliard, recently appointed to succeed Richard W. Thompson.

Hilliard is also making a personal examination of collateral given by city depositories as security for city funds on deposit. He said yesterday that thus far he had found all accounts and securities in excellent condition.

TITLED BRIT ON ASKS DIVORCE

RENO, NEV., April 28.—(AP.)—Christian Arthur Wellesley (Lord Cowley) filed suit late yesterday to divorce Mae Josephine Callicott Wellesley on grounds that they had been separated more than five years. He is the fourth Earl of Cowley and a member of the British House of Lords.

Lord and Lady Cowley were married in New York February 24, 1914. They have three children.

The family estate is at Cosham, Surrey, England. The trial of the divorce suit has not been set.

-:- PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES -:-

sugar, 2 eggs, 2½ cups flour; 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup milk.

Cream butter and sugar thoroughly; add eggs, well beaten. Sift together flour and baking powder and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Drain juice from cherries. Stir cherries into the dough, turn into individual molds and steam for one hour. Make a sauce from the juice which was drained off cherries.

SOUR CREAM DRESSING—1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon mustard, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon each grated horseradish and vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup sour cream.

Mix all except the sour cream, which is added just before serving.

CRETONS—1½ pounds plain ground pork, ¼ onion, minced, salt and pepper to taste, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ⅛ teaspoon cloves.

Put enough water over meat to cover, add onion and when it begins to boil, lower flame and allow to just simmer until of thick consistency. Stir frequently to prevent burning. Add seasonings and cook a little longer. Pour into mold and garnish with lettuce, olives or pickles. This makes excellent filling for sandwiches. Remember to keep stirring to prevent burning.

Five gallons (or 16 pounds) ground meat, two-thirds lean and one-third young fat pork. Grind all meat and sprinkle over it the above ingredients mixed well together. Grind again and work well before second grinding. Pack into stone crocks, or stuff into casings and smoke with hickory if desired. Keep in cool place.

RASBERRY PUNCH—1 cupful cooked raspberries and juice, ½ cup orange juice, 6 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup syrup (made of 1 cup sugar and ½ cup water, boiled 5 minutes), 1 cup water.

Combine ingredients, add chopped ice and serve. Makes 4½ cups.

Don't waste SOAP

● Hard water means hard work. It's the mineral salts in hard water that wastes soap because the soap cannot dissolve. Stop this waste. Add a teaspoon or two of Climalene to your washing water. ● Climalene cuts grease and softens water. Thus you need only ¼ the soap you now use. It gently dissolves food stains, grease and dirt on dishes and clothes. Thus you do your work in ½ the time or less. ● Ask your grocer for Climalene today. Use it wherever you use water for cleaning, in the kitchen, laundry and bathroom. He has it in the bright, shiny, blue box, 12 oz. for 10c and 2 lbs. for 25c. The Climalene Company, Canton, Ohio.

STOCKS SLIDE AS INFLATION FLARE WANES

Although the dollar had a relapse in foreign exchange dealings, the inflation flare in the stock and commodity markets seemed to have waned. While business news was still favorable, traders evidently felt that a technical reaction should be permitted to complete itself. The list turned extremely dull on the decline, however.

Announcement of the administration's railroad co-ordination plan appeared to have been discounted in advance, and prompted more profit-taking than fresh buying. The Senate's favorable vote on the provision of the inflation measure permitting devaluation of the dollar had also been expected, and was without influence on the market. The remarks of Director of the Budget Douglas in his address last night, in which he said the budget would be balanced and wild inflation prevented, were welcome in Wall street quarters which have been fearful that inflation would get out of hand.

Further gains in steel production were reported in various areas, and steel scrap and some lines of finished steel prices were increased at Chicago. National Steel reported net of 13 cents a share in the first quarter, against 27 cents in the like period of last year. In keeping with advance estimates, Bethlehem's report showed a slightly larger deficit than in the preceding quarter. Both bookings and operations, however, were up substantially.

International silver, which has recently received considerable bullish attention in view of rising prices for the metal, reported a loss of $362,319 in the first quarter. Anaconda reported for 1932 a loss of $16,930,609, offering striking testimony to the unprofitable situation in that industry. The movement to curtail output was thought to have been markedly advanced today, however, when it was learned that Phelps Dodge had decided to reduce production from 20 to 10 per cent of capacity. The suggestion of a summer shutdown has been expected to hinge on Phelps Dodge, since it has not suffered such burdensome stocks as other large producers.

GRAIN VALUES TURN DOWN

CHICAGO, April 28.—Material downturns of grain values took place early today. Weakness was attributed largly to active selling on the part of eastern holders. Opening ¼-1 cent lower, wheat afterward fell further. Corn started at ⅛-⅜ off and continued downgrade.

Tumbles of wheat prices carried the market down to more than five cents a bushel under quotations last Monday. Numerous stop orders were forced into execution. Corn and oats receded with wheat.

Provisions were easier, influenced by downturns of hog values and of grains.

Forbes

Politics Now Embody Little But Business.

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

WOULD IT—or would it not—be a gracious and diplomatic idea for President Roosevelt to invite each foreign government representative to make a talk, at some appropriate public function or over the radio, to the American people on the eve of leaving for home, after concluding the Washington confabs?

Apparently, Franklin D. Roosevelt possesses unusual aptitude for impressing men with his sincerity, his cordiality, his ability, his fairmindedness.

The probability is, therefore, that each departing plenipotentiary would publicly voice his satisfaction with the reception accorded him and the attitude of our President towards international problems.

Having done so, it would be morally incumbent upon each delegate to express similar sentiments on returning to his own people.

IN THIRTY years I have never seen a more influential gathering than that which met in New York to honor the British Prime Minister before he set sail.

Nor have I ever heard a speech which appealed more to listeners as ringing true with sincerity.

Ramsay MacDonald is a straight-backed, square-shouldered, handsome human, sentimental, emotional, religious, yet never allowing idealism to blind him to stern realities. He indulged in no hyperbolic flag-waving, no fine-sounding but impractical oratory.

In effect, he said:

"Let the two English-speaking nations be friends, be such close and sure friends that honest differences of opinion can be frankly expressed, such friends that, after manly and courageously voicing all divergent sentiments, there will return 'a merry twinkle in the eye and a smile that almost twinkles at the edges of one's mouth.'"

INVITATIONS TO the pilgrims of the United States banquet said: "Formal dress; with decorations."

It was interesting to note the wearers and the non-wearers of decorations. The British Premier wore no decoration whatsoever. Ex-Ambassador Mellon also was in plain evening dress, as was Toastmaster Nicholas Murray Butler, notwithstanding that he is one of the most-decorated men in America.

J. P. Morgan wore on his lapel what looked like a miniature American flag.

The platform guest who sported the most dazzling array of ribbons, stars, medals, etc., etc., was the giant British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay. His ornaments were not even approached by any American at the head table, but here and there throughout the audience there were Americans who were so densely hung with decorations that they suggest armour-clad knights of old.

I found myself remarking mentally:

"The bigger the citizen, the fewer the glittering embellishments."

ALTHOUGH THE guest of honor is a statesman, it was perhaps significant of the new day and the new conditions that the great majority of the vast audience were business men, men of affairs, large employers, men not identified with politics.

Is it not infinitely true that politics today consists almost wholly of economics, that national and international problems are essentially problems of industry, commerce, finance, the making it possible for all to be given opportunity to earn an honest, honorable livelihood?

UNLESS THAT elementary, cardinal goal can be attained, unless ways and means can be evolved to enable all decent human beings to maintain their self-respect by performing useful tasks, by serving their fellowmen, the pow-wows at Washington, at London, at Geneva, will prove tragically futile.

The outlook is far from hopeless. In this country it promises to become distinctly more hopeful. Indeed, many things have already begun to move in the right direction.

Report of British United Shoe Machinery Company, Ltd., for year ended December 31, 1932, shows net income of £416,102 after expenses, directors' fees and write-off of freehold and leasehold properties, compared with net income of £380,160 in preceding year. Capital stock consists of 390,960 preference shares (par £1) and 2,073,600 ordinary shares (par £1).

LOCOMOTIVE EQUIPMENT

The Interstate Commerce Commission has denied requests of the railroads for a rehearing and reconsideration of its recent order requiring the installation of power reverse gear equipment on locomotives in lieu of manually operated controls.

RITTER DENTAL MANUFACTURING

Net loss of Ritter Dental Manufacturing Company for the year ended December 31, 1932, was $325,522 after charges, taxes, depreciation, etc., compared with net profit of $235,914 in 1931.

LOCAL MARKET MOVEMENTS NARROW

Trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange slowed up noticeably today, reflecting the further contraction of the movement on the "big board." Price changes here were extremely narrow, being confined to the smaller fractions in practically all cases. In New York the same irregularity was in evidence as characterized the market yesterday. Volume was lower and there were numerous brief periods in which the tickers were silent, a marked change from recently when the reporting facilities were being pushed by daily turnovers running to 5,000,000 shares and above.

The local fuel group, usual leaders of trading, provided little of interest today. Lone Star was dull and narrow as was Western Public Service. Arkansas Gas held steady. Industrial issues were inactive and only a few traders were recorded in this section. A small block of Follansbee preferred came out at 11, off 2½ points from its last previous sale, two weeks ago.

FRANCO-BRITISH LOAN CLOSED

PARIS, April 28.—A contract has been concluded between the French treasury and a group of British banks, under which, according to reliable reports, the former will receive a six-month loan of some £30,000,000 in the form of British treasury bills, which will be taken up from the market. The proceeds are to be sold through the agencies of the two national banks against francs, thus serving the purpose of relieving the upward pressure against sterling and providing the French treasury with working capital.

No gold or exchange guarantee is involved in the loan because it is repayable in sterling.

The agreement indirectly must result in a cessation of buying gold from the Bank of France by the British exchange fund as a result of purchaseing francs in the course of its operations to check rising sterling in terms of francs.

U. S. Dollar Down Against Sterling

NEW YORK, April 28.—Passage in the Senate of the clause in the inflation legislation empowering the President to change the gold content of the dollar brought a rise in the major foreign exchanges today.

British pound sterling jumped 5 cents to $3.78, and all the European gold currencies led by the franc rallied sharply following the opening.

Nevada's Directors Take Kennecott Bid

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP.)—Directors of Nevada Consolidated Copper Company today voted to accept an offer by Kennecott Copper Corporation for acquisition of Nevada's properties, subject to approval of the latter's stockholders at a meeting on June 1.

The offer is one share of Kennecott, which already owns more than 87 per cent of the Navada Company's stock, for two of Nevada.

Board Denies Plan Of Dumping Tobacco

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(INS.)—The Federal Farm Board has no intention of causing the dumping of large stocks of tobacco owned by co-operatives who have borrowed money from the board, Chairman Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said today.

Instead, he added, the board plans to assist the co-operatives in an orderly marketing program.

PRICES KNOTTY PROBLEM FOR GOVERNMENT

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, April 28.—We all know what is meant by getting the cart before the horse. We know that we do that when we try to get a result without attending first to the causes which make the result possible.

For example, suppose the "movie houses" of the country were to say, we want more earnings, so we will print more tickets. They would only have the same number of seats, but they would make more tickets.

Then they could sell the tickets at half price, and if their houses were not already full, they could get more people in. The question would be, whether the people who wanted to go to the movies could afford to buy the cheaper tickets.

OPINIONS DIFFER

Nowadays nearly everybody seems to think that we want "higher prices." I wonder, however, if this is what we really want. Do we not really want the condition of business which generally precedes higher prices? We know that when prices rise of their own accord business is usually good; so we conclude that any sort of a rise in prices would mean good business.

That may be putting the cart before the horse. Some would say that it is like printing more movie tickets, and argue that this would not increase earnings. Others say that cheaper tickets would be distributed among so many more people that total earnings would be larger.

I think that what all of us really want is good business and good earnings, based on a strong condition of demand and supply. We want the conditions which cause and justify rising prices.

This means that we want the real purchasing power of the people increased, and production adjusted to demand, so that products can be sold at a profit. We want to see surplus stocks of commodities reduced by consumer buying. And we know that when these things occur, commodity prices will be strong.

PREFER NATURAL RISE

Some of us draw the conclusion that if only we can in any way force prices up, business will be good.

Others argue that unless prices rise as a result of real strength in the business conditions which make prices, no lasting good can be accomplished.

We would all prefer a "natural" rise in prices. We want a strong demand based on consumer purchasing power. We want a strong supply situation based on moderate production and reduced surplus stocks. The question now before us is, would an artificial rise based on cheaper dollars get the same or equally good results?

INTERESTS CONFLICT

Another point to note is that each wants the price of what he has to sell to go up. He does not want a rise in what he has to buy. The farmer wants wheat to rise, but not fertilizers or machinery.

The debtor wants higher prices. The creditor does not.

The laborer wants higher money wages, but he wants lower retail prices.

The exporter wants higher prices in foreign markets, but lower prices at home. The importer wants higher prices at home, but lower prices abroad.

Finally, the government, as a borrower or debtor, wants higher prices. But the people to whom the government must sell its bonds will hesitate to lend money to the government if the purchasing power of the dollar is made uncertain in any attempt to force prices up.

RULE DIFFICULT

So you see, it is extremely difficult to lay down any general rule. It is utterly impossible to do what everybody wants. You may help some, but you may hurt others.

That is the reason why the government, which should represent the common interests of all, finds so much difficulty in dealing with prices in a general way.

Foote Gets Steel Corporation Post

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP.)—The United States Steel Corporation yesterday announced that F. D. Foote, formerly president of the Pittsburgh Forgings Company and the Greenville Steel Car Company, had been made assistant to C. L. Wood, commercial vice president.

Foote, it was explained, will be responsible for "the co-ordination of sales efforts affecting the railroads and the railroad equipment industries."

Loans to Brokers Expand $75,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City, increased $75,000,000 during the week ended April 26, to $461,000,000. This compares with $386,000,000 in the preceding week, with the high record of $6,804,000,000 October 2, 1929, and the record low of $331,000,000 on July 27, 1932.

Republic Operating 50% at Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 28.—(INS.)—Steel ingot production at the Republic Steel Corporation reached 50 per cent capacity today with the receipt of new orders. One hundred men were recalled to the mills as the operations increase was announced.

Operations of the Youngstown district as a whole soared today to 30 per cent of capacity, against 24 per cent at the week's start.

FURTHER TRADE GAIN NOTED

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP.)—Further gains in wholesale and retail trade were reported today by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

The probable effect of inflation doubtless was the chief contributing factor to the enlarged sales total, said the agency, as the gains in retail trade were somewhat surprising following the breadth of the demand which continued during the post-Easter week and the fact that the weather has been none too auspicious to promote consumers' interest. The report continued:

"The broadening of the buying wave this week extended to a long list of commodities which usually are not conspicuous for their activity, and spread to finished and semi-finished goods, bringing April to a close as one of the most momentous months in years for both the producing and distributing branches of trade.

"Industrial concerns have released large orders for raw and semi-finished materials in an effort to build up depleted inventories, while wholesalers and retailers of merchandise have entered the market for goods on a scale unapproached for many months. There appears to be a well-founded ground for the statement that unemployment has shown a moderate decrease, with the entire employment situation developing hopeful aspects."

Prospects for Steel Improve as Output Starts Rebound

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

STEEL PRODUCTION has expanded to 27 per cent of capacity and there is a strong probability that the 30 per cent level will be passed soon. In addition, price shading is becoming less prevalent and higher prices have been announced for strips. General price advances are reported to be under consideration.

While operations at the present rate are far from brisk, they hold out the promise that at least some of the companies may be able to restore themselves to a profitable basis in the near future.

Executives of several outstanding steel producers have declared that their organizations could show a profit on operations of 30 to 40 per cent of capacity. This has been made possible by drastic economies.

Higher Rate May Eliminate Losses

IF OPERATIONS pass the 30 per cent level and stay above that point during the balance of the second quarter, a large share of the outstanding companies will be able to show small profits, and losses of the remaining companies will be materially cut down.

Of course, it is impossible to tell at the present time just how far the current rally in steel demand will go or whether it will be lasting. But with production at the highest point in a year, the prospects for the industry are materially brighter. At least we can expect that income accounts for the second quarter of the year will show a substantial degree of improvement.

Operations are not the only encouraging factor in steel. The firmness in prices is of particular importance since it indicates that the industry may be recovering from its desire to sell at any price.

Only One Company Is Showing Profit

AT THE PRESENT time the National Steel Corporation is the only outstanding steel producer which is operating at a profit. This company earned 13 cents a share in the first quarter, which covered dividend requirements of 12½ cents a share for the period.

In view of the fact that a large share of the increase in steel output is attributable to buying by automobile producers, National is likely to share in the new business to a substantial extent since the company is the only large producer with a plant in the Detroit district.

Phelps Dodge Cuts Copper Production

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP.)—A further drastic curtailment in copper production to about 10 per cent of rated capacity has been put into effect by the Phelps Dodge Corporation, it was learned today. The company previously had been producing at the rate of about 20 per cent.

COTTON FALLS ON SELLING

NEW YORK, April 28.—Cotton futures opened steady, 4 to 9 lower in response to lower Liverpool cables and under liquidation and southern selling. May, 7.35; July, 7.51; October, 7.68; December, 7.86; January, 7.92; March, 8.07.

Trading was moderately active at the opening with offerings absorbed by trade buying and covering at the decline to 7.49 for July contracts or about 7 points below yesterday's finals. There was some liquidation of May incident to the circulation of a few additional notices, but the market steadied after the call.

At the end of the first half hour July was selling at 7.53 and December at 7.85 or 2 to 3 points net lower.

Prices worked back to about yesterday's close during the middle of the morning. The bulge to 7.57c for July, however, met renewed realizing or liquidation and the market eased again under selling from local and Wall street houses. At midday July was ruling around 7.46c, with the general list showing net declines of 6 to 10 points.

LIVERPOOL, April 28.—Cotton, 14,000 bales including 12,500 American. Spot in fair demand; prices 1 point lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.28; good middling, 5.98; strict middling, 5.68; middling, 5.53; strict low middling, 5.33; low middling, 5.18; strict good ordinary, 4.98; good ordinary, 4.68. Futures closed steady. May, 5.22; July, 5.23; October, 5.23; December, 5.25; January, 5.26; March, 5.29.

Rubber Market.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Crude rubber futures opened barely steady. May, 3.91 @3.93; July, *4.20; September, *4.30; December, 4.50@4.51. *Bid; †asked.

HOARDERS HOLD $739,000,000 OF GOLD

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP.)—Gold hoarders of the country, with only two business days left before they face fines of $10,000 and 10 years' imprisonment, today still held millions of dollars of the yellow metal.

The Federal Reserve Board weekly review of the condition of Federal Reserve banks showed that on Wednesday the Reserve banks' gold reserves amounted to $3,396,338,000, an increase of $712,797,000 since March 8, and of $30,743,000 in the last week.

In addition to the gold held by the banks the Treasury has approximately $175,000,000 in free gold and as backing for Treasury notes. With the total gold of the country estimated at $4,310,000,000, this still left $739,000,000 unaccounted for, but officials do not believe all that is in the United States.

CIRCULATION DOWN

The report showed money in circulation in the United States decreased by $74,000,000 during the last week to $5,994,000,000, less by $1,544,000,000 than it was on March 8.

At the same time, the board reported the Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation amounted to $3,424,114,000 as compared with $3,477,393,000 a week ago.

The gold held exclusively back of Federal Reserve notes amounted to $2,735,617 as compared with $2,692,229,000 last week.

The decrease in the circulation and the increase in the gold back of it made the gold ratio to Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation amount to 79 per cent.

During the week the use of the new Federal Reserve Bank notes increased from $24,529,000 to $38,798,000.

BANK STATUS IMPROVED

Improvement in the country's banking condition was shown by another increase in the reserve ratio against note liability and deposits, which went from 61.5 to 62.7 in the week.

The Reserve board, in its monthly review of business and financial conditions, said that during February and the early part of March the circulation of gold and gold certificates had increased by $170,000,000, bringing the total to $1,389,000,000 on March 4, but that on March 31 the total amount of both gold and gold certificates outside the Treasury and Federal Reserve banks had dropped to $760,000,000, the lowest figure since 1923.

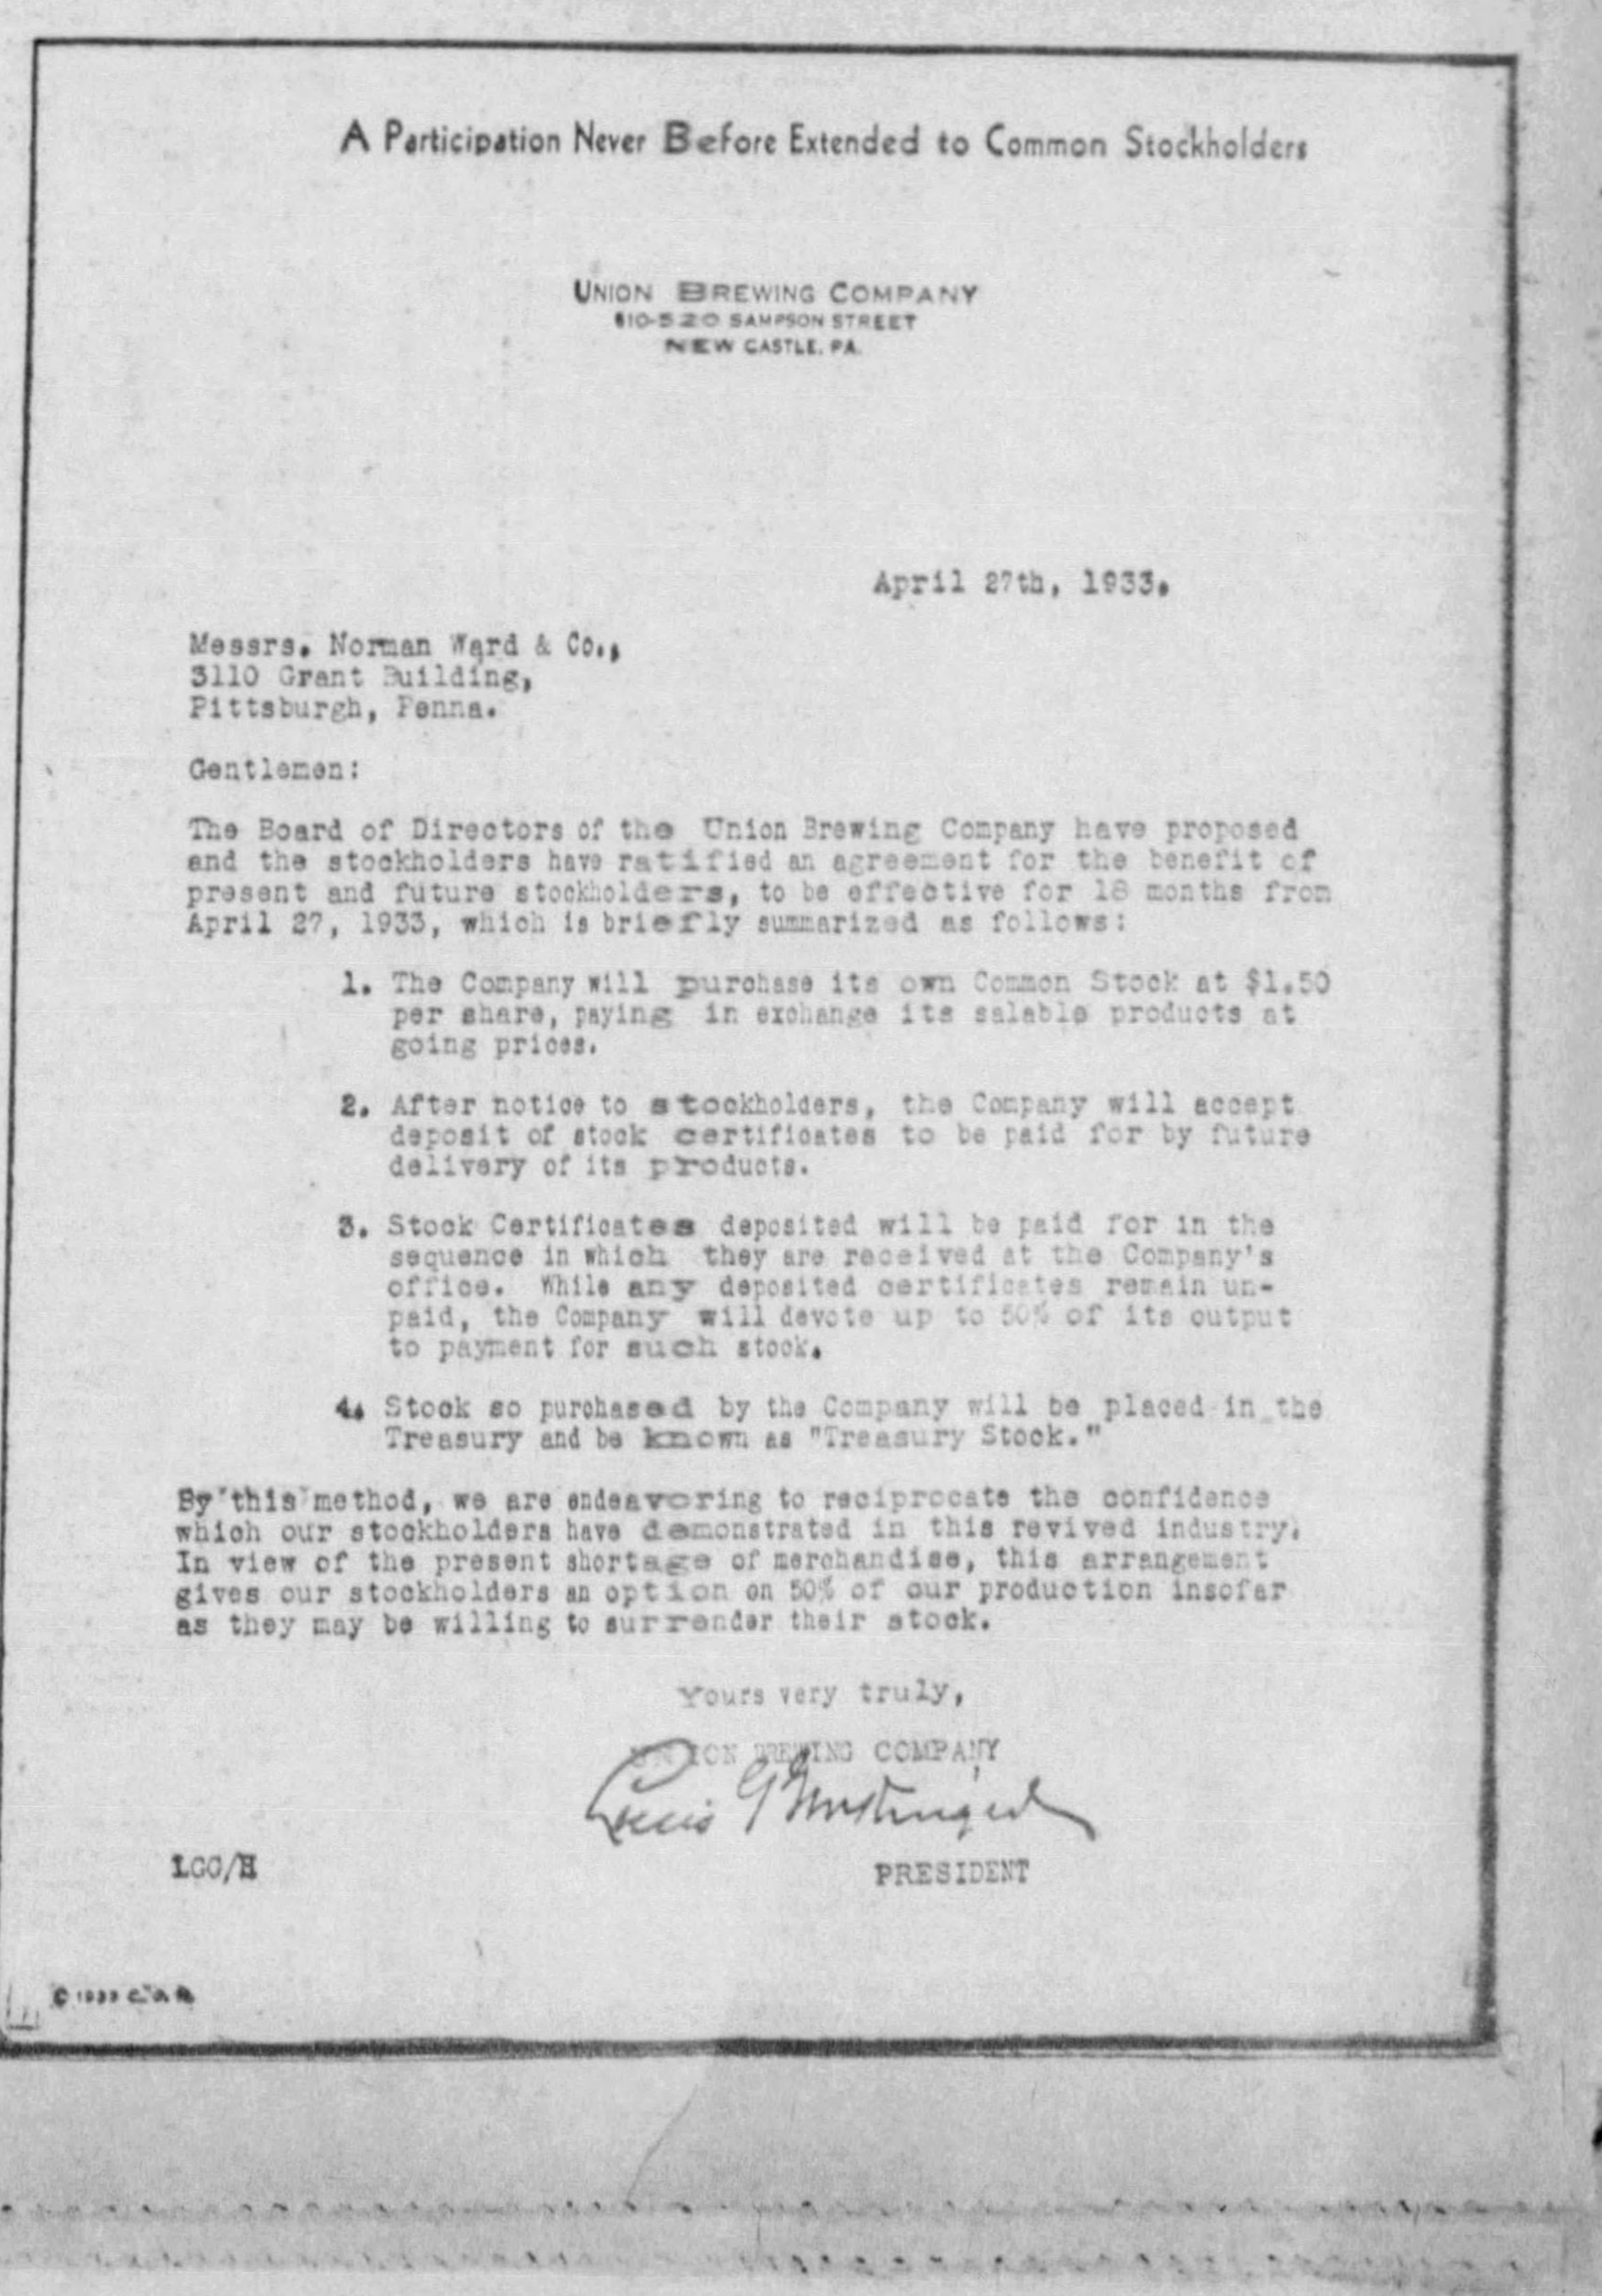
A Participation Never Before Extended to Common Stockholders



UNION BREWING COMPANY
510-520 SAMPSON STREET
NEW CASTLE, PA.

April 27th, 1933.

Messrs. Norman Ward & Co.,
3110 Grant Building,
Pittsburgh, Penna.

Gentlemen:

The Board of Directors of the Union Brewing Company have proposed and the stockholders have ratified an agreement for the benefit of present and future stockholders, to be effective for 18 months from April 27, 1933, which is briefly summarized as follows:

1. The Company will purchase its own Common Stock at $1.50 per share, paying in exchange its salable products at going prices.
2. After notice to stockholders, the Company will accept deposit of stock certificates to be paid for by future delivery of its products.
3. Stock Certificates deposited will be paid for in the sequence in which they are received at the Company's office. While any deposited certificates remain unpaid, the Company will devote up to 50% of its output to payment for such stock.
4. Stock so purchased by the Company will be placed in the Treasury and be known as "Treasury Stock."

By this method, we are endeavoring to reciprocate the confidence which our stockholders have demonstrated in this revived industry. In view of the present shortage of merchandise, this arrangement gives our stockholders an option on 50% of our production insofar as they may be willing to surrender their stock.

Yours very truly,

UNION BREWING COMPANY

PRESIDENT

LGG/H

Union Brewing Company
New Castle, Pa.
COMMON STOCK
at $1.50 per Share

TEACHERS HOPE AS BILL PASSES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 28.—(AP.)—A new hope for financial relief went out to Chicago's army of unpaid school teachers today as a result of action by the Illinois General Assembly.

The Senate of the Assembly early today passed and sent to Gov. Henry Horner for his signature, a House bill designed to force delinquent tax collection in Chicago and thereby break a tax strike which has been regarded as one of the main stumbling blocks in the city's road back to financial stability.

The measure, known as the Skarga bill, gives the Cook County treasurer the authority to appoint receivers for properties on which taxes are delinquent, and to collect incomes therefrom.

It was championed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago, who was present when the upper house passed it by a vote of 44 to 2. The Cook County treasurer, Joseph McDonough, also present, said he would put its provisions into effect next Monday. Its approval today by the Governor was regarded as certain.

'Herb Doctor' Pleads Guilty; Goes to Jail

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 28—Ira Anthony, self styled "herb doctor" today pleaded guilty to practicing medicine without a license and was sentenced from four to eight months in jail.

GIRL MISSING; SEEK MECHANIC

CHARLEROI, Pa., April 28.—Scouting a theory that her daughter had eloped, Mrs. Irene Spencer today re-enlisted the aid of police in a search for the girl, Margaret, 17, who disappeared Wednesday.

She requested police to search for an unemployed mechanic, with whom the girl was believed to have eloped. Mysterious telephone calls have been received at the Spencer home, and today a final one added a sinister touch of mystery to the girl's disappearance.

Convention Held Up; Waits Pay Outcome

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP.)—James W. Crabtree, secretary of the National Education Association, said today its officials were delaying decision on whether to cancel the summer convention in Chicago until they could determine if "Chicago intended to do the right thing for its unpaid teachers."

Noted Judge Killed Self, Coroner Finds

LONDON, April 28.—(INS.)—Justice McCardie, Britain's famous "bachelor judge," who delivered many sensational judgments on marital tangles, committed suicide while of unsound mind, according to a coroner's verdict handed down today.

PUBLISHER FREED IN 'SCRAP' WITH WIFE

CLEVELAND, April 28.—(AP.)—The trouble between George A. Bronson, Cleveland music publisher, and his bride in their hotel room recently was "just a scrap between two people."

With this comment, Criminal Judge Virgil Terrell yesterday acquitted Bronson of a charge of assault with intent to kill lodged by Mrs. Bronson, the former Mrs. Edythe Hill Dusek.

She obtained a divorce from Earl Dusek, former University of Pittsburgh dental student, in 1931 and later brought a $100,000 alienation of affections suit against her mother-in-law, Mrs. C. G. Hill.

During the two-day hearing Mrs. Bronson testified her husband had paid a friend of his $2,000 to compromise her. Bronson declared his wife forced him to marry her with threats. He has since sought a divorce.

Bronson is the brother of Harry Stanley, pardoned "fugitive" from Colorado and Missouri, where he was known as Glenn Sneeman.

Mrs. Bronson was on the stand most of yesterday describing the evening when she said Bronson attacked and beat her. She said Bronson left her in their hotel room with a friend and reappeared later. She said the "friend" made advances, but that she resisted them.

Bronson testified that he returned to the hotel that night and climbed out on a balcony to observe his hotel room through a window. There he said he saw Mrs. Bronson in the arms of another man. He said he suspected they were calling each other endearing names. He denied he attacked Mrs. Bronson.

Philadelphia School Damaged by Blaze

'FIRST LADY' GRIDIRON RIVAL

By DOROTHY LUCAS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Something new in the annals of Washington society will be written tomorrow night at the White House, when the first feminine Gridiron dinner in history will be given by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The President's wife will be hostess to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Minister to Denmark Ruth Bryan Owen, all women members of Congress, feminine newspaper correspondents and a number of prominent women politicians, who, because of their sex, are barred from attendance at the exclusive Gridiron Club dinner, scheduled also for tomorrow.

Mrs. Roosevelt therefore decided to give a rival dinner.

The same rules will be applied as are traditional at the men's dinner. Guests will speak, but there will be "no reporters present." Frankness will be the requirement of the occasion.

FURTHER TEST ON BANK TAX RULE LOOMS

Possible reaction in Pittsburgh banking circles was seen today in the court decision that $46,442,462 deposits of depositors in the Dollar Savings Bank, a mutual savings institution, are exempt from the 4-mill personal property tax.

Judge H. Walton Mitchell, in Orphans' Court, yesterday refused the county's claim for five years' taxes from the estate of Jerry McCarty, 3413 Sunnyside street, in the first test suit of this nature since the founding of the Dollar Savings Bank in 1855.

The decision affects only this institution in Allegheny County because it is the single mutual bank west of Harrisburg, having no capital stock, depositors being stockholders and profits being paid in dividends instead of interest, according to Francis S. Guthrie, president.

BANS STATE LEVY

However, a second test suit may have to be taken to the courts, according to financial authorities, as a result of the recent amendment to the personal property tax law which places the taxing power with the state. Guthrie contends that:

> "We are exempt even from the state's taxing power in this field. We are exempt from all state taxes except on profits."

If the 4-mill personal property tax is assessed against banks directly, they would be required to provide it out of earnings, thereby cutting down interest to depositors, in the opinion of experts.

The secret of the bank's unique freedom fram taxes is the mutual charter obtained when Charles A. Colton came from New England and founded it 78 years 2ago, Guthrie explained. The charter sets down rules to insure conservative banking, restricting mortgages to Allegheny, Butler and Beaver counties and bonds to Pennsylvania corporations. Under its provisions no money can be loans can be loaned on farm property.

SYSTEM EXPLAINED

A board of 39 trustees is the governing body, appointing an executive board and electing officers.

No officer or trustee is permitted to borrow from the bank and the trustees receive no pay. The board of trustees is self-perpetuating with approval of Common Pleas Court.

The soundness of such a policy, Guthrie pointed out, is indicated by the number of depositors, their total deposits and the bank's $4,207,558 surplus.

Another argument in favor of the mutual policy, as given by the bank's president, is the fact that the Dollar Savings Bank was the only one in Pittsburgh to permit any amount of withdrawals during 1932 without demanding notice.

Since George Albree became its first president in 1855, there have been only six other presidents, Guthrie being named December 1, 1931.

'Babe Ruth Rays' Help Science Fight Cancer

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(INS.)—Production of 2,000,000-volt X-rays by a scientific juggling method was described today to the American Physical Society by Dr. Jesse W. M. Dumond, of California Institute of Technology.

Previous high-voltage X-rays, useful in cancer and atomic researches, never exceeded 1,000,000 volts.

Dr. Dumond utilized something of the relationship between pitcher and batter in baseball games in his appartus.

Rays at the previous high voltage of 1,000,000 volts are "pitched," so to speak, at an electrical Babe Ruth who bats the rays back to a given spot at an additional speed of 1,000,000 volts.

DEATH CLAIMS BLOODLESS BOY

FREEPORT, Pa., April 28.—Roger Morgan, 9, whose strange illness baffled physicians for months, died at his home yesterday. For some time he had been a patient at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh.

During his illness he submitted to 22 blood transfusions.

Paralysis of the blood-forming organ, causing anemia, was given by physicians as the reason for his death. The transfusions had failed to show marked improvement in the boy's condition, and six weeks ago he was permitted to return home in the belief that the change would prove beneficial.

Although confined to a wheel chair he appeared to be improving and hope was expressed for his complete recovery a few days ago.

Farmers Vote Delay In Milk Strike Plan

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(AP.)—About 1,000 Central Pennsylvania dairy farmers last night voted against an immediate milk strike in the Harrisburg area, but formed a statewide organization for concerted action should dealers continue to refuse to meet their demands.

Industrial Leader's Daughter Divorced

EARS MAY BAR CHINESE BRIDE

SEATTLE, April 28.—(AP.)—The ears of Yee Ho Lee, 20, Chinese bride, will exclude her from the United States unless she convinces the Secretary of Labor the Seattle Immigration Board erred in deciding she was not the Ye Ho Lee born in Boston.

The girl who calls herself Lee Ho Lee and is the wife of a prominent Boston Chinese, sought admission to the United States on the strength of a card of identification issued by the immigration service 15 years ago to a little American-born Chinese girl who was being taken by her father on a visit to the Orient.

But the ears of that little girl had large lobes, whereas those of the girl who says she is Yee Ho Lee, have none.

VOTE MACHINE DEFECT SHOWN

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 28.—(AP.)—A Pittsburgh voting machine expert demonstrated in Schuylkill County Court yesterday how, by "fixing" one of the machines, a candidate could be cheated out of votes.

Benjamin B. Sklar, former shop foreman of the Poole Engineering Company, of Baltimore, manufacturers of the machines, showed that votes could be manipulated by maneuvering the "party lever" for a ticket which controls the ballot set-up, and then by tampering with the "pinion gear."

WOMAN ACCUSING CULT REGAINS RICHES

NANIAMO, B. C., April 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Connally, former Asheville, S. C., society woman, has won a suit for $37,000 against the missing leader of an island cult in which she said once wealthy persons were induced to give up all worldly possessions.

Chief Justice Aulay Morrison, of the Supreme Court, awarded Mrs. Connally the full amount of her claim against Amiel de Valdez, otherwise known as Edward A. Wilson, and Brother XII, the leader of the colony.

Mrs. Connally testified Brother XII and his companion and secretary, Zura de Valdez, disappeared recently and that the cult had disbanded.

Saying she had left a life of ease to follow the leadership of Wilson, Mrs. Connally related details of life at the colony, known as the Cedar-by-the-Sea Foundation. She said the movement boasted a membership of 8,000 and included persons of wealth and prominence, among them the late Will Levington Comfort, American author.

Later, she said, she turned over to "Brother XII" approximately $35,000 for the purchase of two islands for the colony.

Finally, Mrs. Connally testified, through "mental domination," she was compelled after her money was exhausted, to plow a three-acre field, carry wood and scrub floors. "Brother XII" then departed with two women companions, she declared.

P. O. S. of A. to Hold Annual Session Here

The forty-seventh annual session of the Pennsylvania State Camp, Patriotic Order of Americans, Ladies' Auxiliary of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday in the William Penn Hotel. A banquet Monday night with Judge Ralph H. Smith, the principal speaker, will precede the convention and a class of candidats will be initiated Tuesday afternoon.

CUB PLAY REFLECTS LOSS OF CUYLER

THOUGH THE CUBS managed to win here yesterday for their fourth victory in 10 games, it was made possible only by the mental lapses of the Pirates, and the impression the Bruins left was that the loss of Kiki Cuyler until the end of June has weakened the machine to an even greater extent than was at first estimated. There is no doubt that Cuyler has been missed sorely thus far. Only once have the league champions of 1932 scored as many as four runs, and they lost that game to the Pirates in 10 innings. In 10 games to date they have scored only 23 runs. Frank Demaree has made only five hits and two runs for the feeble average of .122, and the runs he has knocked in total only two. Unless Demaree, a good enough fielder, takes a big brace, at bat, it looks as though a stronger replacement for Cuyler will be necessary if Chicago is to be a contender for another flag.

Kiki Cuyler

The unimpressive attack of the Cubs, not to mention the fact that on the defensive side Guy Bush was behind on the majority of the Gibson batters, made the Pirate reverse all the harder to swallow. Some games must be lost, of course, but defeats don't go down easily when they're due to sleepwalking. Bill Swift ruined an otherwise well-pitched game by taking a semi-pro windup with runners on the bases and permitting two men with no more speed than Stephenson and Grimm to pull a fatal double steal, and Tony Piet contributed earlier to the downfall by showing a recurrence of his weakness of last year in allowing himself to be pulled out of position when Stephenson started for second with Grimm, a left-hand hitter at the plate, the result being that Grimm got a single on what should have been an easy out. Let's hope the defeat will be a lesson.

EVIDENTLY IT WAS no idle boast when Walter Beck came up to the Dodgers from Memphis and told the world he was good. He's proving it. Beck is the outstanding new pitcher of the spring. Yesterday's victory was his third in four starts. He has allowed only four runs in the four games, and he yielded only two tallies in the one event he lost. He won, 7 to 1, 2 to 1, and 1 to 0, and lost, 1 to 2.

The coming of Beck spelled a lot of grief for Ed Brandt, who is running away with the tough luck prize. All of Brandt's three games so far have been pitched against Beck, and though the Braves' star left-hander gave up only four runs and 12 hits all told, he lost two of the three contests, because his own club made a total of only three runs behind him.

THOUGH THE FINNEY family already has two representatives in the major leagues in Hal, the Pirate catcher, and Lou, who is playing left field for the A's, in the hole left by Al Simmons, a third member may be up there some day.

Hal and Lou report that they have a younger brother who may be among the big leaguers of the future. He is just completing a high school course in Buffalo, Ala. The third Finney is 19 and will be ready for a tryout in the minors in June.

THE SUCCESS OF Carl Hubbell this spring in holding opponents to one run in 32 2-3 innings, fanning 13 men in one game and pitching his last 25 innings without being scored on, is attributed to improved control of his screw ball. Larry French and others also use the pitch, but Hubbell has so perfected it that old-timers insist it is a left-hand reproduction of Christy Mathewson's famous fadeaway. The ball breaks the same way—dips under and away from a right-hand batter just as Matty's fadeaway broke away from a left-hand hitter. Hubbell says that except for the spread of the top fingers he holds the ball just as he does for a fast one. It's the wrist action that gives the ball the break. The wrist is turned inward toward the head, whereas an ordinary curve is thrown with an outward flip of the wrist and hand. "It will be as famous in time as was Matty's fadeaway," says Tom Clark, veteran Giant coach. "It should be. I saw them both pitch, batted against Matty, in fact, and can't tell the deliveries apart. It's a ball few of the batters will hit—ever."

Ray Caldwell

FATHER TIME gets them all. Even old Ray Caldwell finally has retired from baseball after a pitching career of almost a quarter of a century. Though 45 years old he was a regular pitcher up to last season for Birmingham in the Southern Association.

On the day of his retirement, Caldwell received the news of the birth of a grandson. His son, Ray, Jr., pitched on the same club with the veteran in Birmingham with fine results, but the son decided to give up baseball, and now the father follows him.

AFTER PITCHING INDEPENDENT ball for Barthville and Butler in 1909, Caldwell, a telegraph operator, was brought into the professional game in 1910 by Senator-County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, then operating the McKeesport club in the Ohio and Pennsylvania League. In the fall of 1910, the pitcher was sold to the Yankees.

Ray developed into a star, but his habits were against him. Connie Mack remarked in 1914 that if Caldwell could be made to take baseball seriously he would be the greatest pitcher in the majors. The Yankees, unable to handle the hurler, finally sold him to Cleveland, and while pitching for the latter club on September 10, 1919, he shut out the Yanks without a hit.

WHILE OLD CLARENCE DE MAR failed to win out in the 1933 Boston Marathon last week in his fourteenth time as a starter, he may have set the stage for a victory next year, if tradition holds true. Though he will be 45, De Mar expects to be a contestant again in 1934, and in that event hunch players might find it wise to back him to win. For De Mar finished eighth this year, and in the last three seasons the runner finishing eighth came back to finish first the following spring. Jimmy Henigan wound up in eighth position in 1930 and won the following year. Paul DeBruyn was eighth in 1931 and won in 1932. Leslie Pawson was eighth in 1932 and was the winner last week. Accordingly, De Mar, eighth in 1933, may be due to come home first in 1934.

IT IS REPORTED unofficially that the annual tournament of the Union Printers International Baseball League will be awarded to Cleveland for 1934. It was held there once before, in 1922. This year's tournament will be held in Detroit, August 5 to 12, and it marks the organization's twenty-fifth anniversary.

Washington's team, winner of 10 titles, will be the defending champion in the Silver Jubilee tourney at Detroit. Teams from 13 cities will compete. A golf championship, added a few years ago, and the title will be defended this time by James Cochrane, of St. Louis.

THE DEPRESSION HAS hit college football everywhere and forced retrenchment, but some of the big schools that figure they are hard pressed in being forced to cut their coaching staffs to four or five men don't know when they're well off.

One college team was reported practicing without a football last fall, and now another small institution has been holding spring practice drills despite the fact that no ball was available for use. The athletic budget has been cut so much that there was no cash with which to purchase a pigskin.

Bill Carr

THE ABSENCE OF Bill Carr, 400-meter champion, whose running days were ended by injuries suffered in an automobile crash a couple of months ago, leaves the Penn Relays today and tomorrow without one of the brightest individual stars and so changes the complexion of the main relay feature that the weakened Penn team has lost the ranking of favorite to New York U., but otherwise the thirty-ninth Quaker carnival of the baton carriers promises to have all the color of previous meets. This is one outdoor track classic that has not been affected by the times. At least 3,000 athletes of the college, secondary and primary grades will compete, seven Olympic stars are included among the contestants, and virtually every college in the East that boasts a footracing team is represented. Keen competition, the uncovering of new stars and the possible cracking of records promise to make the meet one of the greatest in all the history of this oldest athletic gathering of its kind in the world.

TONY DEPENDS ON SCIENCE TO WIN

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tony Herrera vs. Tracy Cox, 10 rounds, and Fritzie Zivic vs. Patsy Hennigan, Harry Lennox vs. Scotty Scottan, Harry Weekly vs. Heebee Thomas and Sammy Paris vs. Johnny Warner, 6 rounds each, Arena, North Side.

Golden Gloves amateur tournament, Natrona.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

"I'm sorry, but I'm afraid I'll have to disappoint him."

Thus spoke Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight favorite from Chicago, when he got in this morning for his 10-round, well-steamed-up battle with Tracey Cox, the Hoosier Howitzer from Indianapolis, in the Arena, on the North Side, tonight.

Tony Herrera

Tony had just been informed that Cox had said he was saving up in his other two showings here against Billy Holt and Tony Falco, both of whom he had on the floor but failed to knock out, and planned to cut loose against Herrera. Tony continued:

"I've been hit by experts and my record is free from knockouts. Knowing that Cox is a dangerous puncher with both hands, as I do, will make the job just twice as tough for Tracey. It will be up to me to use speed and boxing to beat him, and I know I have the stuff with which to do it. You won't find me in there standing toe to toe and trading punches. I'll have to outthink and outbox him. If I didn't think I was going to win, I wouldn't have taken the match."

IDEAL COMBINATION

They say the best combination for an interesting fight is the pairing of a good boxer against a stiff puncher. Here you have the ingredients of such a mix tonight. Tony figures to win if it goes the limit, but there always will be the danger of his running into those heavy punches of the Indianapolis Irishman.

With Motor Square Garden closed to boxing both last Monday and next Monday, the fans have concentrated on this show, and it wouldn't be surprising if it grosses more business than any the Arena has held in its one-season history.

Fritzie Zivic and Patsy Hennigan top a card of four six-round preliminaries, beginning at 8:30.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Johnson, local Negro 140-pounder, who started out with Jimmy Thomas, but went East, is back in training here and will be ready for action in a week or two. He boxed Louis Di Santis a few years ago, and also has met Billy Purnell, Hymie Rudin and Jimmy Walker, among others.

That's a stiff tax the Illinois Athletic Commission is going to exact from boxing bouts in the future—15 per cent. It is going to make it tough for the promoters to operate at a profit unless their rental is virtually nil.

The official closing time for entries for the state amateur boxing championship tournament in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion is next Monday night. The tournament opens Thursday and runs four nights. Entries are being received from all over the state and the fixture should provide the best action of the season in any amateur tournament here.

Lenny Burkenelli has been matched with George Martsolf and Young Lowstetler with Ray Hatton for two of the bouts on the benefit amateur card for the North Siders' Baseball Club at the Arena next Tuesday night.

Dudley, Pickrel Farmed by Phils

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—(AP.)—The Phillies, of the National League, have sent a pair of pitchers, Clarence Pickrel and Clise Dudley, to minor league clubs on option.

Dudley, a member of the Quaker staff for the last three years, was farmed to the Atlanta club of the Southern Association. Pickrel, a rookie, who came to the Phillies from the Fort Worth (Tex.) club, is sent to Baltimore, of the International League.

RIOT DECISION DUE TODAY

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP.)—Will Harridge's traveling court of inquiry moved into New York today on the last lap of an investigation into the baseball riot at Washington. Final decision on what fines and suspensions, if any, should be meted out was expected before nightfall.

The American League president already has questioned umpires who officiated at the Yankee-Senator game Tuesday as well as Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager, and some of his players, notably Ben Chapman, who was one of the principals in the fray. Harridge was to hear evidence today from Joe Cronin, Washington pilot, and other Senator players including Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill.

SPORT VIGNETTES

"What the heck," said a certain big league baseball star to this writer yesterday . . . "What the heck what?" we responded . . . "What the heck about all of this excitement this season about baseball players fighting on the field?" was the reply . . . "You know, before the season opened the word went out that the presidents of both major leagues wanted the players to show more of the old life and fight on the ball field. They said the game was getting too tame and the players were too sissified . . . Then, as soon as the players began to show signs of aggressiveness and to let themselves go, along with a sucker punch now and then in the stress of battle, down came the fines and suspensions.

"It's not as it was in the old days, when a club would pay the fine if it thought the player was right . . . Now the player has to pay his own fines, and he's lucky if he doesn't get docked for the time he is on the bench . . . Now, under those conditions, how are you going to get the players to fight the umpires and one another? . . . If you ask me, it's a lot of bologny . . . If they mean what they say, why don't they let the umpires in on the secret? . . . I know they're not going to nick my pocketbook if I can help it."

Which tells the story in a nutshell . . . You can't eat your cake and have it . . . You can't tell baseball players to incite riots and then punish them for doing it . . . And you can't put the umpires on the spot and make them like it.

Did you ever spend a little time in the company of Babe Herman, the busting Bambino of the Chicago Cubs, and formerly of the Brooklyn Dodgers? . . . If you ever met up with this personable young man and listened to him talking for awhile you'd get an entirely different slant on him than you have from the many stories printed about him . . . He's been pictured as one of the laughs of baseball, an untutored youth who couldn't get by anywhere except up there at the plate popping them over the distant fences . . . Far from it . . . He's an engaging conversationalist, and if he's a dumb cluck we want to meet more of his kind . . . He talks a good game of golf, plays bridge, likes a good show and does things well that any other normal person does . . . He may not be the most graceful fielder in baseball, but he'll get by, and he'll make you like him from the first personal contact . . . Babe accompanied the Trained Seals on their jaunt to a Homestead Theater the other night, and it was an eye-opener to listen to him talking about big Eppa Jeptha Rixey, Dazzy Vance and the other stars of the game . . . It was a treat to be in his company.

Capt. Pie Traynor, of the Pirates, tells a good story about an incident that occurred during the visit of the Pirates to St. Louis this week . . . It was very cold on Tuesday and Pie was trying to warm up before the game when he was hailed by a fan in one of the boxes . . . He walked over, sizing up the gent and trying to remember where he had met him before. . . "Don't you remember me, Pie?" asked the fan. . . . "I met you in Springfield, N. C." . . . "In Springfield, North Carolina?" asked Pie. . . . "No, in Springfield, near Cincinnati," was the comeback, which warmed up Pie plenty.—HARRY KECK.

DERBY ENTRY SCRATCHED

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28.—(AP.)—The "big four" of eastern contenders for the $50,000 Kentucky Derby stake had been cut to the "big three" today with announcement by James F. Johnson, owner of the Quincy stable, that he would not send Repaid to Churchill Downs.

Repaid, one of the future book favorites, raced poorly in two starts at Havre de Grace. His withdrawal leaves W. R. Coe's Ladysman, Adolphe Pons' Swivel and F. A. Griffith's Sarada to bear the principal hopes of the East in the historic race May 6.

Short workouts were the rule for Derby eligibles today save for the Dixiana Stock Farm's Pre-War, which was sent over a mile. The chestnut colt, son of Man o' War, and regarded as a doubtful starter, covered the mile in 1:41 3-5, breezing. His fractional times were clocked as: Quarter, :23 4-5; half, :49 3-5, and three-quarters, 1:15 1-5.

Strideaway, hope of the Three D's stable, of Texas, was given a short workout, covering the quarter in :24 3-5 and three-eighths in :38 2-5.

Broker's Tip, now regarded as the best Derby bet of the Bradley stable, worked with Boilermaker and they were caught in :50 2-5 at the half after covering three-eighths in :37 3-5. Beefsteak was sent over three-eighths of a mile in :35 2-5. Bobsled went a half in :49 2-5.

SWIVEL AILING

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 28.—(INS.)—Swivel will not be a starter in the Chesapeake Stakes here tomorrow. There is grave apprehension whether the famous daughter of Swift and Sure-Toddle will be able to keep her engagement in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs a week hence.

The epidemic of coughing which has swept through the barns at the local track like a prairie fire laid siege to the Adolphe Pons stable today. It caught up with Swivel, with the result that the great 3-year-old filly was taken down with a fever of 103 degrees.

OVAL MEET POSTPONED

The track and field meet for churches of the Lawrenceville district, under the auspices of the Lawrenceville Y. M. C. A., scheduled for Schenley Oval tomorrow afternoon, has been postponed two weeks to May 13.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Vanquished twice in succession and demoted, in a manner speaking, to the runner-up position, the Pirates today realized they would have to sharpen up on their strategy if they were to regain the peak. The Buccos, on top of a tough 3-to-2 defeat handed them yesterday by the Cubs, were eager to get revenge on the noisy Redbirds, who flew into town this morning from their St. Louis coop.

Sarge Street's flock will heckle the Pirates this afternoon and tomorrow. They will have to look at the slants of Larry French, who generally measures them for a defeat, today. Sergt. Street may counter with Bill Walker to make it a southpaw duel, although he could send Tex Carleton to the slab. Tex pitched one inning in St. Louis yesterday as the Cards put over a sensational ninth-inning rally to win over the Reds.

The defeat of the Pirates was of the variety that leaves pains, bruises and post-mortems everywhere within a 100-mile radius of Pittsburgh. The fleet-footed Buccos took a couple of naps and before they could awaken the victory had flown to the Cub dugout.

SWIFT GOES TO SLEEP

Bill Swift pitched another masterly game, but he went under the ether at a crucial moment and Tony Piet started to leave his position unprotected, just before Swift lapsed into Dreamland.

Swift yielded only five hits in eight rounds and one of these would have been an easy out or perhaps a doubleplay if Flaming Youth had not gummed up the works. Bill was doing a fine job of pitching in the fourth when the Pirate bank went up for the day. A walk and a single put runners on third and first with none out, but Bill made Woodie English pop a foul to Grace.

Swift had Galli Curci Grimm off key with his fast ball, but the alert Tony at second was too fast in this instance. Now Piet is one of the best hustlers in the league and what follows here is no mean slam at the conscientious Pole, but the fact remains that Tony made a step toward second as Riggs Stephenson made a start for that bag, with Grimm swinging. Grimm's ordinary pushover

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

NEW YORK, April 28.—One of the best things about modern baseball is the rise of Ladies' Day. When I was pitching in the big leagues lady fans were scarcer than mosquitoes in mausoleums and they didn't know a foul flag from the Bulgarian national Emblem. But nowadays the girlies stampede the turnstiles like nobody's business. It's quite a tonic for the players, too, when the stands are packed with gals. The lads pull their stockings up a little tight, switch from plug tobacco to chewing gum and it's a wonder they don't even holler for neckties.

Nick Altrock

Even the umpires dust the plate off with the whiskbroom oftener and try to keep things tidy. And Ladies' Day even gets old Uncle Nick. I rub a little extra hair dye on my locks and strut my well-known sex appeal. Before the season's over I will bet you I even get mash notes at the clubhouse gate.

GIANTS CLIMB TO TOP IN NATIONAL

TERRY'S MOUND STAFF SHOWS FINE FORM

Associated Press.

The boys who follow National League developments are beginning to suspect that Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, has something up his sleeve besides a broken wrist. And that something seems to be unsuspected pitching power that he can summon forth almost every day.

When they started the season, the Giants looked no stronger than the club which finished tied for sixth place last year, what with Fred Lindstrom gone, the untried Blondy Ryan at short and the pitching staff apparently no stronger. But now, even with Sam Leslie playing first, the Giants have climbed to the top of the National League standing.

HURLERS COME THROUGH

Terry has found one great weapon in his star southpaw, Carl Hubbell, who has allowed only one run in 32 2-3 innings. In addition, in the last three days, the Giants have demonstrated that Hal Schumacher could pitch a five-hit game; that LeRoy Parmlee could come through with a one-hit performance and finally that Ray Starr, the ex-Cardinal, can do some effective hurling.

Except for some wildness, Starr pitched six good innings against the Phillies, allowing only four hits before he retired for a pinch hitter and Hubbell came in for three scoreless innings to ring up his third victory as the Giants opened up with a three-run outburst in the eighth inning, won 5 to 2 and climbed into first place.

The Chicago Cubs shoved Pittsburgh out of the lead, beating the Pirates, 3 to 2, on the strength of a big fourth inning as Guy Bush and Bill Swift fought it out on the hill.

Brooklyn beat the Boston Braves, 1 to 0, in the season's third mound duel between Walter Beck and Ed Brandt. Brandt gave only four hits to seven off Beck, but the Dodgers got one effective cluster.

The St. Louis Cardinals took their first decision from Cincinnati, bunching four singles with a walk and a fly for three runs in the ninth, to win, 3-2.

SOX BEAT TIGERS

Three four-hit pitching feats and one slugfest which saw the Chicago White Sox, led by their new "dynamite trio." Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes, blast out a 10-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers, marked the American League day.

Charley Ruffing pitched four-hit ball for the champion New York Yankees and beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-2, as Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth and Earl Comb all hit homers off Sugar Cain.

Ed Linke, Washington's 21-year-old right-hand rookie, turned in a four-hit game against the Boston Red Sox in his first start, winning 3-2 despite a burst of wildness that forced him out in the ninth. George Blaeholder held the Cleveland Indians to four safeties and the St. Louis Browns won 3-2 with the aid of some lusty clouting by Jim Levey.

Fight Results

At Fairmont—Buddy McArthur defeated Rosy Rosales, 10 rounds; John Gum defeated Young Stiffle, 6 rounds; Tom Blankenship defeated Dick Woodward, 4 rounds; Kid Gilbert won by a technical knockout over Buzz Hassigan, 3 rounds.

U. S. Horses One, Two at Newmarket

NEWMARKET, England, April 28.—(AP.)—Brown Betty, owned by the American sportsman William Woodward, today won the One Thousand Guineas, first of the two English classics for fillies.

Another American-owned horse, W. M. G. Singer's Fur Tor, was second, a half-length back, with Lord Lonsdales' Myrobella, the favorite, third, three-quarters of a length behind Fur Tor.

The race, of which today's running was the one hundred and twenty-fifth renewal, is at the mile. It drew the pick of the fillies in training in England, 22 going to the post.

The purse is 1,000 guineas, with extras which bring the total value to around $30,000.

Knockouts Mark Rox Ring Show

First, second and third round knockouts were scored at the amateur boxing show staged by the Pastorius A. C. at McKees Rocks last night. The summary:

147-pound class—Joe Thomason, North Side A. C., defeated Judy Lesko, McKeesport A. C.

147-pound class—Joe Kladdick, Pastorious A. C., defeated Frankie McLaughlin, McKeesport A. C.

STARS SET FOR PENN RELAYS

3,000 COMPETE IN EASTERN CARNIVAL

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—(AP.)—The annual two-day celebration of the birth of relay racing gets under way for the thirty-ninth time today with the firing of the starter's gun opening the University of Pennsylvania's colorful carnival.

With flashing speed and feats of prowess afield, 3,000 athletes from 500 schools and colleges compete through 86 events before the curtain is drawn on the 1933 Penn Relays late tomorrow afternoon.

Fair and warmer weather is predicted and 35,000 spectators are expected to be lured to the gala display of athletic skill by the promise of broken records and stellar performances on a fast track.

EIGHT CHAMPS BACK

Eight of America's triumphant Olympic team members and seven defending champions go to starting posts in their specialties, meeting opponents who represent the cream of the track crop in the East and much of the Middle West.

Lack of interest has led to the discarding of the gruelling decathlon, but the 30 events today and 56 more tomorrow comprise a program which promises thrills galore.

As ever, the relays come in for the major share of attention. The quarter-mile, distance and sprint medley baton-carrying events are carded for today, with Ohio State, New York University and Penn State defending titles.

METCALFE AT DRAKE

DES MOINES, April 28—(AP.)—With eyes upon membership the 1936 American Olympic team, more than 1,000 athletes from 53 universities and colleges and 57 high schools gathered today for the twenty-fourth renewal of the annual Drake relays.

Today's events consisted chiefly of preliminaries to cut down the huge field for Saturday's final races, with the fans looking to Ralph Metcalfe Marquette University's Negro sprinter, for initial thrills in the 100-yard dash.

BEYER TO LEAD LION GOLFERS

By TOM BIRKS

Lloyd Beyer, of the Aronimek Golf Club, Philadelphia, former Pennsylvania state amateur champion, will play at No. 1 position on the Penn State College golf team as the Nittany Lions clash with the University of Pittsburgh team at South Hills Country Club tomorrow morning.

Opposed to Beyer will be Art Sekay, Pitt ace who went into the final round of the city public links championship last season and who got away to a good start in his first match against Duquesne last Friday.

While the Nittany Lions and the Panthers are clashing at South Hills, the Dukes of Duquesne and Carnegie Tech are booked to meet at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

Scholastic golf holds the limelight this afternoon. Six matches are carded, three in each section. Section I finds Kiski, the champion, meeting Oliver, Allderdice playing University School and Peabody tackling Connelly. In Section II, Shady Side travels to Youghiogheny to meet McKeesport, Wilkinsburg plays Turtle Creek and Springdale entertains Brentwood.

While to Play Third for Dormont

Honey While will be the third sacker for Dormont of the City League, Manager George Falconer announced today.

Two weeks ago Dormont stated that Hal King, former Columbus star, was to cover the hot corner, but King has straightened out his troubles with organized baseball and will report to the Albany club of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

SHOOTERS VIE TONIGHT

The Pittsburgh Revolver League will hold a challenge match tonight at 7:30 on the Canonsburg police range. The 12 outstanding shooters from each revolver league in the district will compete.

BAXTER BEATEN

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 28.—(AP.)—Chino Alvarez, 137, of Tampa, won the decision over Charley Baxter, 137, of Pittsburgh here last night, in a slow 10 rounds. Both judges cast their votes for Alvarez.

'Contracts?—All Right, Knock Out Herrera'

MANAGER BERT RUMER — MATCHMAKER LEW RAYMOND — TRACEY COX

Lew Raymond, matchmaker of the Arena, on the North Side, has just told Tracey Cox he can make himself not less than $10,000 around here this summer for a series of bouts if he succeeds in being the first opponent to knock out Tony Herrera when they meet in his ring tonight. Does Tracey want that dough? Well, he isn't handcuffed, as you can plainly see in this Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture, taken in the office of the matchmaker. The bout tonight is a "natural."

PIRATES MEET CARDS TODAY

bounder grew into a hit, one run went over and two more were on the sacks.

'MANY THANKS,' SAYS LEFTY

With Mark Koenig ready to swing, Bill dozed momentarily; he wound up on the first pitch to Mark and Stevie and Lefty ambled along to third and second.

Koenig lost no time in turning the Pirate penalty into a one-run premium; Mark hit a long fly to Lindstrom as Stevie scored the second run of the inning. And while the anesthetic was still upon the Pirates they were tumbled out of first place by Catcher Leo Hartnett, who singled to center to score Grimm.

Arky Vaughan came within a foot or two of forcing a deadlock with two out in the ninth. Paul Waner opened the ninth with a single. Traynor worked Guy Bush into a two-and-nothing hole and tried to click on the next pitch. He fouled off the ball and fouled again on the succeeding offering. Pie is one of the hardest men in the game to fan, but Mississippi Abe and his astute catcher fed Pie a look in the clinch and Pie looked at the pitch for a third strike. Gus Suhr had been a setup all afternoon for Abe and he flied out.

HARD LUCK, ARKY!

Arky, the sprinter-slugger, stepped up, and when his bat spoke, 5,000 men, women and children (it was Ladies' Day) shouted in glee as the ball soared toward the home run zone.

Alas and alack! Arky's fine drive collided with the screen up near the top and he had to be content with a triple.

Perhaps the Pirates used good strategy as Piet batted, but when Tony allowed a perfect three-and-nothing ball to go by to hit a puzzling offering the jig was up Demaree camped under the ball.

Bush, however, pitched cleverly enough to win although Swift was just as effective. It was one of those battles that had to be a pain in the neck for somebody.

USE OF LEFT SIDE IN BACKSWING

Bobby Jones long has been an advocate of using the midsection of the body as a source of power in the golf swing. It is perhaps one reason why his shots sail so far with little apparent effort. Yet to utilize the power of the hips in the swing the upstroke must be the means of starting them into play. For that reason Jones obviously starts the turn back with a movement in the hips and knees, this body action causing the hands gripping the club to gradually shift back with them.

Thus the clubhead is the last to move, but, once started, its movement is accelerated gradually by further body pivot and the pushing of the left arm backward and naturally around and upward. Once last the half way mark the left wrist which is, of course, quite relaxed up until then, begins to tense itself until, at the top of the swing, it is fully cocked.

In this position it is ready to follow the movement of the hips as they start the downswing. The wrist cock is maintained until the hands are past the hip level on the downswing.

Chilly Sauce

The Pirate strategists may have been wiser than others in the duel between Tony Piet and Guy Bush in the feverish ninth. Tony had three balls and no strikes and Vaughan had to be brought in out of the cold to keep the Buccos in the game.

A pass to Tony meant Grace at the plate; it also meant a double steal setup for a deadlock and the winning run on the sacks. On the other hand you must tie before you can win. Piet looked at a nice strike and then waded into a nifty pitch for the last out.

Few Pirate fans would wish to trade their second-base combination for any other in baseball, but the exuberant kids still run away from their position on hit-and-run attempts. Vaughan is greatly improved in this respect over last season. Tony rarely does what he did yesterday. It was just one step but enough to allow an important scratch hit.

Billy Herman continues to annihilate Pirate basehits. There's a second-sacker who seems to be moving the right way all the time. It appears to be a gift with Bill, at least when he's mixing with the Pirates. Paul Waner was his victim yesterday.

If there is a star righthander in the league who has Arky's number he hasn't shown in the Oakland Orchard since Vaughan joined the Buccos. Arky tees off on aces like Warneke and Bush. His triple and single against Bush were real smacks.

The Cub infield is loaded with dash. Boss Grimm threw the Pirate craft in confusion in the first when he changed Lindstrom's grounder into a double play. I cannot see how Hal Chase could have turned the trick any smoother than it was executed by Lefty.

RACQUET LOOP OPENER SET

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The annual campaign of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League will get under way on Saturday, May 20. Decision to the foregoing effect was reached at a special meeting of the P. T. A. executive committee yesterday.

President J. Phillips Davis, of the district net body, announced that the following sanction and schedule committee will be retained in office for the coming season: J. M. Dixon, Rockwood; Austin Famariss, College Avenue; Frank S. Smith, Edgewood; Thomas Spooner, Westinghouse, and Paul G. Sullivan, P. A. A., chairman. The group will begin work on the Section I card immediately.

The Section II situation is vague. College Avenue, Washington Heights, Edgewood Seconds and Westinghouse Seconds appear set from the 1932 contingent, while Minnetonka is back after two summers on the shelf, and Belmont Tennis Club and the U. S. Bureau of Mines are new entries. Duquesne Library, South Hills and Y. M. H. A. appear quite doubtful, the Librarians being on the verge of disbanding, South Hills having lost its courts and Y. M. H. A. never having had any.

The P. T. A. junior development committee for 1933 will be comprised of Don Dixon, Rockwood; Dr. Jack Lauler, P. A. A.; J. Howard Moore, College Avenue; William L. O'Loughlin, P. A. A., and H. M Rinehart, Stanton Heights, chairman. John D. Beatty, Stanton Heights; Frank McClintock, University Club, and Chairman Robert C. Schmertz, of Edgeworth, will retain their posts as ranking committeemen.

Today's racquet bill calls for but one local engagement, Arnold School being booked to meet Duquesne Preps in Section I of the Suburban Division of the Interscholastic Tennis Conference. The tilt was originally listed for the Bluff courts yesterday, but was postponed at the behest of Arnold, which protested against playing on asphalt.

Rankin High Floor Stars Banquet Guests

Dr. Cliff Carlson, of Pitt; Chick Davies, of the Dukes; Max Hannum, of Carnegie Tech, and Cal Bolster, Bob Cadigan, Raymond Evans and Frank Good, superintendent of schools, were speakers at the testimonial banquet tendered the Rankin High School basketball team last night at the Rankin Christian Center.

More than 200 guests were on hand for the affair. The members of the team, which won the Section VIII, W. P. I. A. L., championship, were presented trophies by Coach Rosenberg.

New Doubles Leaders In Iroquois Tourney

H. Schmidt and J. Lehner took first place in the doubles competition of the Iroquois sweepstakes yesterday by bowling a total of 1,237 pins. F. Pack and F. Schmeid took second place with 1,230.

H. Waterson, of Rochester, Pa., advanced to fifth place in the singles with a score of 624.

GYM MEET OPENS

The fifth annual benefit gymnastic exhibition under the auspices of the First United Presbyterian Community House will be opened tonight in the gymnasium on Union avenue, North Side. The meet will be concluded tomorrow night. Admission to the exhibition will be by canned goods and other foodstuffs, to be given the needy families of that section.

SPORTSMEN HOLD FETE

HOLT SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Billy Holt, Pittsburgh boxer, was suspended for 30 days by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission for his failure to obey the referee in Pittsburgh last Friday.

SCHOOL NINES OPEN RACES

By JULIUS LEVIN

The city high schools will usher in the 1933 baseball campaign this afternoon with contests scheduled in both sections of the local leagues.

In the senior competition, Allegheny opens at Peabody and South makes its bow at Schenley in Section I, while in Section II, Carrick opens up at Oliver and South Hills is the attraction at Langley.

Two games are scheduled in each section of the junior league. In Section I, Baxter plays at Arsenal and Washington Trade at Gladstone. The Section II games find Knoxville at Prospect and Herron Hill at Latimer.

Two Interscholastic Golf Conference engagements were run off yesterday, with Allderdice defeating University School at Longue Vue, 16½ to 1½, and McKeesport coming back after its defeat at the hands of Wilkinsburg Tuesday to down Shady Side, 14 to 4, at Youghiogheny.

B. Palley, Allderdice's No. 1 player, scored a fine 78 to lead in the medal scoring.

In a W. P. I. A. L. contest yesterday, the Dormont High School nine defeated Findley, 2 to 1, in a well-played and closely contested game.

The annual Westmoreland County interscholastic track and field meet will be held at Greensburgh on May 13, it was announced today.

Mt. Lebanon and Swissvale scored victories yesterday in the Scholastic Tennis Conference. Mt. Lebanon defeated Shady Side Academy, 4 to 1, while Swissvale vanquished Turtle Creek Union, 3 to 2.

RELAYS ON AIR

A word picture of the important events of the Penn Relays at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, will be broadcast over the N. B. C. network, including KDKA, tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

CITY OF PITTSBURGH, PENNSYLVANIA
NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the City Controller of the City of Pittsburgh until the 9th day of May, 1933, at 11 a. m., daylight savings time, for the purchase of the following issues of bonds of said city:

$200,000 Water Works Improvement Bonds, 1933.

$500,000 Public Welfare Relief Bonds, 1933.

Said $200,000 Water Works Improvement Bonds, 1933, will be dated April 1, 1933, and the said $500,000 Public Welfare Relief Bonds, 1933, will be dated May 1, 1933, and each issue will mature in twenty (20) equal annual installments, respectively, on April 1 and May 1 of each year, respectively.

Said bonds will bear interest at the rate of [illegible] (4%) per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on April 1 and October 1 and May 1 and November 1 each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, pursuant to any present or future law.

Said $200,000 Water Works Improvement Bonds, 1933, are issued to provide funds (including engineering and other necessary expenses) for the construction, reconstruction, repairs, replacements and extension of the water supply system of the City of Pittsburgh, including among others the electrification of the Herron Hill Pumping Station and the rebuilding of the Allentown Tanks and all work appurtenant thereto and are issued by Councilmanic authority.

Said $500,000 Public Welfare Relief Bonds, 1933, are issued to provide funds for providing food, clothing, fuel and shelter for and otherwise assisting residents of the City of Pittsburgh who are without adequate means of support and were authorized by the electors at an election held April 26, 1932.

Said bonds will be coupon bonds of the denomination of one thousand ($1,000) dollars, exchangeable at the option of the holder at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of one hundred ($100) dollars or a multiple thereof not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefore.

Unless all bids are rejected the said bonds will be sold to the highest responsible bidder complying with the terms of sale. No bid for such bonds at less than par and accrued interest from the date of said bonds to the date of delivery will be accepted. The right is reserved to reject all bids and any bid not complying with the provisions hereof will be rejected. Any bidder may condition his bid upon the award to him of all or none of the bonds for which he bids.

All bidders are required to deposit a certified check drawn to the order of the City of Pittsburgh, on a national bank or trust company for two (2%) per centum of the principal amount of bonds bid for. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon the award of the bonds. No interest will be allowed upon the amount of the check of the successful bidder and such check will be retained and applied in part payment for the bonds or to secure the city against any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid.

The City of Pittsburgh reserves the right to deliver to the successful bidder temporary typewritten or printed bonds, in the form of one temporary bond for each issue, or one bond for each maturity of each issue, which shall be substantially in the same form as the definitive bonds, with appropriate omissions, insertions and variations as may be required. Until their exchange for definitive coupon bonds, the temporary bonds shall be in full force and effect according to their terms, and shall bear interest from April 1 and May 1, respectively.

Proposals should be addressed to James P. Kerr, City Controller, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and enclosed in a sealed envelope, marked on the outside, "Proposal for bonds." Bids must be made upon blank forms which may be obtained from the City Controller.

The successful bidder will be furnished with the opinions of Messrs. Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay, of Pittsburgh, that the bonds are binding and legal obligations of the City of Pittsburgh.

JAMES P. KERR,
City Controller.

THRILLING NOVEL OF THE CHILDREN OF DANCING MOTHERS

At noon, on that first day after his return, Mr. Collins came out of his private office and walked straight across the outer room to Sharlie's desk.

She was getting ready to go out to lunch and she looked up at him above the powder puff that she held in her hand.

"How'd you like to take over Edna's work while she's away on her vacation?" he asked. "Think you can manage it?" He smiled down at her, his eyes crinkling at the corners.

Synopsis

Pretty Sharlie Dunn's husband is killed on their wedding day and she returns to live with her mother, Dodie. After a brief estrangement, Sharlie's parents are reconciled. Jim Barnum, neighbor, is in love with Sharlie and reprimands her for her flirtations. Edna Ballinger, a cousin, gets Sharlie a position where she works. Edna has secretly loved her employer, Mr. Collins, for years. Sharlie finds office work dull. Sharlie wants Collins to notice her more. Jim takes her to visit some of his friends, a newly married couple. Sharlie is impressed by their beautiful home.

Now Go On

"I can try." Sharlie's heart leaped. This was a lucky break for her, she thought. To be in Edna's office, day after day, for two solid weeks, where all she had to do, to see Mr. Collins, was to turn her head and look through the doorway into his private room. To sit at the corner of his desk taking dictation. To be right in the line of his vision all day long where he couldn't help noticing her. . .

Nothing out of the ordinary happened the first week of Edna's vacation. Sharlie sat at her desk, copying Mr. Collins' letters, waiting for the sound of his bell summoning her into his office. She took his dictation, called numbers for him on the telephone, did all of her work as quietly as Edna herself could have done it.

She did not have a single chance to do anything else. Except for the things he had to say to her, he seldom spoke to her.

"I'm getting nowhere with him," Sharlie told herself on Friday night just before she dropped off to sleep. "I've just taken Edna's place in his mind. I'm just his office slave."

IS RESENTFUL

The thought filled her with sudden anger and resentment. She knew that she was much too pretty to be that and nothing more in anybody's eyes. She wasn't particularly vain, but she knew that she was far better looking than most of the girls that she saw every day on the streets and in the buildings downtown.

At 1 o'clock on Saturday Mr. Collins came out of his private office. He had his overcoat on his arm and his hat slightly sideways on his head, and he looked quite young and rakish.

"So long until Monday morning," he said. "I'm going out to play 36 holes of golf . . . This is the last good weather I'll have for a long time, I imagine, and I'm going to take advantage of it."

Sharlie's eyes were wide and wistful as she looked at him. "It must be lovely in the country on a day like this," she said. "If I owned a car I'd go for a long drive this afternoon and come back with all the red and yellow leaves I wanted . . . I love autumn, don't you?"

"I like to be outdoors any time except when it's below zero."

He reached the door and he paused there for a moment, one big brown hand closed over the knob, his eyes fixed thoughtfully on the frosted-glass pane.

HOPES FOR INVITATION

"If I hadn't made this engagement to play golf this afternoon I'd ask you to go for a drive with me, Sharlie," he said suddenly, turning to look at her. "It's too late to get out of it now, I suppose." He took out his watch and looked at it.

"Well, another time, perhaps," he finished, and went away. "Next week, maybe."

But on Monday morning he was his brisk and business-like self once more with nothing except a short, "Good morning. Has the mail come?" for her as he passed through her room into his own.

And so Monday and Tuesday passed. Lovely warm golden days, both of them. All day Monday Sharlie wondered whether Mr. Collins would say anything about a drive the following Saturday. All day Tuesday she kept on wondering about it.

By the time Wednesday came she gave up hope. Mr. Collins had either forgotten all about the drive or else he had made up his mind to be just as business-like with her as he always had been with Edna.

A little after four on Wednesday afternoon the telephone on Sharlie's desk rang. She picked up the receiver and said "Mr. Collins' secretary speaking" in her very best office voice.

"Is Mr. Collins in?" asked a very pretty feminine voice at the other end of the wire. "And if he is, will you ask him if Mrs. Wilmot may see him for a few minutes?"

VISITOR UNWELCOME

Then the voice added breathlessly: "I'm downstairs in the lobby, tell him."

Sharlie opened the door of Mr. Collins' office. "Mrs. Wilmot is downstairs in the lobby and wants to know if she may run up to see you for a moment, Mr. Collins.

"Oh, for lord's sake!" He make a jerky movement with one hand and began to scowl.

"Yeah, tell her to come up," he said gruffly. He threw down his pencil upon the desk. "If she's still here in fifteen minutes call me up from the other office and remind me that I have an engagement."

"But you haven't one," Sharlie began and he interrupted her.

"Well, you can say I have, can't you?" he asked impatiently and he was saying something under his breath about women who butted in on a man's working hours as Sharlie closed the door.

After that Sharlie was not prepared for the very beautiful woman who opened the door of her office three minutes later and announced herself as Mrs. Wilmot. She was very blonde and her skin was amazingly white against the black suit and hat she wore. Two little rings of red-gold hair showed on either side of her hat and there were pearls in her ears. Her eyes were deep blue and she had the kind of scarlet lips that are always slighted parted and moist-looking.

SHARLIE INTERRUPTS

Mr. Collins opened the door of his office for her and Sharlie heard his saying, "Hello, Gracie, how are you?" as the door closed upon the pair of them.

It was 15 minutes after 4. Five, 10, 15 minutes dragged by, and the door remained closed. At 27 minutes to 5 Sharlie picked up the telephone on her desk and told Mr. Collins that he had an engagement at that time.

"Thanks," Miss Dunn. I'll be through here in five minutes," he said shortly and hung up his receiver with a sharp click.

But it was 10 minutes longer before the door opened and Mrs. Wilmot came out. Her cheeks were pinker than they had been when she went in, and it seemed to Sharlie that she stared at her as she crossed the little room with Mr. Collins.

"Well, goodbye, Col-Col," she said in her pretty fluting voice to him. "I'm sorry about tonight. You'll call me up soon?"

"In a day or two, Gracie." And Mr. Collins closed the door upon her.

He came back into the office and sat down on a corner of Sharlie's desk, his hand in his pockets and a wide grin on his ruddy face.

SLOW TO ANSWER

"Why do all women suspect men of being in love with their secretaries?" he asked her.

"Do they?" Sharlie was startled and embarrassed. She felt herself flushing, and she found it hard to look at Mr. Collins.

"Mrs. Wilmot does. I told her that you weren't my secretary . . . that you were just pinch-hitting for my secretary while she was away. But, I don't think she believed me."

He stopped talking and went on looking at Sharlie as if he were waiting for her to make some kind of answer to him. But she couldn't think of a thing to say and stared up at him, feeling very stupid and rattled. A minute that seemed like an eternity went by . . .

"If she's ever worked for you, herself, she'd know that the girls in your office are just so many workers in your eyes, and nothing else?" Sharlie said at last, pulling herself together. The sound of her own voice cleared her brain, and she went on firmly:

"I've been here almost a year, and I've almost made up my mind that you're what's called 'a man's man'. All you think about, it seems to me, is this office and fishing and hunting and playing golf . . ."

"I think about you sometimes. Quite often, as a matter of fact," Mr. Collins broke in upon her words.

THE LOADING OF AN ORE BOAT AT THE DOCK (Chemistry)

The ore is allowed to flow from the dock pockets, containing a mixture of various gradings of ore, into the hatches of the steamer, the ore being thus mixed again for sake of uniformity of product. The so-called dock-pockets are chutes into which the ore of varying grades had been delivered previously.

HEATING EFFECT OF CURRENT

Electrical resistance transforms electrical energy into heat like mechanical resistance (friction) transforms mechanical energy into heat. The quantity of the energy before and after transformation is unchanged. So when electricity is passing through a resistance, the developed heat (in calories) will be equal with the consumed electrical power in watts multiplied with the duration of the current in seconds and with one conversion factor. Watts = amps. x volts; volts = amps x ohms (Ohms law) so watts = amps x amps x ohms and calories = amps x amps x ohms x seconds x conv. fact. Talking in kilogram calories the conv. fact. = 0.00024 and Cal. = 0.00024 x amps x amps x ohms x seconds. (Joule's law). It can be verified by the calorimeter shown. The coil C of known resistance R (in ohms) is submerged in M kilogram water. Direct current is led from a source of constant electromotive force through coil C; the constant intensity A can be read on the ammeter. The temperature of the water will rise after t seconds with T centigrades. The developed heat in kilogram calories will correspond to that computed by Joule's law: T x M = 0.00024 x A x A x R x t. Today Should Be Respected

Although there doesn't seem to be any special holiday today, yet April 28 looms large in the history of the world.

Going back through history and a lot of other unpaid bills we find that this day is famous for the following historic events in past years.

It was on this day that the archives' most intrepid citizen ate the first oyster.

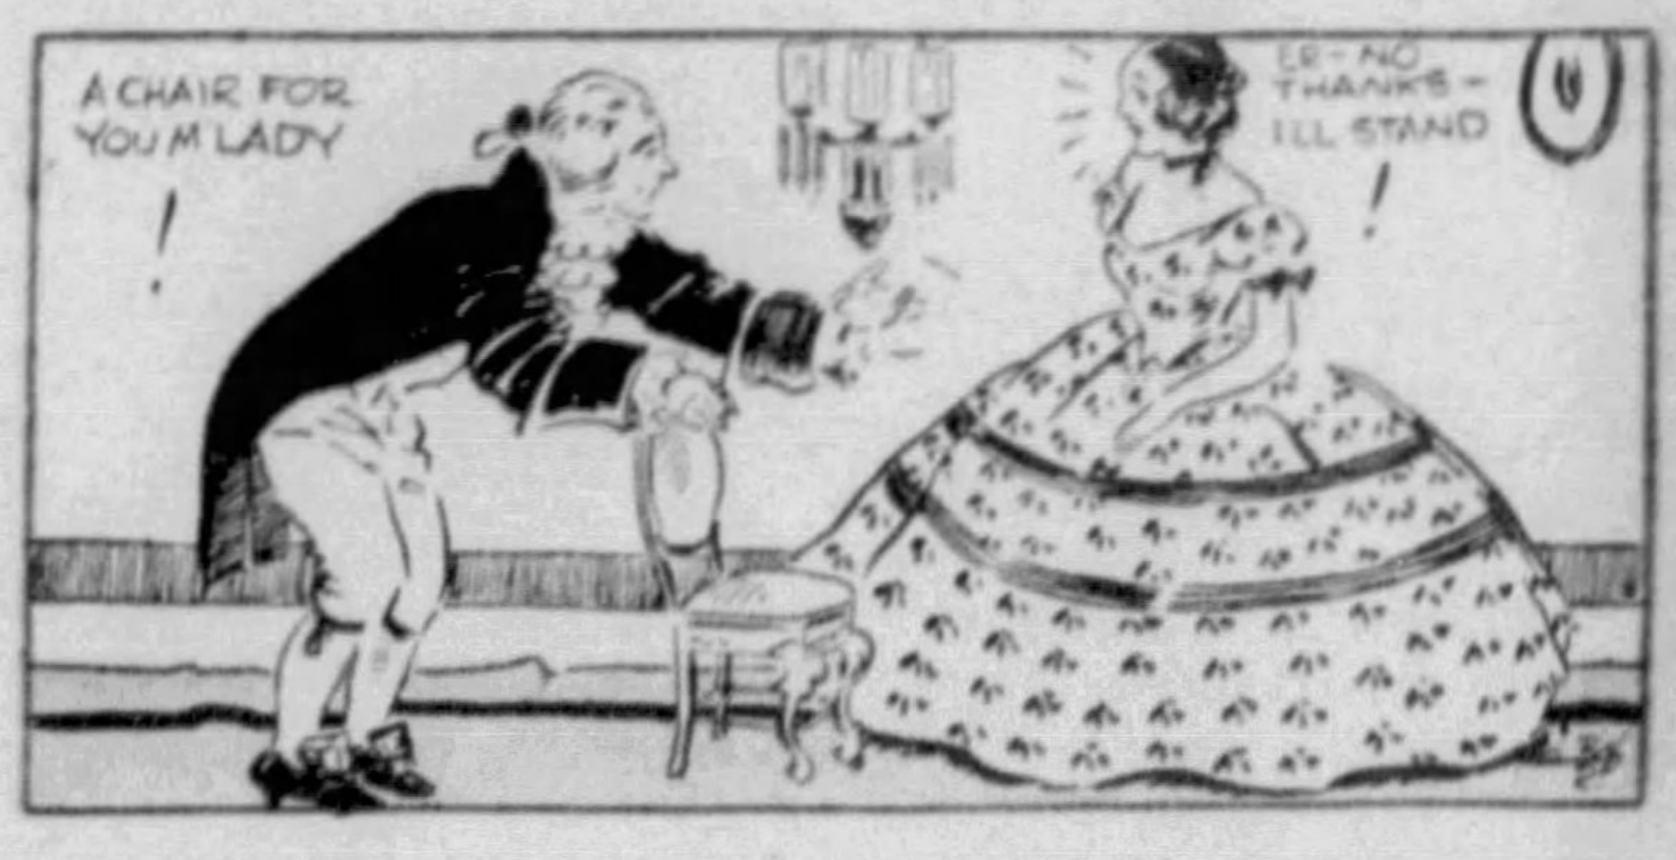
Rameses the Third finished a long race starting and winding up in the same position. Said he expected to do better the next season if he could get a good first baseman.

London saw its first umbrella just 200 years ago as its ribs crack. Created a sensation and a brewery hoss got tangled up in its shafts and backed the wagon off a wharf. Trouble was averted when the Sultan of Unkwar apologized.

Fulton thought about inventing something. It turned out to be a steamboat. But that wasn't what he was thinking about on April 28.

King of Sweden defeats Peter the Great for the seventh straight time and Pete says, "My cousin Charles is teaching me how to fight." If this statement had any truth about it, Bombardier Wells would have been champion long ago.



A CHAIR FOR YOU M'LADY
ER-NO THANKS-I'LL STAND

Caesar refuses to see Cleopatra. Cleo crashes the gate. She rolls herself up in a Persian rug and has a slave carry her in on his back. When the rug was opened the birds began to sing. We are printing this item for the benefit of struggling moving picture artists and the carpet industry. If it worked in Egypt it will work in Hollywood.

Up until this day the tomato was known as the love apple and was thought to be poisonous. A man ate one by mistake. If you don't think it has grown into a great industry try and stop it.

The first baseball game was tried out in Troy. It was known as "one old cat." Col. Ruppert and Babe Ruth divided the kittens among them.

All of which proves that the most inconspicuous day has had its moments. Tomorrow night, East Lynne and country store. Holders of fortunate tickets will get prizes.

If Congress believes that a change in the gold content of the dollar is necessary, CONGRESS should fix the new value of the dollar.

It should not grant this power to the President.

The proposal in the administration's inflation bill allowing the President, at his discretion, to change the gold value of the dollar to a maximum change of 50 per cent of its present gold backing, would be another and most improper surrender of the fundamental prerogatives of Congress.

The Congress cannot conscientiously abdicate any more of its powers to the President.

It is expressly stated in the Constitution that the Congress, and it alone, shall have power ''to coin money'' and ''regulate the value thereof.''

Suppose that the President is given this enormous power.

There is no reason for questioning the wholehearted desire of the President to fulfill in every respect the obligations and opportunities of his high office.

But granting him power to change the dollar's value at his sole discretion would create another period of damaging uncertainty for the whole business world.

No one would know for a certainty just what the new standard of value is in this country.

Essential lending, to municipalities, to states, to corporations, to individuals will be unnecessarily delayed.

A vast new and overwhelming doubt will invade the already stricken business of the country. Commerce will be at the mercy of this great uncertainty concerning the true value of a ''new dollar.''

They must not surrender their constitutional rights.

The Democrats will have to account to the country for their stewardship of the ship of state.

It is not a question of offending their party leader.

They are turning over to the President discretionary power over a problem which may cancel every bit of good that has been accomplished since the Democrats returned to power.

They can re-establish their constitutional authority over the money of the land by THEMSELVES setting the new standard of the gold dollar, if Congress deems such a step essential to the restoration of economic peace in the United States.

Congress must see the light.

The Economic Parleys

The current interchanges of views at Washington with representatives of foreign countries constitute a friendly gesture.

Yet the question arises whether or not such amicable conversations can reverse the economic currents which have been constricting international trade.

For some nations, export trade may be a matter of life or death, yet the international propaganda that big foreign trade is necessary and desirable for all nations may be grossly misleading.

The United States has within its own confines practically all of the resources needed for a high degree of prosperity.

On the other hand, newly-created states in Eastern Europe, including deflated Austria, are not sufficiently endowed with natural resources to be self-contained.

Accordingly, the import quotas and exchange and trade restrictions which have been set up in Eastern Europe may be intolerable barriers there, yet the same logic does not apply to the United States, which normally carries on within its own borders one-half of the total trade of the world.

When the American tariff policy is approached from the standpoint of definite statistics, the suggestion of Secretary of State Hull that our tariff rates should be lowered seems especially dangerous.

Thus far, the preliminary conversations at Washington have been scheduled with our international competitors, rather than with those with whom we can trade on a rational basis.

With all the leading nations now well equipped with industrial technique, there is little opportunity for profitable interchange among such nations of manufactured goods which can be produced at home.

Even in the peak years of 1927-29, American exports constituted only 6 per cent of the net national income, and perhaps only 3 per cent of the country's gross business.

Accordingly, the beautiful sentiments which constitute the agenda for the forthcoming international economic conference threaten the safety of our home market, which represents 94 per cent of our total business.

Examining the actual international balance sheet, instead of following the prevailing literary will o' the wisp doctrines concerning foreign trade, Samuel Crowther, in the Saturday Evening Post, concludes:

> "Since we do not really need to buy much from abroad, our purchases would be incidental to collecting our debts—which is an unpleasant fact that should cause considerable consternation in foreign circles. Similarly, our exports would have to be put into the purely incidental class as far as the national welfare is concerned, and the amount would be determined by the international balance sheet."

If we turn away from free trade because we are unwilling to drag down our wage levels to the pauperized standards prevailing in many other countries, then we must find an outlet for our productive power in an expanded home market.

This entails a determined fight against poverty and low living standards at home.

Abandoning forced efforts to get an artificial volume of foreign trade, we shall find prosperity in raising the buying power of our own people.

Such a course would not only be one of hard common sense, but it would also satisfy our genuine humanitarian longings.

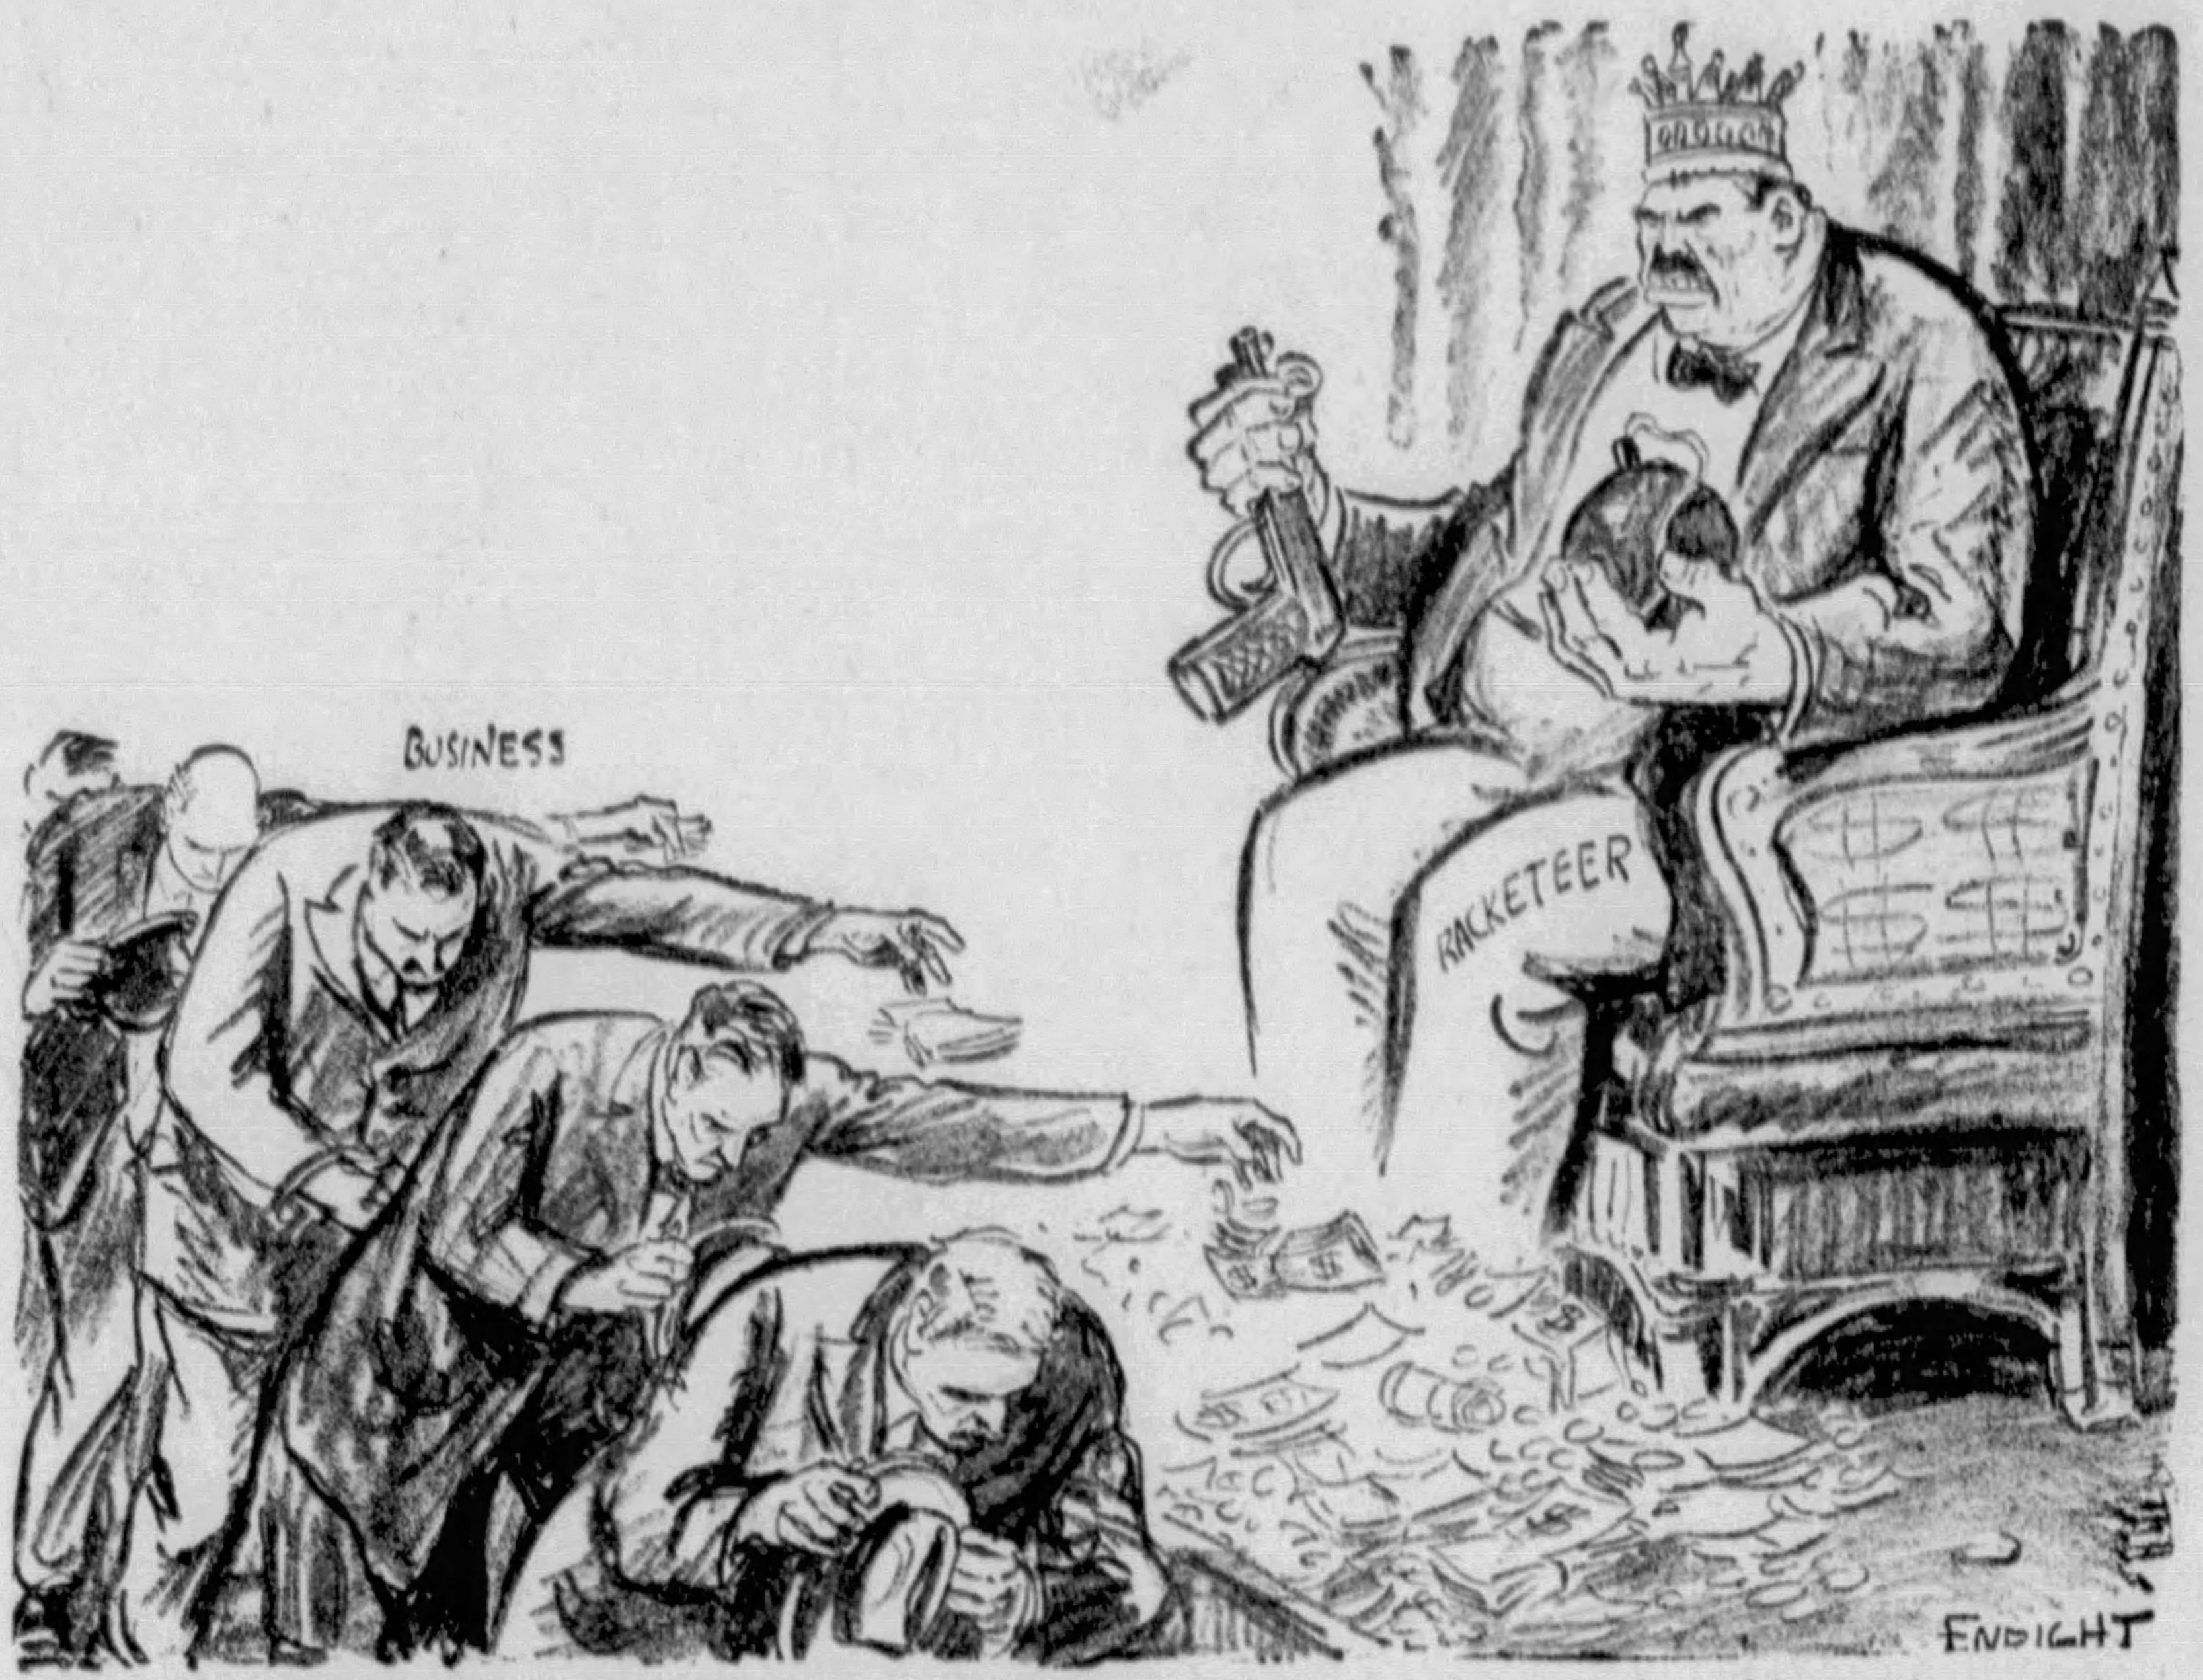
Tribute

(Copyright, 1933.)



Prohibition enabled the Racketeer to flourish and grow fat, and to extend his dominion. But Prohibition is on the way out, and the Racketeer threatens to remain.

Disclosures in city after city have shown that honest business has permitted itself to be bullied and blackmailed into paying tribute to rascals.

The thing can be stopped—and it must be stopped.

Courage on the part of businessmen and vigor on the side of the law will put an end to racketeering.

Lawlessness cannot thrive if communities are determined that it shall not thrive.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 28.—Thoughts while strolling: John Ringling and Jacob Ruppert bear a resemblance. So do A. C. Blumenthal and Barney Gallant. And Claudette Colbert and Grace Menken. Lovely Rosamond Pinchot has such an important look. And John Garner's expression suggests frost-bite.

They tell me the elder Insull is chuckling in Greece with $20,000,000 in gold. Never heard an actor talk communism, and no guild has been so hard hit. Mayor O'Brien seems a little more popular than he was. Ogden Nash, a Savannah, Ga., boy, who made good in the city.

Whatever became of Eugene O'Brien? One of my favorite people—Boyden Sparkes. Those poising spouts of humanity geysered suddenly up from subways and looking bewildered. One word description of Konrad Bercovici—gypsyish. Have to look twice at Irene Franklin since she's no longer a red-head.

Evelyn Herbert's top notes remind me of falling rose petals. Who remembers when beer was outlawed? Sparkish girls who come out so brightly roughed at dinner time. No more evening saunterers like Captain Jim Churchill along Broadway. The crackling wits in front of Lindy's.

Milton Berle has Eddie Cantor's bugle eyeballs. Irritating to hear anyone save Britishers say "Cheerio." Nobody can look so waspish as Luella Gear. Or smile more genially. Business college sign: "One new idea and you're made!" All right—gravy-colored shirts with dinner clothes!

A short cut to "important" money on Broadway used to be the theatrical ticket brokerage shop. The big ones—McBride's, Tyson, etc.—had from 15 to 20 rapid-fire clerks answering a barrage of telephones. Many have shrunk to one man places. In the golden era even the hole-in-the wall spots often netted $500 a day. Aids were known as "diggers," types who stood in line to "scalp" at box offices.

* * *

Leo Newman is dean of the ticket agents and among the slight sprinkle of survivors. White-haired and seventyish, he has been a human divining rod for producers in out-of-town tryouts. He was the only one of his guild to agree "Abie's Irish Rose" was a "buy." Niched in a Broadway crevice, he has seen the Rialto expand from 14 theaters to 98. And suddenly deflate early this season to nine again.

* * *

At sundown now and then along an upper reach of Park avenue Col. E. M. House strolls with two frisky Cairns, gifts incidentally from his long-time friend, the late Will Hogg. Col. House in his 70's has the pink complexion of youth and his solemn eyes are clear as a bell. He was a sickly youth and his years have been a fight against invalidism, yet no other American has inconspicuously accomplished so much for his country. Or asked so little of it.

* * *

In an age of show offs and bow stealers the somber attenuations of Col. House are heartening. Constantly hugging the shadows, he suggests a fresco of faithfulness. A gentleman who circumvents by gentleness. A celebrity who refuses to celeb!

Recently I had tea in an Elsie DeWolf decorated duplex in that apartment area once Millionaire's Row. It is occupied by a moving picture attorney and expressed a grandeur in simplicity I have never seen in the French-modern decor. The only bizarre note was a tiger skin carpet up the circular stairway. The dining room by a process of indirect lighting gives the impression of golden sunshine. The master bedroom is in a quilting of ceil blue, indirectly lighted, and with an enormous bed that to my bourgeoise mind suggested a morning romp with about a dozen dogs. Off this bedroom was a powder room entirely of mirrors. And fragile dressing table and spindly chairs edged in chromium. In glancing over this I see no reason for not mentioning right out in the first place it was the apartment of the Robert Rubins.

After this peep into how the other half lives it was so cheerful to return to the slums. But in a way there was compensation. For in the most comfortable chair in my workshop a rather celebrated author was stretched out under a reading lamp enjoying a lycanthropic horror called "The Werewolf of Paris" and an enormous cigar. What is more, he had removed both his No. 11s, which is referred to in my crotch of the creek as "favoring your feet."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Once upon a time the following letter would have belonged in a sob column. Now it's Front Page News, sharing importance with President Roosevelt's latest Unemployment Plans. And here's betting that it raises as big a riot as any fracas ever staged in Washington!

What's it all about? Brides! That doesn't sound exciting, does it? But wait a minute.

It's not about the old-fashioned, orange-wreath-and-tulle, clinging-vine type of a bride, whom Grandpa wooed and wed back in 1883, or Dad adored in 1903. No indeedy!

THE LADY UNDER DISCUSSION IS A BRAND NEW 1933 MODEL—A SIXTEEN CYLINDER SELF-STARTER, WITH ALL THE TRICK SHIFTS, GUARANTEED TO TAKE ALL HILLS ON HIGH — AND SUPPORT HER HUSBAND AS WELL AS HERSELF IN THE STYLE TO WHICH HE HAS BEEN ACCUSTOMED.

What's this all about? Is it a newspaper publicity stunt? It is not! It is the actual suggestion of an honest-to-goodness young man who believes that marriage, like all other social institutions, should keep step with the times. And, believe it or not, thousands of upstanding gentlemen and two-fisted young ladies will heartily indorse his ideas!

Briefly, those ideas boil down to this—

SHOULDN'T BRIDES, AS WELL AS GROOMS BE REQUIRED TO HAVE A PROFESSION OR TRADE, SO THEY COULD DO THEIR SHARE IN CARRYING THE FAMILY LOAD?

AND ISN'T IT JUST AS SILLY AND RECKLESS, IN THIS DAY AND AGE, FOR ROMEO TO MARRY A JOBLESS JULIET AS IT WOULD BE FOR JULIET TO MARRY A JOBLESS ROMEO?

Snort, if you will, but that's J. C.'s proposition—and here's his letter.

Dear Miss Robinson—

A group of us—young men and women who all work in the same office—have been having an argument. It started when I began going with a certain young lady. She is a lovely girl, and I would like to marry her, but here's the point—

My new girl friend has never worked. She is 22 years old, and has always depended solely on her parents for support. She knows no profession or trade, and she would be utterly helpless if I died or lost my job. She is an only child, raised by devoted parents—sentimental Southern people who still think we're living in 1883 instead of 1933.

Also—and this point seems to me as important as the financial part—she has no conception of what modern business means, or any way of understanding my life.

Now, I'm deeply in love with this girl. To tell the truth, I can't think much of anything else—and yet I'm forced to. Marriage for us young people of today is so much more serious than it was for our fathers and mothers. From the way they talk, I gather that everybody sort of lived in one big family when they were youngsters, and that, if a young couple didn't have much, the old folks gave them a hand.

BUT YOU KNOW HOW THINGS HAVE CHANGED. WE'RE RIGHT UP AGAINST IT—AND I DON'T MEAN MAYBE—IF WE LOSE OUR JOBS TODAY. SO DARE I TAKE THE RISK OF MARRYING AN ENTIRELY HELPLESS, IGNORANT GIRL, NO MATTER HOW MUCH I LOVE HER?

Naturally I suppose any regular fellow wants to support his wife. Most men still have a feeling of pride about that. But, as I said before, we are forced to look at things in the modern way; and I can't help thinking of what the consequences will be if I marry a girl like Mary. It seems to me that such a girl is actually a "bad risk" in matrimony—and most of my friends agree with me.

THEY SAY THAT IT IS AS SILLY AND AS DANGEROUS FOR A MAN TO MARRY A WOMAN WITHOUT A JOB, OR AT LEAST THE TRAINING FOR ONE, AS IT WOULD BE FOR A GIRL TO MARRY A JOBLESS MAN.

They go even further.

THEY SAY THAT IT IS AS DISGRACEFUL FOR A WOMAN TO BE IDLE AS IT IS FOR A MAN; AND THAT NO SELF-RESPECTING GIRL SHOULD WANT TO BE SUPPORTED IN IDLENESS.

Of course, after she had children, that's different—though it's more necessary then than ever that she should know some trade, in case anything happens to the father.

That is what most of us think in this office, and you can see for yourself how it mixed up things about my marriage. For of course, Mary is terribly hurt because I feel that way, and her father and mother are so shocked that they have ordered me to keep away from the house.

AND A FEW OF MY FRIENDS AGREE WITH THEM. THEY SAY THAT A FELLOW WHO WOULD EXPECT HIS WIFE TO WORK IS NOTHING BUT A COMMON TRAMP.

So we all wonder what your opinion will be on this subject.

J. C.

My opinion is just one vote, son—and this problem is too big to end with that. I'm going to give you a bigger break by submitting it to all the traffic.

And this means YOU!

Here's a new problem which is as important and as inevitable as any issue which has ever faced the Human Race. It isn't "silly kid stuff"—and a passing flurry due to a temporary economic upset—nor can it be brushed away. It's a serious—perhaps the most serious—part of the job which we all must face in rebuilding our world. And it will affect every home, every man, woman and child.

So what do YOU think about it? If you were young again and about to marry, would YOU marry an ignorant, helpless, untrained girl, no matter how lovely she was?

If J. C. were your son, or Mary your daughter, would YOU wish them to mate? And what chances do you think they would have, if they did mate?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Questioners

Who are you and I to flout
What we see of life, to doubt
Plan and planner and to grope,
Blindly, for a better hope?
All creation else is glad
For its portion, never sad
Is the finch or lark that song
May not last the summer long.
Or the rose that it can stay
Only for a night and day.
Who can fancy any brute
Would the universe dispute?
Lion padding to his lair,
Eagle soaring high in air,
Turtle in his painted shell,
Through these creatures life flows well.
Only those like you and I
Dare to question destiny;
We, who call ourselves the wise,
Stand rebuking earth and skies!
We, for whom the feast is spread,
Choose a bitter crust, instead!

Text for Today

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.—Matthew, v:9.

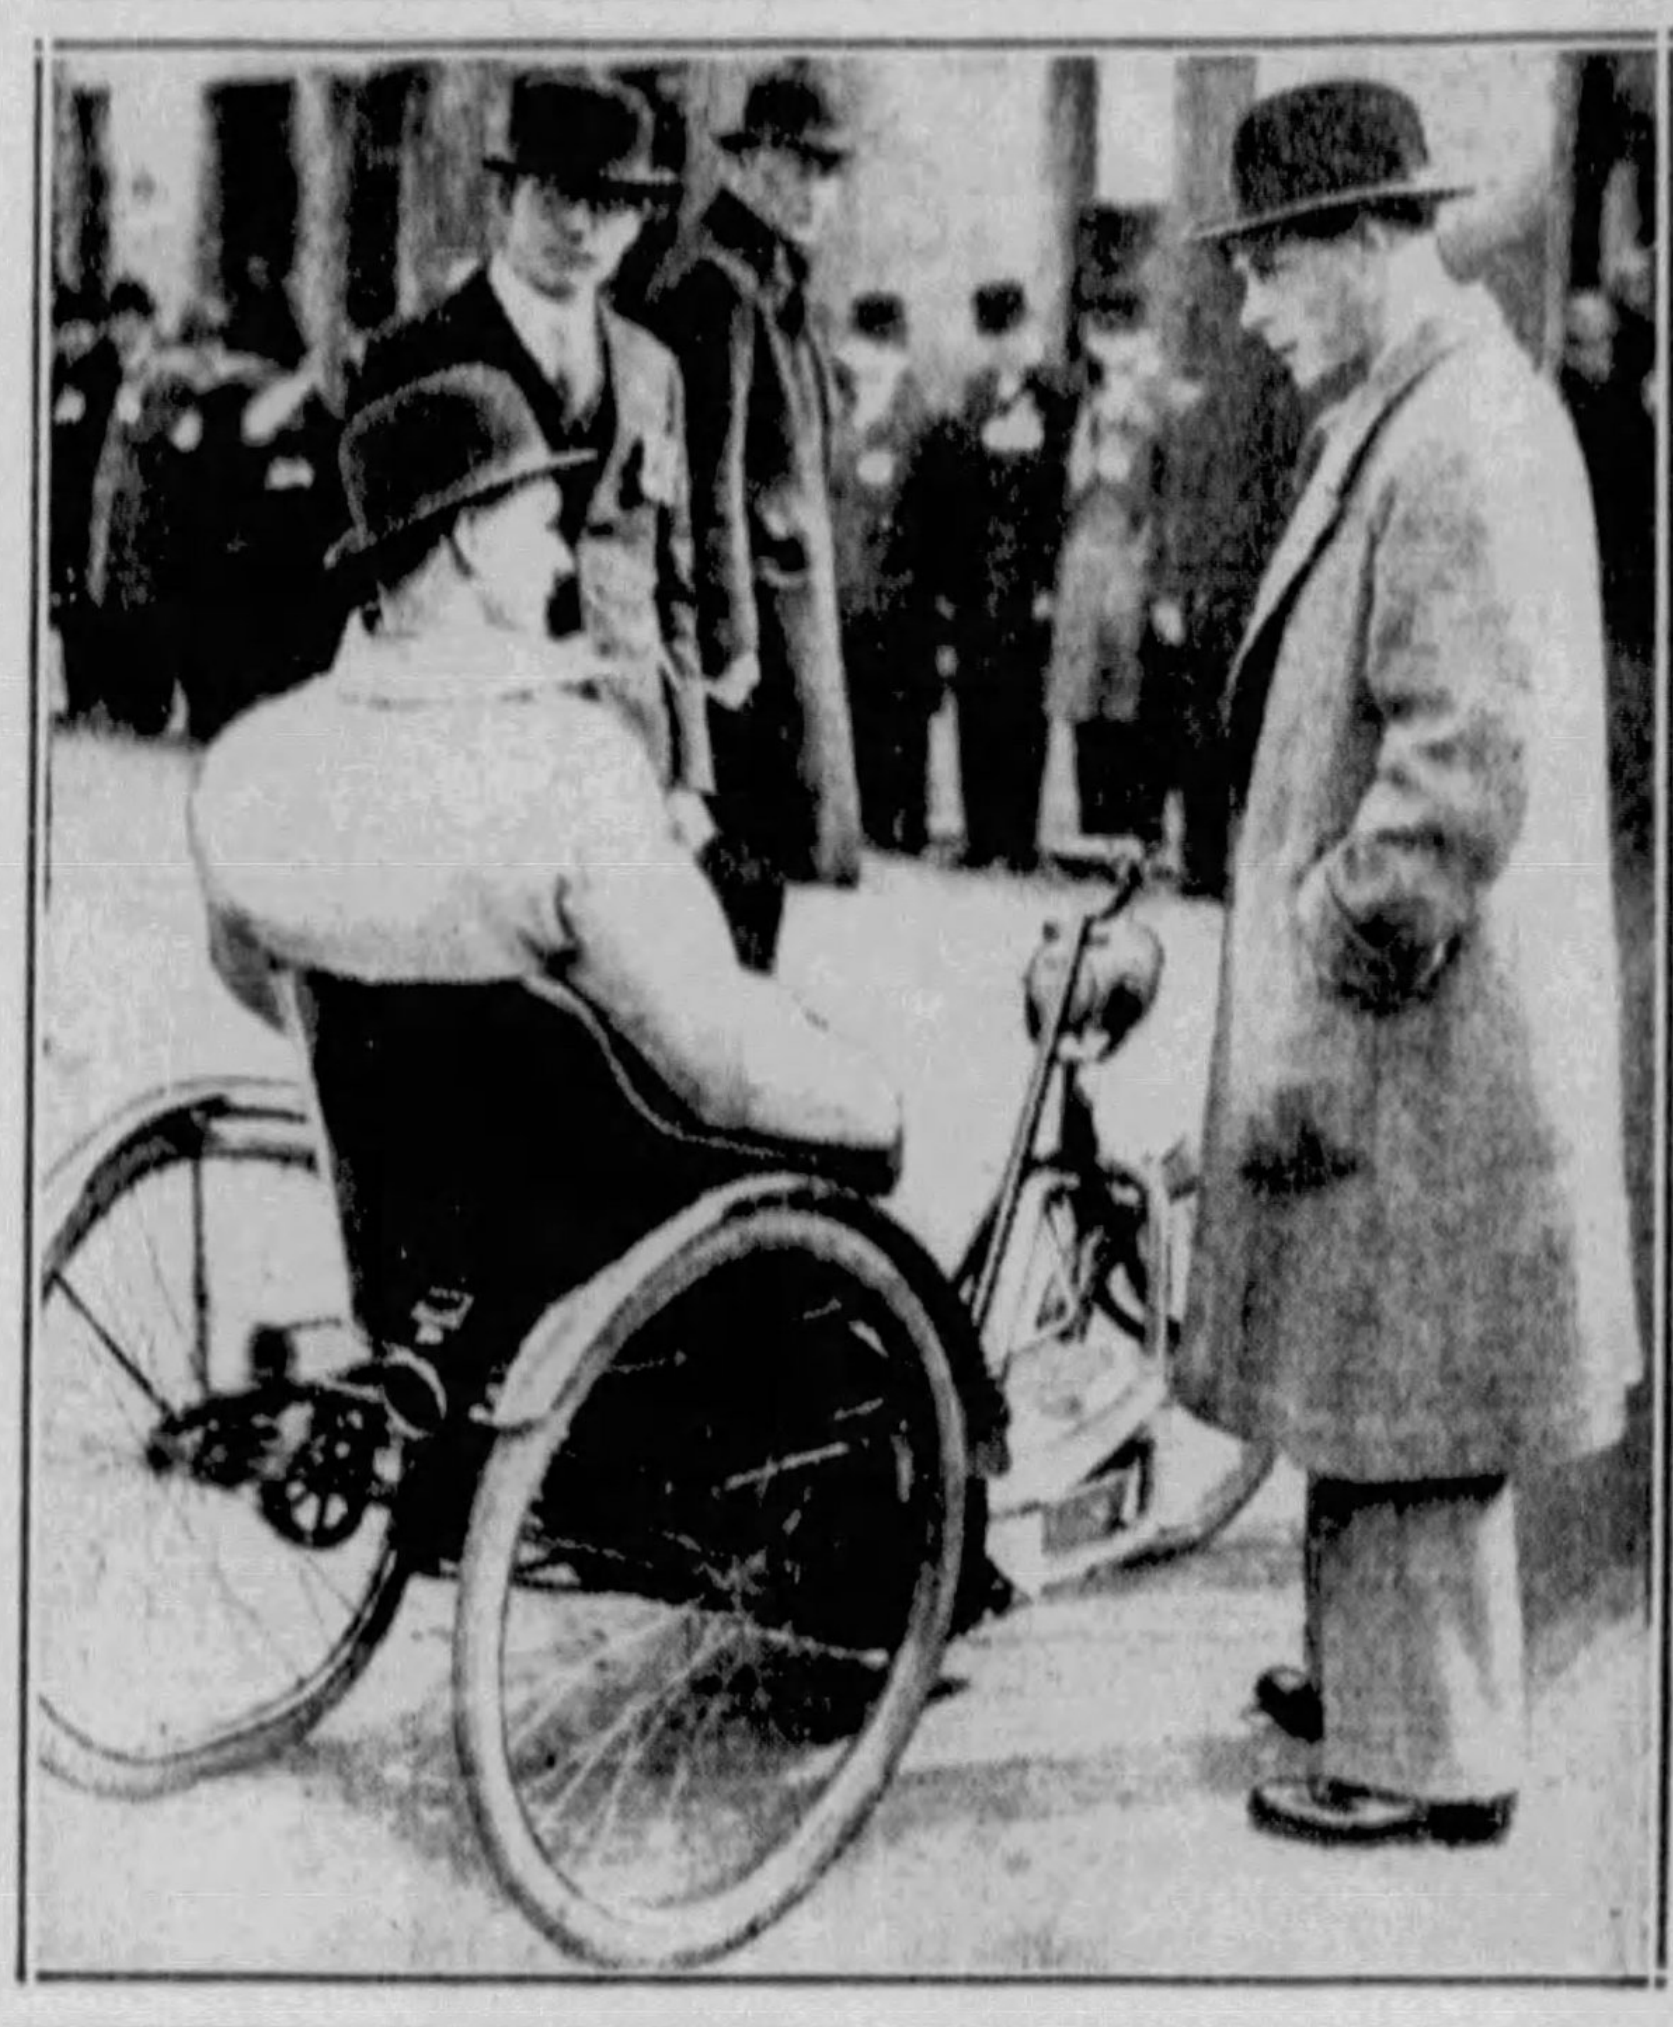
The Prince's Kind Heart

Also a Chance to Study This Year's British Fashions.



THE PRINCE AND A CRIPPLED SOLDIER

The Prince of Wales, on the right of this picture, talking sympathetically with an injured British soldier, attends well to the job that he has on hand. He travels constantly among the unemployed, telling them with the sincerity that you see in his face here: ''The one wish of my life is that it will not be very long before you all have a job again.''

The poor veteran in the wheel chair, ''Private'' Preston, formerly of the British army, can never hold much of a job. The war took away that possibility from him. But if he had the chance, he could work with his head and his hands and make a decent living. Only after a war ends do we realize what war means. THIS CRIPPLE KNOWS.

This picture shows how well the British royal family attend to their job, with common sense and sincerity. In their sincerity lies the security of British royalty, and its permanence.

The picture also enables those of lighter mind, who notice the first robin and then begin to think about a spring suit, to gather information as to what should be worn, if you want to ''look like the Prince of Wales.'' You learn here that you could do it quite easily, without great expense. Nothing very elaborate marks the Prince's costume. The coat looks ready-made, and, by the way, ready-made coats are exactly as good as the other kind, often BETTER, and cost less. The trousers are on the ''baggy'' order, but not quite ''slacks.'' The shoes with low heels, thick soles, indicate common sense. The collar turned down, loose, not pressing against the big blood vessels in the neck, also indicates common sense.

The stiff ''bowler'' hat, which Americans call ''a derby,'' will probably make the Prince bald earlier than he might have been. But it is the FASHION, and when a thing is the fashion nothing else matters.

Perhaps these are not the fanciest clothes the Prince possesses. He would not ''dress up'' to go among injured men of the British army, and among the discouraged unemployed.

However, the important thing is not so much to ''dress like the Prince of Wales,'' as to act like the Prince of Wales, and show sympathy with the unfortunate.

At the same time, young men should remember the importance of neatness, and good taste, in dress. First impressions are most important, and the first APPEARANCE creates the first IMPRESSION.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

It is unkind and usually unjust when the shortcomings of a child are blamed on the parent, one or the other, or upon some ancestral stock.

"There never were any of our family who demonstrated such characteristics," and "that child never got that from my side of the house" are accusations sometimes heard in certain homes.

The implication is obvious, of course.

It is more than likely, whoever you are, that you have enough meanness in your makeup to cause your child to be far from what it should be, if truth were told.

And as far as what might be inherited from ancestors, why maintain that only your own ancestors were impeccable?

That should be taken into consideration before marriage, not after.

Most men marry for peace after daily labor, and there must be mutual understanding for peace as well as a desire to please, such as love gives.

If your love is enough to believe that the other is always right, then there won't be much faultfinding.

But to blame your life partner for certain disagreeable characteristics that may be offshoots of your own disposition is very unfair.
